Gothic The Age Of The Cathedral:

Gothic: the Age of the Cathedral Paul Simonsen, 1970 High Gothic Günther Binding, 1999 We can only begin to understand the spirit of the Gothic through an understanding of the historical sociological theological economic and technological background in this time of change Given this we can then start to read Gothic cathedrals like the pages of a book BOOK JACKET The Cathedral Age ,1926 The Outline of Knowledge: The romance of the arts, by F. H. Martens James Albert Richards, 1924 Cathedral Age ,1928 Architecture in Communion Steven J. Schloeder, 1998 Amid the growing dissatisfaction with Catholic church architecture since the Second Vatican Council and the general lack of clear and vibrant direction in liturgy this book responds to the timely question of How ought we build our churches Drawing upon the texts of the Second Vatican Council recent papal encyclicals and the Catechism of the Catholic Church Schloeder examines this question in depth with regard to history theology iconography and symbolism Schloeder seeks not merely to analyze why modern churches are so uninspiring but he offers positive direction for the renewal of an authentic Catholic architecture one that respects the traditions of the Church s magnificent artistic heritage while advancing the vision of the Second Vatican Council The key to the solution is to regain a sacramental vision of the liturgy and of architecture a vision that will help us to build churches that nurture the human spirit with beauty and meaning The Outline of Knowledge: The romance of the arts James Albert Richards, 1924 Shivers Down Your Spine Alison Griffiths, 2013-04-23 From the architectural spectacle of the medieval cathedral and the romantic sublime of the nineteenth century panorama to the techno fetishism of today s London Science Museum humans have gained a deeper understanding of the natural world through highly illusionistic representations that engender new modes of seeing listening and thinking What unites and defines many of these wondrous spaces is an immersive view an invitation to step inside the virtual world of the image and become a part of its universe if only for a short time Since their inception museums of science and natural history have mixed education and entertainment often to incredible eye opening effect Immersive spaces of visual display and modes of exhibition send shivers down our spines engaging the distinct cognitive and embodied mapping skills we bring to spectacular architecture and illusionistic media They also force us to reconsider traditional models of film spectatorship in the context of a mobile and interactive spectator Through a series of detailed historical case studies Alison Griffiths masterfully explores the uncanny and unforgettable visceral power of the medieval cathedral the panorama the planetarium the IMAX theater and the science museum Examining these structures as exemplary spaces of immersion and interactivity Griffiths reveals the sometimes surprising antecedents of modern media forms suggesting the spectator s deep seated desire to become immersed in a virtual world Shivers Down Your Spine demonstrates how immersive and interactive museum display techniques such as large video displays reconstructed environments and touch screen computer interactives have redefined the museum space fueling the opposition between public and private science and spectacle civic and corporate interests voice and text and life and death In her remarkable study of sensual spaces Griffiths explains why for centuries we keep coming back for more

Improvement Robert Friedel,2010-02-26 How technological change in the West has been driven by the pursuit of improvement a history of technology from plows and printing presses to penicillin the atomic bomb and the computer Why does technology change over time how does it change and what difference does it make In this sweeping ambitious look at a thousand years of Western experience Robert Friedel argues that technological change comes largely through the pursuit of improvement the deep rooted belief that things could be done in a better way What Friedel calls the culture of improvement is manifested every day in the ways people carry out their tasks in life from tilling fields and raising children to waging war Improvements can be ephemeral or lasting and one person s improvement may not always be viewed as such by others Friedel stresses the social processes by which we define what improvements are and decide which improvements will last and which will not These processes he emphasizes have created both winners and losers in history Friedel presents a series of narratives of Western technology that begin in the eleventh century and stretch into the twenty first Familiar figures from the history of invention are joined by others the Italian preacher who described the first eyeglasses the dairywomen displaced from their control over cheesemaking and the little known engineer who first suggested a grand tower to Gustav Eiffel Friedel traces technology from the plow and the printing press to the internal combustion engine the transistor and the space shuttle Friedel also reminds us that faith in improvement can sometimes have horrific consequences as improved weaponry makes warfare ever more deadly and the drive for improving human beings can lead to eugenics and even genocide The most comprehensive attempt to tell the story of Western technology in many years engagingly written and lavishly illustrated A Culture of Improvement documents the ways in which the drive for improvement has shaped our modern world Art Through the Ages Helen Gardner,1926 History of the Church: The Church in the Industrial age Hubert Jedin,John Patrick Dolan,1981 Dearborn Independent ,1925 Building Age ,1926 Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature ,1910 Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature Anna Lorraine Guthrie,Bertha Tannehill,Neltje Marie Tannehill Shimer,1910 The New International Encyclopaedia Daniel Coit Gilman,Harry Thurston Peck,Frank Moore Colby,1906 The New International Encyclopædia Daniel Coit Gilman,Harry Thurston Peck,Frank Moore Colby,1903
