Reading Comprehension: An Embarrassing Moment

Read the story carefully, then complete the tasks that follow:

It was a beautiful summer's day, so I decided to go to town to do some shopping and look for a birthday present for my best friend Natasha. I had been walking around the shops for nearly two hours when I started to feel a bit hungry. As I had finished all my shopping, I finally went into the Pound Shop and bought a big bag of crisps and a cold drink. All the benches in the town centre were occupied, so I thought I could walk to the little sitting area near our local library. I found a nice spot under a tree and sat there watching the people walk past. As I was taking out my drink and crisps, an old lady came over and sat next to me. After a few minutes, I realised that the old lady was taking some of my crisps and eating them. By this time, I was getting really annoyed because I thought she was being impolite for not asking me if she could have some. Hastily, I took a big handful and carried on eating. The old lady looked at me, grinned and took more crisps out of the bag. I then thought I had to eat more, before they finish. So, I took another big handful and then another until only a few were left at the bottom of the bag. The old lady then emptied the bag onto a tissue and gave it to me without a word. I didn't say anything either, but I was angry, really angry! Then she got up and left. As it was getting late, I picked up my shopping bag to put my empty bottle away and to my horror, I found my bag of crisps! Only then did I realise that, all this time, I was eating the old lady's bag of crisps not my own!
