Environmental Decision Making A Multidisciplinary Perspective:

Environmental Decision Making Richard A. Chechile,1991 Making environmental decisions is an arduous process that should encompass understanding of a number of disciplines This text is devoted to that process which addresses the multiple disciplines Psychology and Environmental Change Raymond S. Nickerson,2002-12-18 This book stimulates thinking on the topic of detrimental environmental change and how research psychologists can help to address the problem In addition to reporting environmentally relevant psychological research the author identifies the most pressing questions from an environmental point of view Psychology and Environmental Change focuses on ways in which human behavior contributes to the problem deals with the assessment and change of attitudes and with studies of change of behavior proposes ways in which psychological research can contribute to making technology and its products more environmentally benign and introduces topics such as consumption risk assessment cost benefit and tradeoff analyses competition negotiation and policymaking and how they relate to the objective of protecting the environment Trade-Off Analysis for

Environmental Projects: An Annotated Bibliography , Environmental Decision-making ,1983 The Roots of Japan's Environmental Policies Anny Wong,2018-10-24 The study focuses on Japan s policies toward international environmental issues and includes case studies on whaling deforestation in the tropics and acid deposition in Asia

Environmental Management in Practice: Vol 1 Paul Compton,Dimitri Devuyst,Luc Hens,Bhaskar Nath,2013-01-11 Focuses on the instruments and tools currently available to the environmental manager A theoretical background to the instruments is given together with an overview of those instruments that are in common use today with particular attention to the physical economic legislative and communication instruments EPA-600/R. ,1993-04 Environmental Sensing James K. Lein,2011-09-18 Remote sensing has witnessed a renaissance as new sensor systems data collection capabilities and image processing methodologies have expanded the technological capabilities of this science into new and important applications areas Perhaps nowhere has this trend been more evident than in the study of earth environments Within this broad application area remote sensing has proven to be an invaluable asset supporting timely data gathering at a range of synoptic scales facilitating the mapping of complex landscapes and promoting the analysis of environmental process Yet remote sensing s contribution to the study of human environmental interaction is scattered throughout a rich and diverse literature spanning the social and physical sciences which frustrates access to and the sharing of the knowledge gained through these recent advances and inhibits the operational use of these methods and techniques in day to day environmental practice a recognized gap that reduces the effectiveness of environmental management programs The objective of this book is to address this gap and provide the synthesis of method and application that is currently missing in the environmental science re introducing remote sensing as an important decision support technology Bayesian Statistics for Experimental Scientists Richard A. Chechile,2020-09-08 An introduction to the Bayesian approach to statistical inference that demonstrates its superiority to orthodox frequentist statistical analysis This book offers an introduction to the Bayesian approach to statistical inference with a focus on nonparametric and distribution free methods It covers not only well developed methods for doing Bayesian statistics but also novel tools that enable Bayesian statistical analyses for cases that previously did not have a full Bayesian solution The book's premise is that there are fundamental problems with orthodox frequentist statistical analyses that distort the scientific process Side by side comparisons of Bayesian and frequentist methods illustrate the mismatch between the needs of experimental scientists in making inferences from data and the properties of the standard tools of classical statistics
