Chinese Economic Development and the Environment Shunsuke Managi, Shinji Kaneko, 2010-01-01 The authors are to be congratulated for a book that provides a comprehensive and vigorous analysis of many pressing environmental issues which China faces now and will face in the future The book will be of interest to a broad audience and is a must read for and should be on the book shelf of anyone concerned about and attempting to understand environmental issues related to agriculture water industry energy production and use investment and development in China Zhongxiang Zhang The China Journal Over the past two decades China has become an economic powerhouse However as the world's largest producer of CO₂ emissions the scale and seriousness of China's environmental problems are clearly evident This pioneering book provides an economic analysis of the significant environmental and energy problems facing China in the 21st century Chinese Economic Development and the Environment measures productivity taking into account energy resources and environmental attributes that are central to sustaining economies Applying an integrated model of energy production transformation and consumption processes the authors investigate the underlying driving forces behind trends in CO₂ emissions in relation to the total primary energy supply Exploring the history and development of China's economic energy and environmental policy this book will strongly appeal to postgraduate students in economics and environmental studies It will also be beneficial for practitioners and policy makers interested in understanding how successful market and environmental policies can contribute to efficiency by encouraging rather than inhibiting technological innovation A World without Famine? John Toye, Helen O'Neill, 1998-03-15 The proceedings of the Development Studies Association conference held in Dublin on the 150th anniversary of the Great Irish Famine examine the historical background and the reasons why the spectre of famine continues to haunt much of the developing world today Set in the context of the concepts of food security and insecurity it emphasises our moral responsibility to act collectively and to tackle less dramatic problems of food insecurity

Agriculture, Trade, And The Environment Maury E. Bredahl, 2019-03-13 In this timely volume an international group of economists trade negotiators and environmentalists brings diverse perspectives to bear on the contentious issue of international trade and the environment Providing a conceptual framework to help assess the issues the contributors discuss three themes the dimensions of the economic and political Grassroots Environmental Action Dharam Ghai, Jessica M. Vivian, 2014-01-14 Foreword by Maurice Strong Under Secretary General of the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development Tackles one of the major debates in development bottom up development versus external aid UNRISD United Nations Research Institute for Social Development is highly prestigious organisation Contains comprehensive case studies from across the developing world Hb has sold 975 copies since publication in August 1992 Infrastructure and the Complexity of Economic Development David F. Batten, Charlie Karlsson, 2012-12-06 The book examines the complex relationships between infrastructure and the rest of the economy In particular it focuses on the contentious issue of whether infrastructure investments stimulate productivity growth issues of pricing and ownership and also development problems such as environmental damage Methods range from traditional production function models and compensating variation approaches to nonlinear methods of dynamic analysis There is a unique emphasis on the ability of these different methods to allow for the complex interdependencies involved Six of the fifteen papers deal with these methodological aspects whereas the remainder addresses specific cases or examples in a variety of countries Europe USA and developing countries

Environmental Problems in an Urbanizing World Jorge E. Hardoy, Diana Mitlin, David Satterthwaite, 2013-11-05 New edition of Environmental Problems in Third World Cities Cities in Africa Asia and Latin America contain some of the world's most life and health threatening human environments Environment related diseases and injuries cause millions of preventable deaths each year In many squatter settlements children are 40 to 50 times more likely to die before the age of five than they would be in Europe or North America and most such deaths are environment related Many cities also cause serious environmental degradation to their surroundings and increasingly contribute to global warming This updated and much expanded edition of the classic Environmental Problems in Third World Cities describes environmental problems and their effect on human health local ecosystems and global cycles It points to the political causes that underpin many of these problems including ineffective unaccountable governments and aid agencies reluctance to work with the urban poor It also highlights innovative solutions such as High quality low cost homes and neighbourhoods developed by urban poor groups working with local non governmental organizations Local Agenda 21s developed by municipal governments in partnership with community organizations In their analysis the authors show that cities can meet sustainable development goals There are practical affordable solutions to their environmental problems but most of these depend on more competent and accountable city governments and on more support for low income households and their organizations The book also outlines the changes needed international aid agencies to support this PRAISE FOR THE FIRST EDITION It s rare to encounter a work as authoritative and accessible as this It is a mine of useful information from cities in every corner of the Third World which does not shy away from the immensity of the problems but says as much about the solutions to them as about the problems themselves Jonathon Porritt Well written and very accessible The Geographical Journal Of value to students teachers practitioners policy makers and aid agencies Third World Planning Review A valuable resource for understanding the underlying problems this book offers practical alternatives Cities International Handbook on the Economics of Natural Resources Robert Halvorsen,David F. Layton,2015-02-27 The topics discussed in the Handbook on the Economics of Natural Resources are essential for those looking to understand how best to use and conserve the resources that form the foundation for human well being These include nonrenewable resources mod Environmental Law in Uganda Emmanuel Kasimbazi,Kibandama Alexander,2018-04-19 Derived from the renowned multi volume International Encyclopaedia of Laws this book provides ready access to legislation and practice concerning the environment in Uganda A general introduction covers geographic considerations political social and cultural aspects of environmental study the sources and principles of environmental law environmental legislation and the role of public authorities The main body of the book deals first with laws aimed directly at protecting the environment from pollution in specific areas such as air water waste soil noise and radiation Then a section on nature and conservation management covers protection of natural and cultural resources such as monuments landscapes parks and reserves wildlife agriculture forests fish subsoil and minerals Further treatment includes the application of zoning and land use planning rules on liability and administrative and judicial remedies to environmental issues There is also an analysis of the impact of international and regional legislation and treaties on environmental regulation Its succinct yet scholarly nature as well as the practical quality of the information it provides make this book a valuable resource for environmental lawyers handling cases affecting Uganda Academics and researchers as well as business investors and the various international organizations in the field will welcome this very useful guide and will appreciate its value in the study of comparative environmental law and policy The Socio-Economic Causes and Consequences of Desertification in Central Asia Roy Behnke,2008-08-19 This book contains a selection of papers presented at the Advanced Research Workshop on The Socio economic causes and consequences of desertification in Central Asia held in Bishkek Kyrgyzstan in June 2006 The meeting provided a forum for twenty six scientists from Central Asia and NATO countries to discuss the human dimensions of the desertifi tion process Papers presented to the meeting examined recent scientific evidence on the impact of desertification on livestock production public health and biodiversity and contributed to the formulation of coherent national and regional policies for the management of watersheds rangelands and irrigated agriculture The meeting was co directed by Roy Behnke of the Macaulay Institute UK and by Lapas Alibekov of the Samarkand State University Uzbekistan Both the workshop and this subsequent publication have been financed by the NATO Scientific Affairs Division and we gratefully acknowledge this support The Bishkek meeting was ably hosted by the Kyrgyz Sheep Breeders Association under the direction of Akylbek Rakaev who contributed substantially to the successful running of the workshop Deliberations at the workshop emphasized that policy failures at national level had promoted desertification within the region

The World Bank Research Program 2004 World Bank,2005 The World Bank's research is intended to address critical issues and problems facing member governments in developing and transition economies How can the governments of the poorest countries generate enough revenue to provide the education and health services essential to reducing poverty and promoting growth and development How can poor countries attract investors to build the infrastructure their economies need How can they develop systems to bring clean water to the 2 billion people without it today How can they train teachers and bring to class the 115 million children who have not yet received any education And how can rich countries be persuaded to lower market barriers helping to reverse the decline in export prices for poor countries that has left them earning less from trade today than in the 1970s These are the types of questions that are addressed in this edition of The World Bank Research Program Abstracts from Current Studies This volume reports on research projects initiated under way or completed from July 2003 through June 2004 It covers 151 research projects on several broad development related issues including agriculture health education environment infrastructure investment climate and more The abstract for each project describes the questions addressed the analytic methods used the findings to date and policy implications

Economics of Agricultural Development George W. Norton,Jeffrey Alwang,William A. Masters,2021-08-01 Economics of Agricultural Development examines the causes severity and effects of poverty population growth and malnutrition in developing countries It discusses potential solutions to these problems progress made in many countries in recent years and the implications of globalization for agriculture poverty and the environment Topics covered in the book include Means for utilizing agricultural surpluses to further overall economic development The sustainability of the natural resource environment Gender issues in relation to agriculture and resource use The contribution of improved technologies to agricultural development The importance of agricultural policies and institutions to development and trade Actions to encourage more rapid agricultural and economic development This new edition reflects the following developments Growth in environmental challenges due to climate change Continued progress in agricultural and economic development in many low income countries while other countries and regions are being left behind Continued growth in demand for higher valued farm products This book is essential reading for undergraduate students seeking to understand the economics of agricultural development and the world food system including environmental and human consequences international trade and capital flows It contains a wealth of real world case studies and is accompanied by a website

Development Projects as Policy Experiments Dennis A. Rondinelli,1993 The complexity of the development process calls for an adaptive approach for assistance programmes which rely on strategic planning responsiveness and experimentation and decision making processes that join learning with action Global City-Regions Allen J. Scott,2001-01-25 There are now more than three hundred city regions around the world with populations greater than one million These city regions are expanding vigorously and they present many new and deep challenges to researchers and policy makers in both the more developed and less developed parts of the world The processes of global economic integration and accelerated urban growth make traditional planning and policy strategies in these regions increasingly inadequate while more effective approaches remain largely in various stages of hypothesis and experimentation Global City Regions represents a multifaceted effort to deal with the many different issues raised by these developments It seeks at once to define the question of global city regions and to describe the internal and external dynamics that shape them it proposes a theorization of global city regions based on their economic and political responses to intensifying levels of globalization and it offers a number of policy insights into the severe social problems that confront global city regions as they come face to face with an economically and politically neoliberal world At a moment when globalization is increasingly subject to critical scrutiny in many different quarters this book provides a timely overview of its effects on urban and regional development one of its most important but perhaps least understood corollaries The book also offers a series of nuanced visions of alternative possible futures The World Bank Research Program 2001 World Bank,World Bank Staff,2001-01-01 This publication is a compilation of reports on research projects initiated under way or completed in fiscal year 2001 July 1 2000 through June 30 2001 The abstracts cover 150 research projects from the World Bank and grouped under 11 major headings including poverty and social development health and population education labor and employment environment infrastructure and urban development and agriculture and rural development The abstracts detail the questions addressed the analytical methods used the findings to date and their policy implications Each abstract identifies the expected completion date of each project the research team and reports or publications produced Attacking Poverty ,2000 At the start of each decade the World Development Report focuses on poverty reduction The World Development Report now in its twenty third edition proposes an empowerment security opportunity framework of action to reduce poverty in the first decades of the twenty first century It views poverty as a multidimensional phenomenon arising out of complex interactions between assets markets and institutions This Report shows how the experience of poverty reduction in the last fifteen years has been remarkably diverse and how this experience has provided useful lessons as well as warnings against simplistic universal policies and interventions It shows how current global trends present extraordinary opportunities for poverty reduction but also cause extraordinary risks including growing inequality marginalization and social explosions The World Development Report 2000 2001 explores the challenge of managing these risks in order to make the most of the opportunities for poverty reduction

The Theory and Practice of Command and Control in Environmental Policy Peter Berck, 2018-01-12 This title was first published in 2003 Economists have had increasing success in arguing the merits of market based approaches to environmental problems By making polluting expensive market based approaches provide polluters with incentives to clean up rather than mandates to stop polluting These approaches include pollution taxes transferable emissions permits and subsidies for pollution abatement The purpose of this volume is to explore the situations where Command and Control CAC may not be all bad and in fact might even have some advantages over market based instruments MBI

Asia's Clean Revolution David Angel, Michal Rock, 2017-09-20 The world's environmental future will be determined in significant part by what happens in the rapidly industrialising and urban economies of Asia The sheer scale of urban population and industrial growth in Asia from Indonesia to China and the energy and materials intensive character of the development process constitutes a dark shadow over the region's and indeed the world's environment And yet this challenge is also an opportunity Precisely because so much of the urban industrial investment within developing Asia has yet to take place the opportunity exists to shape a different development future one that is far less energy materials and waste intensive Asia's Clean Revolution examines the prospects for and pathways to such a new trajectory The book lays out a path breaking vision of how developing economies might go beyond environmental regulation and put in place an array of policies and institutions that could integrate environmental industrial and technological goals These findings provide important input for negotiators considering climate change on a global scale The book approaches the challenge of growth and environment in Asia in a novel way by identifying six major transformational dynamics under way in the world today and assessing whether these can be harnessed to the goal of improved environmental performance of industry With a set of specially commissioned chapters from the leading authorities in North America and Asia this ground breaking book is the first to present concrete policy solutions to the looming crisis driven by large scale urban industrial growth in developing Asia

Private Sector Investment in Infrastructure Jeffrey Delmon, 2015-10-28 Investment in infrastructure is critical to economic growth quality of life poverty reduction access to education good quality healthcare and achieving many of the goals of a robust and dynamic economy However infrastructure is difficult for the public sector to get right This remarkably insightful and enormously useful book now in its third edition shows how the private sector through public private partnerships PPP can provide more efficient procurement through cheaper faster and better quality refocus infrastructure services on consumer satisfaction and life cycle maintenance place the financial burden of providing infrastructure on consumers rather than taxpayers and provide new sources of investment in particular through limited recourse debt i.e project financing Taking the particular challenges associated with PPP fully into account this book provides a practical guide to PPP in all the following ways and more how governments can enable and encourage PPP how PPP financing works what PPP contractual structures look like and most importantly how PPP risk allocation works in practice Specific discussion of each infrastructure sector is provided Lawyers and business people civil engineers economic development officials and specialists banking and insurance professionals and academics will all find the ground well covered in this book as well as new ground broken Economic Development and Environmental Sustainability Ramón López, Michael A.
