Environment Abatement In Countries In Transition:

Environmental Assessment in Developing and Transitional Countries Norman Lee, Clive George, 2013-06-10 Since the 1980s and especially since the Rio Earth Summit in 1992 there has been a substantial extension in the adoption and use of Environmental Assessment EA procedures in developing countries and countries in transition low and middle income countries However few existing texts in environmental assessment or development studies have reflected this trend sufficiently until this publication Divided into two main parts EA Principles Processes and Practice Country and Institutional Studies of EA Procedures and Practice This book explains the essentials of environmental impact association in the context of developing countries and assesses its importance to both developed and developing countries Environmental Assessment in Countries in Transition Aleg Cherp, 1999 Implementing Strategic Environmental Assessment Michael Schmidt, Elsa Joao, Eike Albrecht, 2006-02-20 This comprehensive Handbook describes the implementation of SEA in 18 countries around the world as well as a critical analysis of different SEA methodologies It introduces key SEA principles and the legal requirements of the new European SEA Directive which became law in 2004 and describes the implementation of SEA in 11 European Union countries as well as the USA Canada and New Zealand This is contrasted with SEA requirements of four developing countries Assessment and Management of Environmental Risks Igor Linkov, José Palma-Oliveira, 2012-12-06 Managing environmental contamination requires decision makers to weigh existing risks against the potential effects of implementing environmental policies considering both the benefits and disruptions that may result from different actions The NATO Advanced Research Workshop in Lisbon was an important step in the development and application of cost efficient methods of risk assessment especially within the constraints of a budget The goal of the workshop was to evaluate the potential for risk assessment to serve as a unified and unifying technique in addressing a wide range of environmental problems Papers presented in this book discuss issues ranging from specific and local studies specific site ecosystem pollutant to global decision and management frameworks watersheds regions integration of multiple pollutants and stressors they develop a range of approaches starting from specific methods to widely applied public policies Figure 1 The papers show that the use of risk assessment can provide the scientific basis for environmentally sound and cost efficient policies strategies and solutions to our environmental challenges The organization of the Proceedings reflects sessions and discussions during the workshop The papers in the introductory Chapter summarize the positions of Drs Glenn Suter EPA and Jim Wilson Resources for the Future regarding whether the use of often expensive risk assessments in developing countries can be justified given evolving regulatory institutions and limited resources Assessments of Regional and Global Environmental Risks Alexander E. Farrell, Jill Professor Jäger, 2010-09-30 As environmental challenges grow larger in scale and implications it is increasingly important to apply the best scientific knowledge in the decisionmaking process Editors Farrell and Jäger present environmental assessments as the bridge between the expert knowledge of scientists and engineers on the one hand and decisionmakers on the other When done well assessments have a positive impact on public policy the strategic decisions of private firms and ultimately the quality of life for many people This book is the result of an international interdisciplinary research project to analyze past environmental assessments and understand how their design influenced their effectiveness in bringing scientific evidence and insight into the decisionmaking process The case studies in the book feature a wide range of regional and global risks including ozone depletion transboundary air pollution and climate change Assessments of Regional and Global Environmental Risks offers several important contributions It provides a clear account of the choices faced in the design of environmental assessments and a clear description of the lessons learned from past assessments It illustrates why assessments are social processes not simply reports And while they identify no universal one size fits all design the authors find that to be effective environmental assessments must be viewed by those who produce and use them as being salient credible in their scientific support and legitimate or fair in design and execution
