In an era in which environmental education has been described as one of the most pressing educational concerns of our time further insights are needed to understand how best to approach the learning and teaching of environmental education in early childhood education In this book we address this concern by identifying two principles for using play based learning early childhood environmental education The principles we identify are the result of research conducted with teachers and children using different types of play based learning whilst engaged in environmental education Such play types connect with the historical use of play based learning in early childhood education as a basis for pedagogy In the book Beyond Quality in ECE and Care authors Dahlberg Moss and Pence implore readers to ask critical questions about commonly held images of how young children come to construct themselves within social institutions In similar fashion this little book problematizes the taken for grantedness of the childhood development project in service to the certain cultural narratives Cutter Mackenzie Edwards Moore and Boyd challenge traditional conceptions of play based learning through the medium of environmental education This book signals a turning point in social thought grounded in a relational view of environmental education as experiential intergenerational interspecies embodied learning in the third space As Barad says such work is based in inter actions that can account for the tangled spaces of agencies Through the deceptive simplicity of children s play the book stimulates deliberation of the real purposes of pedagogy and of schooling Paul Hart University of Regina Canada

Diversity in Environmental Education Research , 2009-01-01 Research in environmental education EE is a growing field of inquiry and should be seen as respondent to a variety of program developments around the world These diverse programs are the context for this body of educational research Diversity in EE research is also compounded when one considers the various cultures epistemologies and research traditions that may inform the field This complexity accounts for the range of forms for environmental learning in formal informal or non formal contexts There is a good deal of evidence that in order to be more responsive to the needs of diverse populations program developments around the world are now beginning to reflect the variation in our society However the same cannot always be said in terms of research methodologies within mainstream environmental education research Outside of a few examples there seems to have been very little in the way of development of research genres aimed at understanding characterizing and supporting cultural diversity within much of mainstream environmental education Diversity of method may also be important for the overall quality or health of environmental education research To locate many of the new ideas and approaches in this area one needs to look outside environmental education towards general educational research or to other fields such as environmental justice indigenous education science education and health education to name only a few examples This volume of original research reports from around the globe begins to richly describe aspects of diversity in environmental education research It does so in two ways first it mirrors the diversity of voices and cultures that are conducting research in this ever broadening and increasingly global and international field of inquiry second it illuminates a potential diversity of research methods by highlighting a range of methodologies salient in other fields which have emerging promise for the practice of research in environmental education

International Perspectives on the Theory and Practice of Environmental Education: A Reader Giuliano Reis, Jeff Scott, 2017-11-15 The present book shares critical perspectives on the conceptualization implementation discourses policies and alternative practices of environmental education EE for diverse and unique groups of learners in a variety of international educational settings Each contribution offers insights on the authors own processes of re imagining an education in about for the environment that are realized through their teaching research and other ways of doing EE Overall environmental education has been aimed at giving people a wider appreciation of the diversity of cultural and environmental systems around them as well as the urge to overcome existing problems In this context universities schools and community based organizations struggle to promote sustainable environmental education practices geared toward the development of ecologically literate citizens in light of surmountable challenges of hyperconsumerism environmental depletion and socioeconomic inequality The extent that individuals within educational systems are expected to effectively respond to as well as benefit from a greener and more just world becomes paramount with the vision and analysis of different successes and challenges embodied by EE efforts worldwide This book fosters conversations amongst researchers teacher educators schoolteachers and community leaders in order to promote new international collaborations around current and potential forms of environmental education This book reflects many successful international projects and perspectives on the theory and praxis of environmental education An eclectic mix of international scholars challenge environmental educators to engage issues of reconciliation of correspondences and difference across regions In their own ways authors stimulate critical conversations that seem pivotal for necessary re imaginings of research and pedagogy across the grain of cultural and ecological realities systematic barriers and reconceptualizations of environmental education The book is most encouraging in that it works to expand the creative commons for progress in teaching researching and doing environmental education in desperate times Paul Hart Professor of Science and Environmental Education at the University of Regina Canada Melanson Award for outstanding contributions to environmental and outdoor education Saskatchewan Outdoor and Environmental Education Association and North American Association for Environmental Education NAAEE s Jeske Award for Leadership
