Climate Change Law and Policy Cinnamon Piñon Carlarne,2010 Existing climate change governance regimes in the US and the EU contain complex mixtures of regulatory market voluntary and research based strategies The EU has adopted an approach to climate change that is based on mandatory greenhouse gas emission reductions it is grounded in hard law measures and accompanied by soft law measures at the regional and Member State level In contrast until recently the US federal government has carefully avoided mandatory emission reduction obligations and focused instead on employing a variety of soft measures to encourage rather than mandate greenhouse gas emission reductions in an economically sound market driven manner These macro level differences are critical yet they mask equally important transatlantic policy convergences The US and the EU are pivotal players in the development of the international climate change regime How these two entities structure climate change laws and policies profoundly influences the shape and success of climate change laws and policies at multiple levels of governance This book suggests that the overall structures and processes of climate change law and policy making in the US and the EU are intricately linked to international policy making and thus the long term success of global efforts to address climate change Accordingly the book analyses the content and process of climate change law and policy making in the US and the EU to reveal policy convergences and divergences and to examine how these convergences and divergences impact the ability of the global community to structure a sustainable effective and equitable long term climate strategy

Corporate Regulation for Climate Change Mitigation in Africa Kikelomo O. Kila,2022-09-08 This book critically analyses the prospects of overhauling the legal framework of climate change regulation of corporations in African state It adopts the dilute interventionism regulatory framework to tackle the culture of regulatory resistance by corporations in Africa Over the course of this volume Kikelomo O Kila critiques the climate change legal framework in all 53 African states and conducts an in depth case study of the two largest economies in Africa Nigeria and South Africa to highlight the commonality of the problems in Africa and the potential for the dilute interventionism paradigm to significantly address these problems The book establishes why African states should directly intervene through legislative mechanisms to compel corporations to incorporate climate change mitigation in their business activities It proposes that this direct intervention should comprise a blend of prescriptive and facilitative mechanisms structured in a dilute interventionism regulatory model Overall this volume argues that implementing this model requires the institution of a strong and independent regulator with a veto firewall protection system that guarantees its de facto independence from government and external influences

Corporate Regulation for Climate Change Mitigation in Africa will be of great interest to climate change stakeholders at the international regional and domestic levels policymakers regulatory practitioners and legal experts on corporate regulation It will also be an insightful resource for students and scholars of climate change and environmental law policy and governance

Corporate Water Strategies William Sarni,2012-05-23 In the past businesses have viewed water as a minimal operational cost and not a strategic issue However water has now emerged as a critical issue for both corporations and the public sector in response to increased water demand climatic risks and potentially negative impacts on brand value This innovative book provides up to date information on global water issues and describes how companies can not only address these challenges but also implement high value global water strategies It shows Why water is a critical business issue for companies which now face water risk to their operations and brands How new concepts such as embedded water and virtual water are forcing companies to think differently about how they use water to manufacture products That companies need to develop a corporate water strategy to manage it as a key business issue and capture the real value of water How companies can develop partnerships with non governmental organizations to implement water strategies
