Environmental Crisis:

The Real Environmental Crisis Jack Hollander, 2003-04-02 Drawing a completely new road map toward a sustainable future Jack M Hollander contends that our most critical environmental problem is global poverty His balanced authoritative and lucid book challenges widely held beliefs that economic development and affluence pose a major threat to the world's environment and resources Pointing to the great strides that have been made toward improving and protecting the environment in the affluent democracies Hollander makes the case that the essential prerequisite for sustainability is a global transition from poverty to affluence coupled with a transition to freedom and democracy The Real Environmental Crisis takes a close look at the major environment and resource issues population growth climate change agriculture and food supply our fisheries forests and fossil fuels water and air quality and solar and nuclear power In each case Hollander finds compelling evidence that economic development and technological advances can relieve such problems as food shortages deforestation air pollution and land degradation and provide clean water adequate energy supplies and improved public health The book also tackles issues such as global warming genetically modified foods automobile and transportation technologies and the highly significant Endangered Species Act which Hollander asserts never would have been legislated in a poor country whose citizens struggle just to survive Hollander asks us to look beyond the media's doomsday rhetoric about the state of the environment for much of it is simply not true and to commit much more of our resources where they will do the most good to lifting the world's population out of poverty

Global Concern with Environmental Crisis and Gandhi's Vision Savitā Simha, 1999 Environmental Crisis Bunyan Bryant, 2011-03-24 Over the years we have witnessed unprecedented growth and development that threatens our planet earth as evidenced by environmental degradation world poverty all of which will be exacerbated by climate change Environmental Crisis or Crisis of Epistemology explores the ideas that environmental destruction and injustice is integrally related to unsustainable knowledge and the role that knowledge plays in a racially discriminatory and unequal society It also challenges us to think more critically about certain kinds of growth and development and creating knowledge that is more sustainable environmentally benign and just and more compatible with the earth's lifecycle To continue business as usual without questioning our epistemology could lead to dire and unintended consequences of Herculean proportions We can and must reverse this perilous trend We must embark upon creating knowledge that is more protective of the environment and the inhabitants of the earth

Managing the Environmental Crisis in Ghana Kwasi Nyamekye, 2014-11-19 Due to the strong inroads that Western scientism and Western Christianity have made in Africa as a result of colonialism post colonial African governments have tended to rely solely on Western scientific conservation epistemologies and models to the neglect of those of the Indigenous African peoples in addressing their environmental problems However there is enough evidence that neither modern scientific nor indigenous epistemologies and modes of addressing current ecological problems are

Environmental Crisis Or Crisis of Epistemology? Bunyan Bryant,2011-05-01 The goal of Environmental Crisis or Crisis of Epistemology is to challenge us to think that how we know the world and what we choose to do with what we know is fundamental to our environmental crisis Environmental Crisis or Crisis of Epistemology challenges us to think about and change the role that knowledge plays in an unequal society Environmental Crisis or Crisis of Epistemology challenges us to think in terms of creating knowledge that is more sustainable environmentally benign and compatible with the earth s lifecycle If we can define and create sustainable knowledge this will be a critical step in solving our environmental problems

Religion and Ecological Crisis Todd LeVasseur,Anna Peterson,2016-07-01 In 1967 Lynn White Jr s seminal article The Historical Roots of Our Ecologic Crisis was published essentially establishing the academic study of religion and nature White argues that religions particularly Western Christianity are a major cause of worldwide ecological crises He then asserts that if we are to halt let alone revert anthropogenic damages to the environment we need to radically transform religious cosmologies White s hugely influential thesis has been cited thousands of times in a variety of disciplines including but not limited to religious studies environmental ethics history ecological science philosophy psychology and anthropology In practical terms the ecological crisis to which White was responding has only worsened in the decades since the article was published This collection of original essays by leading scholars in a variety of interdisciplinary settings including religion and nature environmental ethics animal studies ecofeminism restoration ecology and ecotheology considers the impact of White s arguments offering constructive criticism as well as reflections on the ongoing ever changing scholarly debate about the way religion and culture contribute to both environmental crises and to their possible solutions Religion and Ecological Crisis addresses a wide range of topics related to White s thesis including its significance for environmental ethics and philosophy the response from conservative Christians and evangelicals its importance for Asian religious traditions ecofeminist interpretations of the article and which perspectives might have ultimately been left out of his analysis This book is a timely reflection on the legacy and continuing challenge of White s influential article What Can I Do to Help Heal the Environmental Crisis? Haydn Washington,2019-10-01 The culmination of over three decades of writing by environmental scientist and writer Haydn Washington this book examines the global environmental crisis and its solutions Many of us know that something is wrong with our world that it is wounded At the same time we often don't know why things have gone wrong or what can be done Framing the discussion around three central predicaments the ecological the social and the economic Washington provides background as to why each of these are in crisis and presents steps that individuals can personally take to heal the world Urging the reader to accept the reality of our problems he explores practical solutions for change such as the transition to renewable energy rejection of climate denial and the championing of appropriate technology as well as a readjustment in ethical approaches The book also contains 19 solution boxes by distinguished environmental scholars With a focus on positive personal solutions this book is an essential read for students and scholars of environmental science and environmental philosophy and for all those keen to heal the world and contribute towards a sustainable future From

Apocalypse to Way of Life Frederick Buell, 2004-03 From Apocalypse to Way of Life is a comprehensive and in depth survey of environmental crisis as it has been understood for the last four decades Buell recounts the growing number of ecological and social problems critical for the environment and the impact that the growing experience with and understanding of them has had on American politics society and culture Ecological Crisis and Cultural Representation in Latin America

Mark Anderson, Zélia M. Bora, 2016-10-04 Worldwide environmental crisis has become increasingly visible over the last few decades as the full scope of anthropogenic climate change manifests itself and large scale natural resource extraction has expanded into formerly remote areas that seemed beyond the reach of industrialization Scientists and popular culture alike have turned to the term Anthropocene to capture the global scale of environmental and even geological transformations that humans have carried out over the last two centuries The chapters in Ecological Crisis and Cultural Representation in Latin America examine the dynamics and interplay between local cultures and the expansion of global capitalism in Latin America emphasizing the role of art in bearing witness to and generating awareness of environmental and social crises but also its possibilities for formulating solutions They take particular care to draw out the ways in which local environmental crises in Latin American nations are witnessed and imagined as part of a global system focusing on the problems of time scale and complexity as key terms in conceiving the dimensions of crisis At the same time they question the notion of the Anthropocene as a species wide human historical project making visible the colonality of natural resource extraction in Latin America and its dire effects for local people cultures and environments Taking an ecocritical approach to Latin American cultural production including literature film performance and digital artwork the chapters in this volume develop a notion of ecological crisis that captures not only its documentary sense in the representation of environmental destruction the degradation of the oikos but also the crisis in the modern worldview logos that the acknowledgment of crisis provokes In this sense crisis is also the promise of a turning point of the possibilities for change Latin American representations of ecological crisis thus create the conditions for projects that decolonize environments developing new sustainable ways of conceiving of and relating to our world or returning to old ones
