The Economy of Icons Ernest Sternberg, 1999-09-30 Though many still think that we live in an information economy Ernest Sternberg asserts that the driving force in 21st century capitalism is not information but image Through studies of food processing real estate development tourism movies and labor performances he examines how businesses endow products with evocative meaning It has become common wisdom that we live in a postindustrial information society in which data and calculation underlie wealth But now that information is as routinely produced as industrial or agricultural goods businesses are discovering that they best achieve competitive advantage by producing what consumers most dearly seek personal meaning The 21st century economy produces just that not merely information but evocative images not just commodities but meaning laden icons As Sternberg shows foods now appeal through their sensuality and nostalgia houses and stores draw customers through their exoticism people sell their labor through the deliberate performance of the self for the market and tourist destinations offer up carefully crafted thematic experiences Whereas farms factories and information processors once stood at the core of the economy now movie studios do producing the product valued above all meaningful content from which downstream firms acquire the themes that animate desire Now that meaning pervades production Sternberg argues modes of inquiry once reserved for the humanities make sense in the study of the economy Drawing on art history and aesthetics he introduces iconography as a mode of cultural analysis adapted to the study of commercial production Through comparative studies of diverse economic sectors ranging from food processing to tourism Sternberg carries out an iconographic analysis of the new economy This is a provocative study for scholars students and professionals dealing with marketing and consumer research culture and media studies socio economics and economic geography

The Business of Ethnography Brian Moeran, 2021-01-07 Can an anthropologist help us understand the world of business Armed with this question veteran anthropologist Brian Moeran embarks on an in depth study of cultural production and creative industries in Japan At once the blundering ethnographer and shrewd observer Moeran is able to shed light not only on social behavior and human relations in general but more specifically on the importance of strategic exchange to all business practices Moeran's fieldwork rooted in participant observation of business life in communities and corporations leads him to an original theory of how business operates Culture is not all powerful Moeran shows Instead social structures strongly influence behavior At the heart of Moeran's analysis is a firm belief in fieldwork and ethnography terms much bandied about in business management and cultural studies but rarely undertaken in depth The Business of Ethnography not only provides a useful methodology for people studying or wishing to understand business but also acts as a clarion call for anthropologists to rethink their discipline beyond traditional fieldwork sites

Exploring Knowledge-Intensive Business Services Roberto Grandinetti, Barbara Di Bernardo, 2012-05-08 Provides an updated view of knowledge management strategies of knowledge intensive business services KIBS by focusing on how those firms manage innovation in their value chains and at the territorial level Offers an original analysis of key processes of KIBS specializing in design professional firms and information technology Jim Dator: A Noticer in Time Jim Dator,2019-08-19 This book features a selection of the published writings and public presentations of Jim Dator Most of the chapters are directly concerned with futures studies and ideas about the futures The topic covers many disciplines and subjects It is also concerned with many different parts of the world even Mars In addition a few of the earlier papers contained here are about more conventional topics in politics and religion The collection spans a more than 50 year period of thought reflection and instruction In particular the papers examine six main topics These include meditations on the very nature of future studies visions of preferred futures ideas about alternative futures and details on future theories and methods Coverage also considers such specific topics as AI and robots the environment food culture energy families future generations and more Overall these papers help readers gain insight into what it takes to weave together alternative images of the future in useful ways They also reveal cross disciplinary patterns in key fields of human endeavor that will help readers better understand trends and emerging issues Living Make-Belief: Thriving in a Dream Society Jim Dator,2024-05-27 This book shows how multiple developments have caused the world to move from an information society to a dream society Ongoing social and technological forces are pushing us from a world of words rationality and truth into a world of images performance and make belief Rather than deny or reject this transformation this book argues that one should understand and embrace it as waves of new futures that the world must strive to surf for fame and fun As a political scientist and futurist the author also offers hints of new goals and forms of governance fit for a dream society as he demonstrates that all current systems are ineffective and dangerously obsolete This book is of great interest to political philosophers futures scientists sociologists and those interested in cultural studies

Women Redefining the Experience of Food Insecurity Janet Page-Reeves, 2014-07-03 Women Redefining the Experience of Food Insecurity Life Off the Edge of the Table is about understanding the relationship between food insecurity and women's agency. The contributors explore both the structural constraints that limit what and how much people eat and the myriad ways that women creatively and strategically re-structure their own fields of action in relation to food, demonstrating that the nature of food insecurity is multi-dimensional. The chapters portray how women develop strategies to make it possible to have food in the cupboard and on the table to be able to feed their families. Exploring these themes, this book offers a lens for thinking about the food system that incorporates women as agentive actors and links women's everyday food-related activities with ideas about food justice, food sovereignty and food citizenship. Taken together, the chapters provide a unique perspective on how we can think broadly about the issue of food insecurity in relation to gender, culture, inequality, poverty and health disparity. By problematizing the mundane world of how women procure and prepare food in a context of scarcity, this book reveals dynamics, relationships and experiences that would otherwise go unremarked. Normally under the radar, these processes are embedded in power relations that demand analysis and demonstrate strategic individual action that requires recognition. All of the chapters provide a counter to caricatured notions that the choices women make are irresponsible or ignorant or that the lives of women from low-income, low-wealth communities are predicated on impotence and weakness. Yet the authors do not romanticize women as uniformly resilient or consistently heroic. Instead, they explore the contradictions inherent in the ways that marginalized, seemingly powerless women ignore, resist, embrace and challenge hegemonic patriarchal systems through their relationship with food.

Urban Design Reader Steve Tiesdell, Matthew Carmona, 2007-02-07

Essential reading for students and practitioners of urban design, this collection of essays introduces the 6 dimensions of urban design through a range of the most important classic and contemporary key texts. Urban design as a form of place-making has become an increasingly significant area of academic endeavour, of public policy and professional practice. Compiled by the authors of the best-selling Public Places, Urban Spaces, this indispensable guide includes all the crucial definitions and various understandings of the subject as well as a practical look at how to implement urban design that readers will need to refer to time and time again. Uniquely, the selections of essays that include the works of Gehl, Jacobs and Cullen are presented substantially in their original form and the truly accessible dip-in-and-out format will enable readers to form a deeper practical understanding of urban design.
