Encyclopedia of Anthropology H. James Birx, 2006 Focuses on physical social and applied anthropology archaeology linguistics and symbolic communication Topics include hominid evolution primate behaviour genetics ancient civilizations cross cultural studies and social theories Contemporary Issues in California Archaeology Terry L Jones, Jennifer E Perry, 2016-06-16 Recent archaeological research on California includes a greater diversity of models and approaches to the region s past as older literature on the subject struggles to stay relevant This comprehensive volume offers an in depth look at the most recent theoretical and empirical developments in the field including key controversies relevant to the Golden State coastal colonization impacts of comets and drought cycles systems of power Polynesian contacts and the role of indigenous peoples in the research process among others With a specific emphasis on those aspects of California s past that resonate with the state s modern cultural identity the editors and contributors all leading figures in California archaeology seek a new understanding of the myth and mystique of the Golden State Humans and the Environment Matthew I. J. Davies, M. I. J. Davies, Freda Nkirete M'Mbogori, 2013-06-27 This volume resituates the way in which archaeologists use and apply the concept of the environment Covering basic themes such as applied environmental archaeology and the archaeology of disaster each chapter critically explores the potential for archaeological data and practice to contribute to modern environmental issues Modelling Human-Environment Interactions in and beyond Prehistoric Europe Samuel

Seuru, Benjamin Albouy, 2023-07-25 This book offers insight into the relationship between prehistoric and protohistoric human populations and the world around them It reconstructs key aspects of the palaeoenvironment from large scale drivers of environmental conditions such as climate to more regional variables such as vegetation cover and faunal communities The volume underscores how computational archaeology is leading the way in the study of past human environment interactions across spatial and chronological scales With the increased availability of high resolution climate models agent based modelling palaeoecological proxies and the mature use of Geographic Information System in ecological modelling archaeologists working in interdisciplinary settings are well positioned to explore the intersection of human systems and environmental affordances and constraints These methodological advancements provide a better understanding of the role humans played in past ecosystems both in terms of their impact upon the environment and in return the impact of environmental conditions on human systems They may also allow us to infer past ecological knowledge and land use patterns that are historically contingent rather than environmentally determined This volume gathers contributions that combine reconstructions of past environments and archeological data with a view to exploring their complex interactions at different scales and invites scholars from varying disciplines and backgrounds to present and compare different modelling approaches

Mediterranean Landscapes in Post Antiquity Sauro Gelichi, Lauro Olmo-Enciso, 2019-06-27 The study of landscape has in recent years been a field for considerable analytical archaeological experimentation Although the Mediterranean is the home of classicism it has seen the implementation of projects of this new kind and in regions of Spain and Italy after some delay the proliferation of landscape archaeology studies

Historical Archaeology and Environment Marcos André Torres de Souza, Diogo Menezes Costa, 2018-07-20 This edited volume gathers contributions focused on understanding the environment through the lens of Historical Archaeology Pressing issues such as climate change global warming the Anthropocene and loss of biodiversity have pushed scholars from different areas to examine issues related to the causes processes and consequences of these phenomena While traditional barriers between natural and social sciences have been torn down these issues have gradually occupied a central place in the field of anthropology As archaeology involves the transdisciplinary study of cultural and natural evidence related to the past it is in a privileged position to discuss the historical depth of some of the processes related to environment that are deeply affecting the world today This volume brings together substantial and comprehensive contributions to the understanding of the environment in a historical perspective along three lines of inquiry Theoretical and methodological approaches to the environment in Historical Archaeology Studies on environmental Historical Archaeology Historical Archaeology and the Anthropocene Historical Archaeology and Environment will be of interest to researchers in both social and environmental sciences working in different disciplines and research areas such as archaeology history geography anthropology climate change studies environmental analysis and sustainable development studies

The Archaeology of Environmental Change Christopher T. Fisher, J. Brett Hill, Gary M. Feinman, 2022-05-24 Water management soil conservation sustainable animal husbandry because such socio environmental challenges have been faced throughout history lessons from the past can often inform modern policy In this book case studies from a wide range of times and places reveal how archaeology can contribute to a better understanding of humans relation to the environment The Archaeology of Environmental Change shows that the challenges facing humanity today in terms of causing and reacting to environmental change can be better approached through an attempt to understand how societies in the past dealt with similar circumstances The contributors draw on archaeological research in multiple regions North America Mesoamerica Europe the Near East and Africa from time periods spanning the Holocene and from environments ranging from tropical forest to desert Through such examples as environmental degradation in Transjordan wildlife management in East Africa and soil conservation among the ancient Maya they demonstrate the negative effects humans have had on their environments and how societies in the past dealt with these same problems All call into question and ultimately refute popular notions of a simple cause and effect relationship between people and their environment and reject the notion of people as either hapless victims of unstoppable forces or inevitable destroyers of natural harmony These contributions show that by examining long term trajectories of socio natural relationships we can better define concepts such as sustainability land degradation and conservation and that gaining a more accurate and complete understanding of these connections is essential for evaluating current theories and models of environmental degradation and conservation Their insights demonstrate that to understand the present environment and to manage landscapes for the future we must consider the historical record of the total sweep of anthropogenic environmental change
