Thornes,John Wainwright,2004-03-01 The Mediterranean has been subject to changing human settlement and land use patterns for millennia and has a history of human exploitation in an inherently unstable landscape Environmental Issues in the Mediterranean reviews both physical and social aspects of this region in relation to its environment Ideal for students who are studying a range of environmental issues but want to see them linked within one regional context The book begins with an introduction to the Mediterranean region its history physical and human geography and its environmental problems It then goes on to examine The Dynamic Environment climate variables and fluctuations vegetation the hydrological cycle of the basin and its watershed processes of erosion fire and the Mediterranean Sea The Human Impact on the Environment prehistoric and historic land use traditional agriculture rural and urban settlement and use of mineral resources The Mediterranean Environment Under Increasing Pressure the present human landscape changes in agriculture in the 20th century the impact of depopulation pollution water resources desertification and potential climatic change It then concludes with a discussion of the region s on going environmental issues of water resources land degradation agricultural intensification and tourism and considers how these can be approached using management techniques and national and regional policies American Book Publishing Record ,2001 Environmental Challenges in the Mediterranean 2000-2050

Antonio Marquina,2014-01-15 Environmental Sustainability in the Mediterranean Region Carla Sofia Santos Ferreira,Georgia Destouni,Zahra Kalantari,2024-09-04 The book provides a cross sectoral assessment of the most relevant environmental challenges in the Mediterranean region including land and water degradation water and food security and solution opportunities for these It also discusses main change drivers such as changes in climate land use population demographics and technology Additionally the book explores improved management participatory planning and nature based strategies and measures for meeting the key environmental challenges e g restoring degraded areas and improving land management in different land uses e.g forest coastal and urban areas Finally the book addresses needs and opportunities to improve governance and partnerships for assuring sustainable development in the Mediterranean region

Environmental Condition of the Mediterranean Sea F.B. de Walle, M. Nikolopoulou-Tamvakli, W.J. Heinen, 1993-08-31 The Environmental Program for the Mediterranean EPM assesses the nature and the extent of the environmental problems in the Mediterranean Basin It leads to recommendations for short to medium term actions Policies institutional measures technical assistance and investment project proposals are necessary to ameliorate such problems The EPM emphasizes the economic and financial implications of environmental protection It suggests ways in which the countries of the region can achieve the high priority environmental investments that are recommended The case is made for greater efforts from the international aid community to assist the Mediterranean countries in this endeavor The EPM is a common initiative launched in 1988 by the European Investment Bank and by the World Bank The World Bank has economic development as its main objective The Bank has lent for development projects since 1946 primarily in the developing countries of the Third World The EIB's main task under Article 130 of the Treaty of Rome is to contribute to the balanced development of the European Community another of its priorities is the protection of the environment The Netherlands Organization for Applied Scientific Research TNO derives its legal status from an Act of Parliament of 1930 on applied scientific research in the Netherlands It is a fully independent R D organization and currently has a staff of about 5 100 and a turnover of more than 370 million U S dollars a year Studies by TNO are carried out in a number of institutes and laboratories located throughout the Netherlands TNO's primary task is to support technological innovation in trade and industry government agencies and community groups TNO also assists clients and sponsors in solving problems It conducts consultancy and transfers knowledge and know how to individual companies and sector groups Know how is obtained from TNO's own research or is generated through collaboration with universities and third parties The present study is sponsored by the European Investment Bank in the framework of the EPM The TNO report gives an overview of the environmental condition of the Mediterranean especially that of EC Mediterranean countries It also estimates the environmental investment requirements for sewage treatment plants river basin management port reception facilities other environmental protection measures

Southern Mediterranean Basin: Environmental Challenges and Opportunities Islam Abou El-Magd, Elham Ali, 2016-07-19

The Mediterranean Russell King, Lindsay Proudfoot, Bernard Smith, 2014-02-25 This book addresses contemporary geographical issues in the Mediterranean Basin from a perspective that recognizes the physical characteristics and cultural interactions which link the different Mediterranean states as a recognisable geographic entity Sixteen chapters each deal with a major geographical issue currently facing the Mediterranean each providing an invaluable summary of the extensive but widely dispersed literature relating to Mediterranean issues Particular emphasis is placed on the interaction between society and environment in terms of environmental management differential regional development and its associated political demographic cultural and economic tensions Peri-urban Conflicts and Environmental Challenges Antonio Tomao, Matteo Clemente, 2022-11-30

Urban expansion and the preservation of fringe landscapes are clearly interconnected issues This book discusses the relationship between landscape and peri urban agriculture and the possible implications of sustainable land management for fringe land quality proposing a framework to evaluate the latent nexus between agro forest systems and human settlements in Southern Europe Eco sustainable planning integrated with multi faceted policy actions social economic cultural and political dimensions is a relevant approach to reinforce sustainability of fringe landscapes Permanent assessment of these factors allows for the implementation of different development scenarios The present work definitely contributes to systemic and multi scale approaches informing environmental policies with the aim of achieving an integrated management of peri urban agricultural landscapes A Sustainable Future for the Mediterranean Guillaume Benoit, Aline

Comeau, 2012-08-21 Here s a work arriving just at the right moment and contributing new insights at precisely the time when public opinion remains sceptical of the not very promising future we are preparing for our children when governments balk at explaining to their electorates the vital but unpopular decisions that have to be taken and when civil society with few ways and means is finally becoming involved This remarkable work will help all actors to understand the inter linkages between economic activities and the environment in the Mediterranean Basin and take concerted effective action to build a positive sustainable future Mohamed Ennabli former Minister of the Environment and Land Use Planning Tunisia The Blue Plan has carried out a remarkable assessment of the serious environmental problems and insufficiently targeted cooperation in the Mediterranean and also of new financing systems to be implemented which would increase the capacities of local authorities and economic and social partners Georges Corm former Minister of Finance Lebanon The Mediterranean Basin and its surrounding countries is a microcosm of the environmental and sustainability challenges facing people across the world Depending on the development path it takes in the future the region can either become a positive model for the regional regulation of globalization or more onerously it might reinforce global instability This unique volume is the definitive authoritative assessment of the environment and development of the Mediterranean Basin and its 22 countries and territories spanning five decades from 30 years in the past to 20 years into the future Produced by the Blue Plan within the framework of UNEP Mediterranean Action Plan and backed by the EU and national governments it brings together the work of more than 100 researchers from dozens of national regional and local governments and research groups into the only comprehensive insight into sustainable development issues in the region Core coverage includes water energy transport cities rural and coastal areas as well as related issues such as climate change population growth geopolitical changes unemployment and poverty pollution economic and environmental policies regional cooperation and the Euro Mediterranean Partnership Information is clearly presented through hundreds of full colour maps graphs tables and a wealth of case studies This is a must have reference for all levels of government NGOs and libraries as well as practitioners academics and

Priority Issues in the Mediterranean Environment European Environment Agency, 2006 This report aims to identify priority pollution zones and emerging issues in the Mediterranean Sea The report does not attempt to give an overall state of the Mediterranean marine environment Instead it addresses specific issues which are of main concern to the sustainable development of the region sewage and urban run off solid waste industrial effluents including oil processing urbanization eutrophication sand erosion marine transport causing oil pollution biological invasions harmful algal blooms exploitation of marine resources expansion of aquaculture natural hazards The main problems in southern and eastern Mediterranean countries are the inadequate treatment of urban waste and management of chemicals in contrast to northern countries where efforts should be deployed to overcome the problems raised by use of chemicals and their impacts on environment In the northern Mediterranean region which is the most industrialised there are a priori necessary prevention mechanisms correction technologies and the appropriate legal framework But there is a lack of political willingness from the countries to enforce environmental regulation The southern Mediterranean region is growing at the expense of the environment since neither the economic conditions nor the required technologies are available The number one priority in environmental management in the Mediterranean region is to develop the necessary environmental legislation and to enforce it

Environmental and Sustainable Development in the Mediterranean Michael Scoullou, Eugenia Ferragina, Cristina Narbona, Institute for Security Studies (Paris, France), IEMed, 2010 This is the eighth in a series of ten papers jointly published by the European Institute of the Mediterranean IEMed and the European Union Institute for Security Studies EUISS which aim to address ten critical topics for Euro Mediterranean relations The papers have been commissioned with a view to formulating policy options on a set of issues which are central to achieving the objectives set out in the 1995 Barcelona Declaration and the 2008 Paris Declaration as well as defining new targets for 2020 in the political economic and social spheres This eighth paper looks at the environmental challenges in the Mediterranean and analyses the numerous initiatives adopted in the region since 1975 to confront them Over the last five decades the quality of the Mediterranean environment has been increasingly degraded by anthropisation The authors argue that the environmental problems of the region are closely linked to governance gaps and that the major challenge of the region is water scarcity and pollution Both point out the need to launch long term planning and governance policies such as the Strategy for Water in the Mediterranean SWM In this respect Michael Scoullou and Eugenia Ferragina put forward a set of proposals on how the European Union and its Mediterranean partner countries should cooperate to achieve an environmental and sustainable development in the

The Physical Geography of the Mediterranean Jamie C. Woodward, 2009-05-07 This volume explores the climates landscapes ecosystems and hazards that comprise the Mediterranean world It traces the development of the Mediterranean landscape over very long timescales and examines modern processes and key environmental issues in a wide range of settings The Mediterranean is the only region on Earth where three continents meet and this interaction has produced a very distinctive Physical Geography This book examines the landscapes and processes at the margins of these continents and the distinctive marine environment between them Catastrophic earthquakes explosive volcanic eruptions and devastating storms and floods are intimately bound up within the history and mythology of the Mediterranean world This is a key region for the study of natural hazards because it offers unrivalled access to long records of hazard occurrence and impact through documentary archaeological and geological archives The Mediterranean is also a biodiversity hotspot it has been a meeting place for plants animals and humans from three continents throughout much of its history The Quaternary records of these interactions are more varied and better preserved than in any other part of the world These records have provided important new insights into the tempo of climate landscape and ecosystem change in the Mediterranean region and beyond The region is unique because of the very early and widespread impact of humans in landscape and ecosystem change and the richness of the archaeological and geological archives that chronicle this impact This book examines this history and these interactions and places current environmental issues in long term context Contributors Ramadan Husain Abu Zied Harriet Allen Jacques Blondel Maria Carmen Llasat James Casford Marc Castellnou Andrew Goudie Andrew Harding Angela Hayes Tom Holt Babette Hoogakker Philip Hughes Jos Lelieveld John Lewin
