Newton, 2008-04-15 Business Ethics and the Natural Environment examines the present status of relations between corporate enterprise and the natural environment in the world today Discusses such questions as What obligations does a corporation have toward the environment To respect entities unprotected by law To care about future generations Argues that environmentally friendly business practices yield dividends exceeding expectations and that the competitive firm of the 21st century will follow green standards Provides a background in ethics a survey of business ethics an account of environmental philosophy an overview of environmental legal issues and an account of the problems associated with globalization

Ideology, Social Theory, and the Environment William D. Sunderlin, 2003 Does human population growth threaten the environment or does it guarantee we will safeguard it Is economic growth the key ecological problem or is it in fact the solution What will be the leading force to save the planet civil society government or private enterprise This book shows that these polemical debates are governed not so much by access to facts as they are by the political ideology of the expert advancing a particular argument Moreover the thoughts of these experts tend to be based largely in just one of three competing streams of political thought the left the center or the right Drawing on social theory the author explains the philosophical origins of this tendency to rely on just one of three traditions and why this poses a serious obstacle to conceptualizing the cause nature and resolution of environmental problems Sunderlin argues that laying the foundation for a livable world involves giving conscious and dedicated attention to the core tenets of all three political traditions action against class inequality and advocacy of social justice within and among countries reformation of laws and policies emanating from the halls of power and technological innovation in centers of research and wholesale cultural change and promotion of individual initiative responsibility and creativity

The Humanities and the Dynamics of African Culture in the 21st Century John Ayotunde Isola Bewaji, Kenneth W. Harrow, Eunice E. Omonzejie, 2017-05-11 That Africa is at a crossroads in an increasingly globalised world is indisputable Equally unassailable is the fact that the humanities as a broad field of intellection research and learning in Africa appears to have been pigeonholed in debates of relevance in the development aspirations of many African nations Historical experiences and contemporary research outputs indicate however that the humanities in its various shades is critical to Africa's capacity to respond effectively to such problems as security corruption political ineptitude poverty superstition and HIV AIDS among many other mounting challenges which confront the people of Africa The vibrancy and resilience of Africa's cultures against these and other odds of globalisation episodes in the course of our history demand the focused attention of academia to exploit their relevance to contemporary issues This collection provides a comprehensive overview of issues in the humanities at the turn of the 21st century which create a veritable platform for the global redefinition and understanding of Africa's rich cultures and traditions Such areas covered include ruminations in metaphysics and psychology pathos and ethos cinematic and literary connections and historical conceptualisations

Global Environmental Governance and the Accountability Trap Susan Park, Teresa Kramarz, 2019-02-19 An examination of whether accountability mechanisms in global environmental governance that focus on monitoring and enforcement necessarily lead to better governance and better environmental outcomes The rapid development of global environmental governance has been accompanied by questions of accountability Efforts to address what has been called a culture of unaccountability include greater transparency public justification for governance decisions and the establishment of monitoring and enforcement procedures And yet as this volume shows these can lead to an accountability trap a focus on accountability measures rather than improved environmental outcomes Through analyses and case studies the contributors consider how accountability is being used within global environmental governance and if the proliferation of accountability tools enables governance to better address global environmental deterioration Examining public private voluntary and hybrid types of global environmental governance the volume shows that the different governance goals of the various actors shape the accompanying accountability processes These goals from serving constituents to reaping economic benefits determine to whom and for what the actors must account After laying out a theoretical framework for its analyses the book addresses governance in the key areas of climate change biodiversity fisheries and trade and global value chains The contributors find that normative biases shape accountability processes and they explore the potential of feedback mechanisms between institutions and accountability rules for enabling better governance and better environmental outcomes Contributors Graeme Auld Harro van Asselt Cristina Balboa Lieke Brouwer Lorraine Elliott Lars H Gulbrandsen Aarti Gupta Teresa Kramarz Susan Park Philipp Pattberg William H Schaedla Hamish van der Ven Oscar Widerberg
