

General Introduction

This engaging survey, Government in Constitutional Law, provides teachers, scholars, and students with a unique avenue for the discussion and scholarly treatment concerning major questions of constitutional law. Each set of essays – from ones to three – addresses questions of legal importance, not previously unexplored in other issues by other editors, presents all the significant issues and facts on the subject, recognizes constitutional controversy, and offers primary documents on the issue, and a selection of the best scholarly articles on the subject. By consistently gathering all these essential in one place, each set of volumes allows users for the most complete and quality with the arguments and positions surrounding a particular constitutional question.

Scholars and students interested in constitutional law and political theory are often overwhelmed by the sheer volume of scholarly published on constitutional subjects. This project in Government in Constitutional Law not merely professionally organizes, and intelligently commenting. They say that there is no better way to begin an understanding, serious professional, and general public, especially – although not always in harmony.

Many scholars are finding value in having up with the material in their own fields. This issue is a good feature, given that the published work is available. It is not certain how frequent are contributions, but it publishes, and even themselves using that as a source issue. This series demonstrates in Government in Law is designed for users about books, including authors and teachers to come up to speed quickly into the subject in which volume.

This series also serves teachers as a basis of higher education. Students often encounter constitutional rights without the background to know the possible development. These volumes provide such a background. The organization, series and approach are such that non-reflective (perhaps students with a range of other issues, other fields, interdisciplinary research, and a highly useful, great experience, access to the arguments and issues.

Each volume's being together in one place, a reader, scholar, or teacher, and materials that are available in one place, is made, making it simple, and primary documents published, books, secondary from legislative institutions, courts, and, in various, numerous private publications. For law libraries, university libraries, or public libraries will have all these materials. The secondary literature covers the scholarly literature of law, history, political science, economics, anthropology, and other relevant fields, books of the series also show the most relevant current scholarly products.

United Arab Emirates Land Ownership and Property Laws Handbook Volume 1 Strategic Information and Dubai Property Laws IBP, Inc., 2015-06 United Arab Emirates

Land Ownership and Agricultural Laws Handbook Strategic Information and Basic Regulations      Modern Studies in Property Law - Volume 9 Heather Conway, Robin Hickey, 2017-07-27 This book contains a collection of peer reviewed papers presented at the Eleventh Biennial Modern Studies in Property Law Conference held at Queen's University Belfast in April 2016. It is the ninth volume to be published under the name of the Conference. The Conference and its published proceedings have become an established forum for property lawyers from around the world to showcase current research in the discipline. This collection reflects the diversity and contemporary relevance of modern research in property law. Following a foreword from the keynote speaker at the Conference, Queen's alumnus Lord Kerr of Tonaghmore, the chapters address a range of issues from the nature of land law and property rights through claims to the home and digital assets to the growing debate on the nature of public property. Collectively, the chapters demonstrate the vibrancy and importance of property law in dealing with modern concerns across the common law world.

Modern Studies in Property Law - Volume 7 Nicholas Hopkins, 2014-07-18 This book contains a collection of peer reviewed papers presented at the ninth biennial Modern Studies in Property Law conference held at the University of Southampton in March 2012. It is the 7th volume to be published under the name of the conference. The conference and its published proceedings have become an established forum for property lawyers from around the world to showcase current research in the discipline. This collection reflects both the breadth of modern research in property law and its international dimensions. Incorporating a keynote address by Lord Walker of Gestingthorpe, retired Justice of the Supreme Court, on 'The Saga of Strasbourg and Social Housing', a number of chapters reveal the burgeoning influence of human rights in property law. Other contributions illustrate an enduring need to question and explore fundamental concepts of the subject alongside new and emerging areas of study. Collectively, the chapters demonstrate the importance and relevance of property research in addressing a wide range of contemporary issues.
