In the Tracks of Tamerlane Daniel L. Burghart, Theresa Sabonis-Helf, 2004 Environmental Justice and Sustainability in the Former Soviet Union Julian Agyeman, Yelena Ogneva-Himmelberger, 2009 An examination of the awareness of environmental and social justice issues in the former Soviet republics from the Western style democracies of the Baltic region to the totalitarian regimes of Central Asia and the resulting activism in those states The legacy of environmental catastrophe in the states of the former Soviet Union includes desertification pollution and the toxic aftermath of industrial accidents the most notorious of which was the Chernobyl disaster of 1986 This book examines the development of environmental activism in Russia and the former Soviet republics in response to these problems and its effect on policy and planning It also shows that because of increasing economic ethnic and social inequality in the former Soviet states debates over environmental justice are beginning to come to the fore The book explores the varying environmental social political and economic circumstances of these countries which range from the Western style democracies of the Baltic states to the totalitarian regimes of Central Asia and how they affect the ecological environmental and public health Among the topics covered are environmentalism in Russia including the progressive nature of its laws on environmental protection which are undermined by overburdened and underpaid law enforcement the effect of oil wealth on Azerbaijan and Kazakhstan the role of nationalism in Latvian environmentalism the struggle of Russia s indigenous peoples for environmental justice public participation in Estonia s environmental movement and lack of access to natural capital in Tajikistan Environmental Justice and Sustainability in the Former Soviet Union makes clear that although fragile transition economies varying degrees of democratization and a focus on national security can stymie progress toward just sustainability the diverse states of the former Soviet Union are making some progress toward green and environmental justice issues separately

Environmental Humanities in Central Asia Jeanne Féaux de la Croix, Beatrice Penati, 2023-09-01 This book is the first collection to showcase the flourishing field of environmental humanities in Central Asia. A region larger than Europe, Central Asia possesses an astounding range of environments from deserts to glaciated peaks. The volume brings into conversation scholarship from history to social anthropology, demonstrating the contribution that interdisciplinary and engaged research offers to many urgent issues in the region, from the history of conservationism to the tactics of environmental movements, from literary engagements with pure nature to the impact of fossil fuel extraction. The collection focuses on the Central Asian republics of the former USSR, where a complex layering of nomadic and sedentary Turkic and Persianate Islamic and Soviet cultures ends up affecting human relations with distinct environments. Featuring state-of-the-art contributions, the book enquires into human-environment relations through a broad brush typology of interactive modes to extract, protect, enspirit, and fear. Broadening the scope of analysis beyond a consideration of power, the authors bring into focus alternative local cosmologies and the unintended consequences of environmental policy. The volume highlights scholarship from within Central Asia as well as expertise elsewhere, offering readers diverse modes of knowledge production in the environmental humanities. This book is an important resource for researchers and students of the environmental humanities, sustainability, history, politics, anthropology, and geography of Asia as well as Soviet and Post-Soviet studies. Chapter 11 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivatives (CC BY-NC-ND) 4.0 license. Tajikistan's Difficult Development Path Martha Brill

Olcott, 2012-11-27. Tajikistan teeters on the brink of failure. This mountainous and landlocked country, the poorest in Central Asia, confronts the challenges of good governance and economic survival. These domestic struggles become even more problematic as international forces prepare to withdraw from neighboring Afghanistan, leaving Central Asian countries to ensure regional stability. In Tajikistan's Difficult Development Path, Martha Brill Olcott traces the political, economic, and social change following the country's independence and international efforts to avert state collapse. The Tajik government's commitment to reform has been inconsistent, and substantial foreign assistance provided since the end of the country's civil war has not led to the desired economic and political development. Olcott concludes that the Tajik leadership faces a serious dilemma: fully embrace reform or continue moving toward state failure. Tajikistan's decision will have very real implications for this troubled region. Central Asia Atlas of Natural Resources Asian Development Bank, 2010-04-01. This atlas brings together a wealth of information related to living and nonliving natural resources in the five countries of Central Asia: Kazakhstan, Kyrgyz Republic, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, and Uzbekistan. It contains an array of maps based on geographic information systems and remote sensing images, numerous photographs, tabulations of important data, and extensive descriptive text that together illustrate and describe the region's bountiful natural resources, its diversity of peoples, and their progress toward sustainable development. Highlights include geographic and climatic features, environmental, economic, and social profiles, energy, minerals, and water resources, ecoregions, and ecosystems, major fauna and flora, agriculture, and fisheries peoples and cultural traditions and economic and social statistics      ADB Review ,2000      Special report. 2023

The mission proposes a series of cost effective measures to address some of the most pressing structural challenges to the agricultural sector with a view to contributing to national food security objectives and strengthening agricultural resilience of the agricultural sector in line with the National Development Strategy      Energy, Environment and Geopolitics in Eurasia Norman A. Graham,Şuhnaz Yilmaz,2023-12-22 This book advances our understanding of security and its intricate interactions with geopolitics and the environment in Eurasia Norman A Graham and uhnaz Y lmaz focus on Eurasia where the energy water food nexus has emerged as a vital aspect of political economy and increasingly as a decisive factor for human security As clearly revealed during the Russian invasion of Ukraine this nexus rests on a precarious balance Graham and Yilmaz argue that Central Eurasia is currently Running on Empty and highlight the key environmental challenges including water quantity and quality and food security The authors draw on their extensive fieldwork in countries including Azerbaijan China Georgia Kazakhstan the Russian Federation Turkey and Uzbekistan to assess the interests and impact of pivotal actors and evaluate the competition and complementarities of these actors regarding water energy food security and foreign policy imperatives They also examine the broader interaction and implications of security at multiple levels by analyzing the local national and international factors in light of geopolitical and environmental challenges Taking a novel and highly interdisciplinary approach this book will be an important resource for students and scholars of energy and food security political economy international conflict and cooperation and natural resource politics      Environmental Crises
