The Routledge International Handbook of Religious Education Derek Davis,Elena Mikhailovna Miroshnikova,2013 How and what to teach about religion is controversial in every country The Routledge International Handbook of Religious Education is the first book to comprehensively address the range of ways that major countries around the world teach religion in public and private educational institutions It discusses how three models in particular seem to dominate the landscape Countries with strong cultural traditions focused on a majority religion tend to adopt an identification model where instruction is provided only in the tenets of the majority religion often to the detriment of other religions and their adherents Countries with traditions that differentiate church and state tend to adopt a separation model thus either offering instruction in a wide range of religions or in some cases teaching very little about religion intentionally leaving it to religious institutions and the home setting to provide religious instruction Still other countries attempt managed pluralism in which neither one nor many but rather a limited handful of major religious traditions are taught Inevitably there are countries which do not fit any of these dominant models and the range of methods touched upon in this book will surprise even the most enlightened reader Religious instruction by educational institutions in 53 countries and regions of the world are explored by experts native to each country These chapters discuss Legal parameters in terms of subjective versus objective instruction in religion Constitutional statutory social and political contexts to religious approaches Distinctions between the kinds of instruction permitted in elementary and secondary schools versus what is allowed in institutions of higher learning Regional assessments which provide a welcome overview and comparison This comprehensive and authoritative volume will appeal to educators scholars religious leaders politicians and others interested in how religion and education interface around the world

Regeneration through Sport Andrew McFarland,2022-12-01 This book examines how and why sport in general and football in particular entered the country and developed successfully between 1890 and the 1920s while placing that growth within the context of Spain's larger historical experience. The introduction of sport in the late 19th century permanently changed the day to day lives of thousands of Spaniards. Initially the country's growing urban middle classes embraced the new activity as they built community identities and were introduced to it through economic and educational connections to foreigners. To justify this these proponents argued that the adoption of physical education and sport would physically regenerate the nation. In response well rounded sporting communities grew developed medical arguments and even debated the activity's appropriateness for different groups like women. As sport spread it produced the first football clubs around the turn of the century. Subsequently in the 1910s and early 1920s football established the structural institutions like stadiums, stars, regulatory bodies and a press that enabled its rapid expansion as a mass consumer activity in the late 1920s. Regeneration through Sport looks at how this process embedded the sport within the national culture and established itself as a politically neutral activity before the Spanish Second Republic allowing it to become almost ubiquitous today. This book will appeal to researchers students and scholars alike who are interested in the history of sport Spain and European history.
