Real Academia de la Historia (España), 1852 Cartas al reloj Susana Lombos, 2022-09-13 cartas al reloj es como volcar el corazón sobre un papel Es como hablar a través del paso del tiempo Son retazos de momentos que he juntado a lo largo de toda mi vida desde niña en la escuela primaria donde hablaba a mis compañeras a mi perrito y hasta a la misma escuela donde asistía Después vinieron las épocas de la adolescencia y juventud con sus ilusiones y desvarios También al llegar a ser adulta dediqué algunas tiernas palabras a cada una de mis niñas Y ya ahora un poquito más adulta me he encontrado haciendo reflexiones o tratando de encontrar expresiones de sabiduría El reloj marca el paso del tiempo Y el tiempo marca el transcurso de nuestra vida Y lo bello es poder expresar a cada paso cada uno de nuestros sentimientos cartas al reloj es como hablarle al paso del tiempo con la suave delicadeza que tienen las rosas

Repertorio americano, 1923 Bismarck: Some Secret Pages of His History (Complete) Moritz Busch, The work which I now present to the German people contains a complete account of all the events of which I was a witness during my intercourse of over twenty years with Prince Bismarck and his entourage Part of it is not entirely new as I have embodied in it portions of the book published by me in 1878 under the title Prince Bismarck and his People during the Franco German War I have however restored the numerous passages which it was then deemed expedient to omit and I have also dispensed with the many modifications by which at that time certain asperities of language had to be toned down The bulk of the present work consists of a detailed narrative of the whole period of my intercourse with the Prince both before and after the French campaign I collected and noted down all these particulars respecting Prince Bismarck and his immediate supporters and assistants in the first place for my own use and secondly as a contribution to the character and history of the Political Regenerator of Germany The sole object of the diary which forms the basis of this work was to serve as a record of the whole truth so far as I had been able to ascertain it with my own eyes and ears Any other object was out of the question as it was impossible that I could desire to deceive myself Subsequently when I thought of publishing my notes I was fully conscious of my responsibility towards history the interests of which could not be promoted by material that had been coloured or garbled for party purposes I wished neither to be an eulogist nor a censor To my mind panegyric was superfluous and fault finding was for me an impossibility A tendency to the sensational is foreign to my nature and I leave the pleasure to be derived from grand spectacular shows to lovers of the theatre I desired to record the mental and other characteristics which our first Chancellor presented to me under such and such circumstances thus helping to complete and at times to rectify the conception of his whole nature that has been formed in the public mind from his political activity The profound reverence which I feel for the genius of the hero and my patriotic gratitude for his achievements have not deterred me from communicating numerous details which will be displeasing to many persons These particulars however are part of the historic character of the personality whom I am describing The gods alone are free from error passion and changes of disposition They alone have no seamy side and no contradictions Even the sun and moon show spots and blemishes but notwithstanding these they remain magnificent celestial orbs The picture produced out of the materials which I have here brought together may present harsh and rough features but it has hardly a single ignoble trait Its crudeness only adds to its truth to nature its individuality and its clearness of outline This figure does not float in an ethereal atmosphere it is firmly rooted in earth and breathes of real life yet it conveys a sense of something superhuman It must furthermore be remembered that many of the bitter remarks such as those made previous to March 1890 were the result of temporary irritation while others were perfectly justified The strong self confidence manifested in some of these utterances and the angry expression of that need for greater power and more liberty of action common to all men of genius and energetic character arose from the consciousness that while he alone knew the true object to be pursued and the fitting means for its achievement his knowledge could not be applied because the right of final decision on all occasions belonged by hereditary privilege to more or less mediocre and narrow minds
