Elite Sport Development in South Korea Jae Woo Park, 2011 This thesis explores the process of elite sport policy development in South Korea The thesis analyses the process of policy change in the sports of athletics archery and baseball at the elite level The three objectives of the study are i to trace the emergence development and current status of elite sport policy in South Korea ii to identify how elite sport policy has changed in response to both exogenous factors and endogenous factors and iii to evaluate the utility of the macro level and meso level theories of the process of policy change in relation to Korean elite sport development A case study approach is adopted focusing on each of the three sports in turn wherein a qualitative methodology semi structured interviews and document analysis is utilised in order to elicit data regarding elite sport policy change and development The analysis of the three case studies is organised by following the two principal themes identified by Green ii improvements in sport science coaching and facilities and iii the provision of more systematic competition opportunities for elite level athletes It could be argued that Green Houlihan's 2005 analytical framework was very useful in investigating elite sport development in the cases of athletics archery and baseball but it did not identify all distinctive aspects of the Korean elite sport system A further prominent area of elite sport development has emerged and identified in the cases of the three sports that is a cash award system This study reveals the significance of business leaders on the development of the three sports in general and the sports successes in international sporting competitions in particular The study also identifies that all three sports have been shaped by the actions of a sport policy community involving a small number of groups or actors which share common perceptions and the ultimate goal of each sport's success in international sporting events The study concludes that the overlapping assumptions between elitism and neo pluralism are the most likely explanation of the Korean elite sport policy process at the macro level analysis It is concluded that although three frameworks ACF MSF and policy networks provide partial insights into Korean elite sport policy process in the three sports none of the three frameworks adopted provides a comprehensive explanation of policy change in the three sports In particular the advocacy coalition framework has proved useful in drawing attention to the notion of exogenous factors e.g. a sport's failure at an international sporting competition and the change of the presidency of NGBs and policy learning as a key source of policy change The concept of policy community which is a type of policy network has provided partial insights in terms of illuminating the characteristics of the Korean elite sport policy process at the macro level analysis although it has not been a particularly useful lens for explaining the mechanism of policy change in the three sports investigated Routledge Handbook of Sports Development Barrie Houlihan, Mick Green, 2010-12-16 Sports development has become a prominent concern within both the academic study of sport and within the organisation and administration of sport Now available in paperback the Routledge Handbook of Sports Development is the first book to comprehensively map the wide ranging territory of sports development as an activity and as a policy field and to offer a definitive survey of current academic knowledge and professional practice Spanning the whole spectrum of activity in sports development from youth sport and mass participation to the development of elite athletes the book identifies and defines the core functions of sports development exploring the interface between sports development and cognate fields such as education coaching community welfare and policy The book presents important new studies of sports development around the world illustrating the breadth of practice within and between countries and examines the most important issues facing practitioners within sports development today from child protection to partnership working With unparalleled depth and breadth of coverage the Routledge Handbook of Sports Development is the definitive guide to policy practice and research in sports development It is essential reading for all students researchers and professionals with an interest in this important and rapidly evolving discipline Successful Elite Sport Policies Veerle De Bosscher, Simon Shibil, Hans Westerbeek, Maarten van Bottenburg, 2015-08-14 How can nations improve their chances of winning medals in international sport This book deals with the strategic policy planning process that underpins the development of successful national elite sport development systems Drawing on various international competitiveness studies it examines how nations develop and implement policies that are based on the critical success factors that may lead to competitive advantage in world sport An international group of researchers joined forces to develop theories methods and a model on the Sports Policy factors Leading to International Sporting Success SPLISS The book presents the results of the large scale international SPLISS project In this project the research team identified compared and contrasted elite sport policies and strategies in place for the Olympic Games and other events in 15 distinct nations With input from 58 researchers and 33 policy makers worldwide and the views of over 3 000 elite athletes 1 300 high performance coaches and 240 performance directors this work is the largest benchmarking study of national elite sport policies ever conducted The nations taking part in SPLISS are Americas Brazil and Canada Asia Japan and South Korea Europe Belgium Flanders Wallonia Denmark Estonia Finland France the Netherlands Northern Ireland Portugal Spain Switzerland Oceania Australia Examining Sports Development Mike Collins, 2009-12-04 Sports development has received considerable interest from social policymakers in recent years This text is the first to systematically examine and review the outcomes of different sports development policies Comparative
