Climate Impacts on Energy Systems Jane O. Ebinger, 2011 While the energy sector is a primary target of efforts to arrest and reverse the growth of greenhouse gas emissions and lower the carbon footprint of development it is also expected to be increasingly affected by unavoidable climate consequences from the damage already induced in the biosphere Energy services and resources as well as seasonal demand will be increasingly affected by changing trends increasing variability greater extremes and large inter annual variations in climate parameters in some regions All evidence suggests that adaptation is not an optional add on but an essential reckoning on par with other business risks Existing energy infrastructure new infrastructure and future planning need to consider emerging climate conditions and impacts on design construction operation and maintenance Integrated risk based planning processes will be critical to address the climate change impacts and harmonize actions within and across sectors Also awareness knowledge and capacity impede mainstreaming of climate adaptation into the energy sector However the formal knowledge base is still nascent information needs are complex and to a certain extent regionally and sector specific This report provides an up to date compendium of what is known about weather variability and projected climate trends and their impacts on energy service provision and demand It discusses emerging practices and tools for managing these impacts and integrating climate considerations into planning processes and operational practices in an environment of uncertainty It focuses on energy sector adaptation rather than mitigation which is not discussed in this report This report draws largely on available scientific and peer reviewed literature in the public domain and takes the perspective of the developing world to the extent possible

Business Periodicals Index ,2008 Energy Security, Equality and Justice Benjamin K. Sovacool,Roman V.

Sidortsov,Benjamin R. Jones,2013-12-04 This book applies concepts from ethics justice and political philosophy to five sets of contemporary energy problems cutting across time economics politics geography and technology In doing so the authors derive two key energy justice principles from modern theories of distributive justice procedural justice and cosmopolitan justice The prohibitive principle states that energy systems must be designed and constructed in such a way that they do not unduly interfere with the ability of people to acquire those basic goods to which they are justly entitled The affirmative principle states that if any of the basic goods to which people are justly entitled can only be secured by means of energy services then in that case there is also a derivative entitlement to the energy services In laying out and employing these principles the book details a long list of current energy injustices ranging from human rights abuses and energy related civil conflict to energy poverty and pervasive and growing negative externalities The book illustrates the significance of energy justice by combining the most up to date data on global energy security and climate change including case studies and examples from the electricity supply transport and heating and cooking sectors with appraisals based on centuries of thought about the meaning of justice in social decisions Combustion Technology for a Clean Environment Maria

Carvalho,2002-11-08 The more than 90 refereed papers in this volume continue a series of biannual benchmarks for technologies that maximize energy conversion while minimizing undesirable emissions Covering the entire range of industrial and transport combustion as well as strategies for energy research and development these state of the art will be indispensable to mechanical and chemical engineers in academia and industry and technical personnel in military energy and environmental government agencies The topics covered in this book include wood oil gas and coal combustion combustion of alternative fuels co combustion and co gasification catalytic combustion NO SO soot fundamentals advanced diagnostics burners fluidized bed combustion incineration engines advanced cycles gas clean up control strategy and clean combustion
