Betsill, Elisabeth Corell, 2007-10-05 Provides an analytical framework for assessing the impact of NGOs on intergovernmental negotiations on the environment and identifying the factors that determine the degree of NGO influence with case studies that apply the framework to negotiations on climate change biosafety desertification whaling and forests Over the past thirty years nongovernmental organizations NGOs have played an increasingly influential role in international negotiations particularly on environmental issues NGO diplomacy has become in the words of one organizer an international experiment in democratizing intergovernmental decision making But there has been little attempt to determine the conditions under which NGOs make a difference in either the process or the outcome of international negotiations This book presents an analytic framework for the systematic and comparative study of NGO diplomacy in international environmental negotiations Chapters by experts on international environmental policy apply this framework to assess the effect of NGO diplomacy on specific negotiations on environmental and sustainability issues The proposed analytical framework offers researchers the tools with which to assess whether and how NGO diplomats affect negotiation processes outcomes or both and through comparative analysis the book identifies factors that explain variation in NGO influence including coordination of strategy degree of access institutional overlap and alliances with key states The empirical chapters use the framework to evaluate the degree of NGO influence on the first phase of the Kyoto Protocol negotiations on global climate change the Cartagena Protocol on Biosafety the United Nations Convention to Combat Desertification negotiations within the International Whaling Commission that resulted in new management procedures and a ban on commercial whaling and international negotiations on forests involving the United Nations the International Tropical Timber Organization and the World Trade Organization Contributors Steinar Andresen Michele M Betsill Stanley W Burgiel Elisabeth Corell David Humphreys Tora Skodvin      NAFTA and Sustainable Development Hoi L. Angela Churie-Kallhauge, Gunnar Sjöstedt, Elisabeth Corell, 2017-09-08 The World Summit on Sustainable Development WSSD in Johannesburg 2002 was the latest conference in an international process to manage environment and development issues that can be traced back to the late 1960s Three milestones mark this 30 year process of social and political interaction the United Nations Conference on the Human Environment UNCHE held in Stockholm in 1972 the first international meeting at a high political level convened to address environmental issues the 1992 United Nations Conference on Environment and Development UNCED held in Rio de Janeiro and the WSSD which attempted to set policy goals and targets for the global environmental and developmental challenges previously identified But what did the WSSD achieve Following the summit there have been various opinions of its significance and its outputs many of them negative This book argues that there is a need to place the WSSD in its broader context Understanding the connections between the WSSD and its precedents as well as those between this overall process and individual environmental decision making processes such as on climate change and how they all contribute to the overall global policy process adds a critical dimension to the analysis of the WSSD outcomes This book examines the challenges facing the global policy process for sustainable development as it continues beyond Johannesburg into the future It combines a forward outlook with a historical perspective in tracing the evolution of selected cross cutting themes on the agenda of the three conferences the institutions and formal results of the process and the actors and their patterns of interaction over time The focus is on the decision making dimension the multilateral negotiations which can be seen as the development over time of a pattern of interlinked political activities Global Challenges has four operational objectives first to define the ongoing process that formally began with the Stockholm Conference in 1972 and evolved towards its latest major manifestation at the WSSD second to present some dynamics of the Stockholm Rio Johannesburg SRJ process by exploring the themes identified third to introduce an approach on how to consider the outcomes of this process as a way of reflecting on what the process has actually accomplished and finally to discuss lessons learned for theory and practice from this exercise The practical lessons include reflections on how the continued SRJ process should best be organised and supported into the future The book takes a uniquely broad outlook and interdisciplinary approach in addressing important lessons relating to the emergence of substantive issues as well as to process and institutional dynamics It is a bridge building exercise from academic analysis to long term strategic thinking in environmental regime building Global Challenges provides a new perspective on the continuing and increasingly complex global environment and development policy process and analyses the interlinkages between the process trends and cross cutting issues that set the conditions for the global efforts to achieve sustainable development It will be essential reading for academics and practitioners interested in seeing the big picture of the global challenges facing people and planet in the 21st century

The Politics of Environmental Policy in Russia David Lewis Feldman,Ivan Blokov,2012-01-01 A fresh and up to date discussion of Russia s manifold environmental crises using the results of an elite survey and a framework based on the civil society literature I believe this is the best treatment of its subject that is presently available and given Russia s enormous territorial extent it is a study that has important implications for everyone who has any concern for the future of Planet Earth Stephen White University of Glasgow UK In recent years international inter governmental entities have acknowledged the importance of civil society for engaging stakeholders in environmental change especially at the local community level and in promoting democracy In Russia efforts by NGOs to promote reform since the fall of the Soviet Union have been aimed at achieving both objectives This fascinating and highly illuminating book explores the political legal and attitudinal barriers to environmental reform in Russia since 1991 The authors renowned experts in the field explore efforts to develop a mature civil society in Russia and analyse the policy views of environmental groups the media and the scientific community Three important case studies underpin the study suspended plans to build an oil pipeline near Lake Baikal management of Cold War generated radioactive waste at Chelyabinsk and public reaction to the introduction of genetically modified foods The conclusion is that although civil society groups face obstacles in the form of apathy state imposed constraints on their activities and agency reluctance to confer on decisions there are some successes in reversing decisions due in part to NGO pressures yielding reform This path breaking book will be of enormous interest to scholars researchers and students focusing on comparative environmental policy and politics contemporary public policy in Russia and international politics

Ngo Influence on Forest Legislation Ramon Bravo Gonzalez, 2010-08 In the last two decades a concern on how federal forests in the United States are managed has provoked concerns among different stakeholders including NGOs The purpose of this thesis is to contribute to the understanding of NGO influence on forest management legislation Eight aspects were selected and compared in different study cases referring to legislative proposals dealing with forest management in order to define success criteria for a legislative initiative The study indicates that the following criteria are particularly important to fulfill in order to influence forest management legislation The issue to address should be on the political agenda and have high public interest Environmental and social aspects should not be at the expense of economic aspects The legislative initiative should be prepared in multi stakeholder processes including local government and organizations The supporters of the initiative should take part in all decision making processes and advise the Government in aspects related to their areas of expertise NGOs would likely improve their chances of influencing forest management legislation if they hold a flexible position regarding legislative proposals containing similar or even less strict measures than their own initiatives look at market oriented schemes as alternatives to legislation and maintain good relationships with other major stakeholders
