Education for the knowledge society means new skills and knowledge are needed, and it means that lifelong learning has become a necessity. Higher education institutions are looking to e-learning to provide convenient and flexible access to high quality education and training that is needed to meet these emerging demands. Writing for E-learning Environments Katy Campbell, 2004-01-01 E-effective Writing for E-Learning Environments integrates research and practice in user-centered design and learning design for instructors in post-secondary institutions and learning organizations who are developing e-learning resources. The book is intended as a development guide for experts in areas other than instructional or educational technology; in other words, experts in cognate areas such as Biology or English or Nursing, rather than as a learning design textbook. The organization of the book reflects the development process for a resource course or program, from planning and development through formative evaluation, and identifies trends and issues that faculty or developers might encounter along the way. The account of the process of one faculty member's course development journey illustrates the suggested design guidelines. The accompanying practice guide provides additional
