Walsh, 2015-10-23 Barack Obama is the first African American President but the history of African Americans in the White House long predates him The building was built by slaves and African Americans have worked in it ever since from servants to advisors In charting the history of African Americans in the White House Kenneth T Walsh illuminates the trajectory of racial progress in the US He looks at Abraham Lincoln and his black seamstress and valet debates between President Johnson and Martin Luther King over civil rights and the role of black staff members under Nixon and Reagan Family of Freedom gives a unique view of US history as seen through the experiences of African Americans in the White House Organized White Women and the Challenge of Racial Integration, 1945-1965 Helen Laville, 2017-02-20 This monograph asserts that the troubled history of segregation within

American women's associations created a legacy of racial exclusivity and privilege. While acknowledging the progressive potential of women's associations and the extent to which they created a legitimate outlet for American women's public activism, it explores how and why such organizations failed to aid in issues of integration. Rather than being a historical accident or a pragmatic response to circumstance, this monograph demonstrates that white exclusivity and privilege was crucial to the authority and influence of these associations. Organized White Women and the Challenge of Race Relations examines the translation of what seemed on the surface to be relatively simple demands for racial integration into a far more significant and all-encompassing confrontation with the frequently hidden structures and practices of white privilege. Are There No Champions? Yes and No: a work in politics, public affairs, and the press exploring and contrasting acts of aggression, patriots for hire, characteristic of decorated false champions in the contemporary era, and acts of peace and life-risking courage of true champions, mainly women, two centuries earlier.
