The Entrepreneurship Dynamic Claudia Bird Schoonhoven, Elaine Romanelli, 2001 New organizations do not emerge full blown from the idiosyncratic minds of individual entrepreneurs Their ideas for new organizations their ability to acquire capital and other essential resources and their likelihood of survival as entrepreneurs derive from the contexts in which they live and work The Entrepreneurship Dynamic explores the conditions that prompt the founding of large numbers of new organizations or entirely new industries and the effects on existing industries economies and societies The

Entrepreneurship Dynamic Claudia Bird Schoonhoven, Elaine Romanelli, 2022 Scholars and popular writers have written a great deal about entrepreneurs and the formation of new companies but they have not succeeded in predicting when and where large numbers of new organizations will emerge This volume attempts from the viewpoint of the interdisciplinary field of organization studies to answer two major questions about entrepreneurship First what are the conditions that prompt the founding of large numbers of new organizations or entirely new industries Second what are the real and significant effects of such entrepreneurial activities on existing industries economies and societies The authors emphasize that new organizations do not emerge full blown from the idiosyncratic minds of individual entrepreneurs Their ideas for new organizations their ability to acquire capital and other essential resources and their likelihood of survival as entrepreneurs derive from the contexts in which they live and work At the same time new organizations fundamentally and immediately transform their contexts The first part of the book explores the mental models that founders of new companies bring with them from previous experiences the ways in which their ideas come not only from the companies in which they work but from the surrounding organizational communities and the importance of local and regional dynamics in nurturing innovative communities Other papers in this section shift perspective from geographic communities to other contexts the university the knowledge industry and the technology cycle The second part of the book explores the role of entrepreneurial activity in the transformation of contexts and the evolution of industries focusing on the processes and tools that entrepreneurs use to legitimate new organizational populations and the collateral industries and communities that build up around new organizational populations aiding in the development of new companies Entrepreneurship and Dynamics in the Knowledge

Economy Charlie Karlsson, Börje Johansson, Roger Stough, 2006-09-27 In this book the authors argue that there are analytically distinct forms of entrepreneurship They provide a contemporary overview of current research and summarize the policy conclusions that can be drawn Entrepreneurship and Cluster Dynamics Cristina Boari, Tom Elfring, Xavier

Molina-Morales, 2016-06-10 Entrepreneurship and Cluster Dynamics focuses on the origin and development of clusters and specifically on the role played by the strategic entrepreneurship in these contexts Although separately entrepreneurship and cluster studies have already attracted the attention of academics and practitioners this book aims to go further and offer an integrated and interactive view of topics The cross cutting approach is one of the main attributes of this book In fact the book involves a great range of organizational and economic perspectives from social psychology to conventional applied economics disciplines. Moreover, these topics allow the use of different levels of analysis from the individual entrepreneur behind a start up to the structure of cluster networks including the organizational levels. An analysis of the change and development of clusters going further than traditional functional approaches by examining how entrepreneurs and their actions are not only influenced by the cluster but also shape the cluster development will offer an explanation of how entrepreneurship and networking entrepreneurs can foster perhaps also inhibit cluster development and change. Finally, Entrepreneurship and Cluster Dynamics theorizes about the role of the strategic entrepreneurship in developing start ups inside already established companies which can play the role of broker in the cluster. Entrepreneurship and Cluster Dynamics offers a unique opportunity to academics, researchers and students to learn about relations and interactions between entrepreneurship and cluster perspectives providing both newly and original theoretical propositions and also rigorous conclusive empirical exercises.

Organizational Change in Transition Societies Josef Langer, Nikša Alfirević, J. Pavčić, 2017-12-04. This book discusses change management paradigms with special reference to examples and cases from the transition societies in Central and Eastern Europe (CEE). The first chapter analyses developments and trends in the wider societal context of Central and Eastern Europe. Theoretical perspectives are applied to understand the processes of transition and EU accession in Central and Eastern Europe. Following the second and third chapters, the most frequently used tools and procedures of change management are analysed from the perspective of a CEE organization. The special advantage of the text to the potential readership is the integration of macro societal and micro organizational points of view towards understanding change. The text also provides real life examples and perspectives of understanding and managing change from Central and Eastern Europe which helps the reader to grasp the wider political, economic and societal contexts of the CEE region.

associated with liberal market economies and coordinated market economies respectively Focusing on high tech manufacturing it identifies basic similarities and key differences Similarities are found in approaches to opportunity and business creation which are strikingly different from recent policy emphases in the UK and Japan inspired by Silicon Valley hence the entrepreneurs live in the shadow of Silicon Valley Differences in the backgrounds of entrepreneurs founding teams attitudes to growth and risk innovation competitive advantages HRM emphases and inter firm collaborations are summed up by the concepts of project entrepreneurship and lifework entrepreneurship These are closely related to the respective environments especially the nature of markets in both countries They also embody different time orientations with implications for financing and governance This study brings insights from entrepreneurship to comparative institutions and varieties of capitalism and vice versa and draws on two surveys and 25 case interviews in both the UK and Japan It concludes with a discussion of dilemmas for entrepreneurship policy in the UK Japan and other countries De Gruyter Handbook
