Environmental Crime In Europe Rules Of Sanctions:

Environmental Crime in Europe Françoise Comte, Ludwig Krämer, 2004 The articles assembled in this book present the written versions of contributions made to a conference on criminal sanctions in environmental law which the European Commission had organized in November 2003 The majority of the contributions are in English some papers written in French are presented here in their original language A few contributions in Italian and German were translated into English The book hopes to contribute to the discussion on sanctions in environmental law which are in the opinion of the editors neither efficient nor a deterrent As this discussion will start anew once the EC Court of Justice will have decided the question whether the EC may provide for penal environmental sanctions this book will deliver useful background material to the role and the protection of the environment in the European Union at the begin of this 21st century Environmental Criminal Liability and Enforcement in European and International Law Ricardo Pereira, 2015-09-29 The drive for harmonisation of environmental criminal standards at both the international and European level emerges from the increasing recognition of the scale and seriousness of environmental crime the need to strengthen mechanisms of police and judicial interstate cooperation to combat cross border crime and the objective to ensure fair competition in a global economy and an integrated EU common market The harmonisation of environmental criminal law requires a competent institutional framework able to convey the need for criminalisation of environmental harm while not overriding national aspirations to sovereignty in criminal matters The book Environmental Criminal Liability and Enforcement in European and International Law assesses legal theoretical and practical questions of harmonisation of national environmental criminal law and the mechanisms for cooperation by sovereign states under European and International Law with a particular emphasis on legislative developments in the European Union the Council of Europe and other international institutions assessing the case for an extension of the jurisdiction of the International Criminal Court over international environmental crimes Environmental Crime in Europe Andrew Farmer, Michael Faure, Grazia Maria Vagliasindi, 2017-12-14 Environmental crime is a growing challenge for policy makers and law enforcers This is an important and timely study which examines in depth how environmental crime is treated at national level within the European Union and the impact of the 2008 EU Directive on environmental crime on national systems It will be required reading by anyone concerned with making environmental law more effective Richard Macrory Emeritus Professor University College London The aim of this important new collection is to explore how environmental crime is controlled and environmental criminal law is shaped and implemented within the European Union and its Member States It examines the legal framework looking in particular at Directive 2008 99 EC and the specific competences of the EU in this domain In addition it provides a detailed analysis of environmental criminal law in seven Member States focusing inter alia on the basic legislation the way in which environmental pollution is criminalised and the main actors in place to enforce environmental criminal law In so doing it provides a much needed explanation of the Environmental Crime in Europe and Beyond Ragnhild Sollund, Christoph H. Stefes, Anna Rita Germani, 2017-03-27 This book brings together the findings of a multi-disciplinary and international research project on environmental crime in Europe, funded by the European Union. EU European Union Action to Fight Environmental Crime (EFFACE) was a 40-month research project that included eleven European research institutions and think tanks and was led by Ecologic Institute Berlin. EFFACE assessed the impacts of environmental crime as well as effective and feasible policy options for combating it from a multidisciplinary perspective with a focus on the EU. As part of this project, numerous instances of environmental crime within and outside of the EU were studied and are now presented in this volume. This edited collection is highly innovative in showing not only the many facets of environmental crime but also how it should be conceptualised and the consequences. An original and rigorous study, this book will be of particular interest to policy makers and scholars of green criminology and environmental studies. The Legal Regulation of Environmental Crime Valsamis Mitsilegas, Elena Fasoli, Fabio
