Elamé,2022-06-03 Most African cities are human settlements that lack the systems needed for effective land use planning In fact the disorganization that prevails has become so complex that the concept of urbanism itself has been called into question This book highlights the need to restore urban planning in African cities through sustainable development and interculturality Furthermore it addresses the balance of power between urban planning and sustainable development and explores the historical and postcolonial aspects of urban planning in African cities A case study focusing on the development of sustainable cities and neighborhoods in the M Zab Valley is also included as well as topics such as urban greening climatic threats and the problem of state agro industrial land transactions which compete with sustainable urban planning

Sustainable Intercultural Urbanism at the Service of the African City of Tomorrow is a valuable reference for researchers and practitioners interested in urban issues in African cities. These cities, in particular sub-Saharan cities, have long been excluded from any discourse on sustainable cities and urban planning. This book places the focus on these cities and acknowledges their varied urban realities. The intention is to spark a new debate on sustainable urban planning in African cities based on intercultural sustainable urbanism, which is key to thinking about and building ecological, intercultural, compact, intelligent and postcolonial cities.

Local Sustainable Urban Development in a Globalized World Dr Lauren C Heberle, Dr Susan M Opp, 2012-11-28. Sustainable development is a key issue of concern to urban planners across the globe. How it is defined, implemented and measured at the local level remains highly contested and subject to a wide range of external cultural, political and economic pressures. Bringing together leading experts from North America, Europe, the Middle East and SE Asia, this book provides a timely overview of the various methods for understanding and implementing sustainable practices at local levels. In doing so, they present the wide range of local action alternatives available to planners that may be pursued in spite of the constraints generated by globalization processes and highlight the array of public policy options that could reduce the external pressures shaping the possible local alternatives. The book argues that while local planners and local authorities are willing to act, many are unaware of the range of options available to them. In bringing together these case studies, not only diverse in geographic terms but also reflecting very different levels of income, general population, education, cultural norms, legal systems and government structures, it points out innovations and examples of best practice.
