

Myth #1: “France’s higher birth rate leads to higher potential growth.”

Truth: France’s fertility rate is higher than Germany’s, but 2017 and 2018 potential growth for Germany is higher than that for France.

Myth #2: “French productivity is higher due to higher unemployment.”

Truth: Even after adjusting for unemployment rate, France’s labor productivity is 1.4 percent higher.

Myth #3: “Fiscal austerity is stronger in Germany than in France.”

Truth: Since 2013, German public spending has increased at a pace more than twice that of France.

Myth #4: “France lost the competitiveness race to Germany.”

Truth: Between 2012 and 2017, after France decided to tackle its lagging competitiveness, German labor costs rose thrice as fast as those in France.

Myth #5: “German SMEs perform better than French ones.”

Truth: In terms of profit margins, France’s small and medium enterprises outperform Germany’s. In France, the profit margin is 3.1 percent; in Germany, it is only 2 percent.

Myth #6: “France is Germany’s main trading partner.”

Truth: Germany is France’s leading bilateral trade partner. But China, and not France, is Germany’s top bilateral trade partner.

Myth #7: “Because it is growing faster, Germany must be investing more than France.”

Truth: Since 2002, France’s total investment-to-GDP ratio - which indicates how much a country is investing in new equipment, technology and research - has been consistently above that of Germany.

Maquito,2024-12-10 One feature of this book is the clarification of the development mechanism of Asia as a regional economy for over half a century based on an Asian Economy Within the Global Economy approach that goes beyond the single country analytical framework. The development of emerging economies has caught the world's attention from the Newly Industrializing Countries or Newly Industrializing Economies of the 1980s to the BRICs entering this century. General economics cannot clarify the internal mechanism of the changing of newly industrialized economies led by Asia. This book clarifies such regional development structure by focusing on the direct investments of multinational firms and the importance of gradual changes of specific policies adopted by newly industrialized economies. Moreover, the book concretely deals with the US-China trade war and China's Belt and Road Initiative (BRI) as a problem of Asian economies. In so doing, the book not only perceives the structural change of the global economy as a structural change from a US-centric global economy of the twentieth century to a China-centric one but also focuses on the birthing of a new growth frontier in the world economy under a crisis brought about by a war for hegemony between the US and China. The investment initiative through China's BRI has prompted the investment competition between Japan and the US, which has made even stronger the possibility of giving birth to a new economic frontier in Afro-Eurasia. Another feature is the consideration of various issues that confront Asian countries in their search for economic development, using the Philippines as a case study. The analysis of the study points to the importance of a shared growth perspective which is based on an Asian development model and discusses the challenge of overcoming the issues of the economic development model within the region. At the same time, this book studies the significance and new issues as a region of the economy and overseas policies of attention drawn to China.

Economic Development in the 19th Century L. C. A. Knowles, 1948      National Intellectual Capital and the Financial Crisis in France, Germany, Ireland, and the United Kingdom Carol Yeh-Yun Lin, Leif Edvinsson, Jeffrey Chen, Tord Beding, 2013-08-30

In the first decade of the twenty-first century, the biggest event of worldwide proportion was the 2008 global financial crisis, which was caused primarily by ineffective governance, failed surveillance systems, and implementation flaws. While fiscal and monetary policies succeeded in pulling many countries out of a financial freefall, most economies have performed beneath pre-recession levels as governments continued to struggle with their finances. Examining the financial crisis from the viewpoint of intangible assets provides a different perspective from traditional economic approaches. National Intellectual Capital (NIC) comprised mainly of human capital, market capital, process capital, renewal capital, and financial capital is a valuable intangible asset and a key source of national competitive advantage in today's knowledge economy. The authors, pioneers in the field, present extensive data and a rigorous conceptual framework to analyze the connections between the global financial crisis and NIC development. Covering the period from 2005 to 2010 across 48 countries, the authors establish a positive correlation between NIC and GDP per capita and consider the impact of NIC investment for short-term recovery and long-term risk control and strategy formulation. Each volume in a series of SpringerBriefs on NIC and the financial crisis provides in-depth coverage of the impact of the crisis the aftermath future prospects and policy implications for a regional cluster This volume focuses on France Germany Ireland and the United Kingdom
