Liberating Exegesis Christopher Rowland, Mark Corner, 1989-01-01 This important book provides a sampling of liberation theology's use of biblical texts relating it to the standard methods of interpretation in Europe and America. Divided into four sections, the book sets out contemporary readings of the parable of Jesus influenced by a liberationist perspective, identifies the biblical and theoretical foundations of liberation theology, comparing them with the dominant exegetical paradigm in the first world, explores the way in which liberation exegesis affects reading the canonical accounts of Jesus, and argues that liberation theology cannot be seen solely as a third world phenomenon. Cultural Interpretation Brian K.

Blount, 2004-07-09 Building on insights into the social functions of language, especially its interpersonal dimensions, Blount constructs a culturally sensitive model of interpretation that provides a sound basis for ethnographic and popular as well as historical-critical readings of the biblical text. Blount's framework does more than acknowledge the inevitability of multiple interpretations; it foments them. His analysis demonstrates the social intent of every reading and shows the influence of communicative context in such diverse readings of the Bible as Rudolf Bultmann's, the peasants of Solentiname, the Negro spirituals, and black church sermons. Then Blount turns to Mark's account of the trial of Jesus, where he shows how this hermeneutical scheme helps to assess the emergence and validity of multiple readings of the text and the figure of Jesus.

Footprints of God Charles E. Van Engen, Nancy Thomas, Robert Gallagher, 2011-07-27 Twenty-five doctoral students from around the world recently set out to forge a new path toward a theology of mission. As they blazed a new trail, they discovered the footprints of God: evidence that God was their trial guide. Charles Van Engen led this group of mission practitioners—pastors, teachers, and mission executives—as they set out to discover answers to important questions such as: What is theology of mission? and What is missiology? The team used a new approach to answer these questions, employing narrative to integrate personal story, community stories, cultural stories, and biblical stories. Each writer brings his or her own unique context to bear on these important questions through personal story and by highlighting the work of a major missiologist who has impacted their life and work. By drawing from personal stories, the authors show how human factors affect missiology. All of the chapters are set within a unique theological framework created by Charles Van Engen that focuses on mission of the way, mission in the way, and mission on the way. This framework reveals that mission must be of the way: Christ-centered in the way, happening among the peoples and cultures of the world, and on the way moving forward over time through God's people as they anticipate Christ's present and coming kingdom. If you are concerned about connecting the Bible, theology, and ministry with the complexity and variety of contexts facing Christians today, then you will want to join this journey to discover the footprints of God. As Van Engen says, you will be encouraged to think theologically about mission and missiologically about theology. Culture, Human Rights and Peace in Central America George F. McLean, Raul Molina, Timothy Ready, 1989
