Mitchell Polinsky, Steven Shavell, 2007-11-07 Law can be viewed as a body of rules and legal sanctions that channel behavior in socially desirable directions for example by encouraging individuals to take proper precautions to prevent accidents or by discouraging competitors from colluding to raise prices The incentives created by the legal system are thus a natural subject of study by economists Moreover given the importance of law to the welfare of societies the economic analysis of law merits prominent treatment as a subdiscipline of economics This two volume Handbook is intended to foster the study of the legal system by economists The two volumes form a comprehensive and accessible survey of the current state of the field Chapters prepared by leading specialists of the area Summarizes received results as well as new developments Consolidated Listing of Official Gazette Notices Re Patent and Trademark Office Practices and Procedures, 2007 Interpreting TRIPS Hiroko Yamane, 2011-03-21

Protection of intellectual property rights IPRs has become a global issue The Trade Related Aspects of Intellectual Property TRIPS Agreement outlines the minimum standards for IPR protection for WTO members and offers a global regime for IPR protection However the benefits of TRIPS are more questionable in poorer countries where national infrastructure for research and development R D and social protection are inadequate whereas the cost of innovation is high Today after more than a decade of intense debate over global IPR protection the problems remain acute although there is also evidence of progress and cooperation This book examines various views of the role of IPRs as incentives for innovation against the backdrop of development and the transfer of technology between globalised knowledge based high technology economies The book retraces the origins content and interpretations of the TRIPS Agreement including its interpretations by WTO dispute settlement organs It also analyses sources of controversy over IPRs examining pharmaceutical industry strategies of emerging countries with different IPR policies The continuing international debate over IPRs is examined in depth as are TRIPS rules and the controversy about implementing the flexibilities of the Agreement in the light of national policy objectives The author concludes that for governments in developing countries as well as for their business and scientific communities a great deal depends on domestic policy objectives and their implementation IPR protection should be supporting domestic policies for innovation and investment This in turn requires a re casting of the debate about TRIPS to place cooperation in global and efficient R D at the heart of concerns over IPR protection

Governing Knowledge Commons Brett M. Frischmann, Michael J. Madison, Katherine J. Strandburg, 2014-08-05 Knowledge commons describes the institutionalized community governance of the sharing and in some cases creation of information science knowledge data and other types of intellectual and cultural resources It is the subject of enormous recent interest and enthusiasm with respect to policymaking about innovation creative production and intellectual property Taking that enthusiasm as its starting point Governing Knowledge Commons argues that policymaking should be based on evidence and a deeper understanding of what makes commons institutions work It offers a systematic way to study knowledge commons borrowing and building on Elinor Ostrom's Nobel Prize winning research on natural resource commons It proposes a framework for studying knowledge commons that is adapted to the unique attributes of knowledge and information describing the framework in detail and explaining how to put it into context both with respect to commons research and with respect to innovation and information policy Eleven detailed case studies apply and discuss the framework exploring knowledge commons across a wide variety of scientific and cultural domains

Intellectual Property and Information Wealth Peter K. Yu, 2006-12-30 Until recently issues of intellectual property were relegated to the experts attorneys legal scholars rightsholders and technology developers who wrangled over interpretations and enforcement of copyright patent and trademark protections But in today's knowledge based economy intellectual property protection has taken on fundamentally new proportions as a subject of urgency for businesses whose survival depends on protection of their intangible assets and as a subject of cultural importance that grabs
