S. Jacyna, Stephen T. Casper, 2012 Parkinson s Alzheimer s Tourette s multiple sclerosis stroke all are neurological illnesses that create dysfunction distress and disability With their symptoms ranging from impaired movement and paralysis to hallucinations and dementia neurological patients present myriad puzzling disorders and medical challenges Throughout the nineteenth and twentieth centuries countless stories about neurological patients appeared in newspapers books medical papers and films Often the patients were romanticized indeed it was common for physicians to cast neurological patients in a grand performance allegedly giving audiences access to deep philosophical insights about the meaning of life and being Beyond these romanticized images however the neurological patient was difficult to diagnose Experiments often approached unethical realms and treatment created challenges for patients courts caregivers and even for patient advocacy organizations In this kaleidoscopic study the contributors illustrate how the neurological patient was constructed in history and came to occupy its role in Western culture Stephen T Casper is Assistant Professor in Humanities and Social Sciences at Clarkson University L Stephen Jacyna is reader in the History of Medicine and Director of the Centre for the History of Medicine at University College London Methods in Psychobiology R. D. Myers, 2013-09-17 Methods in Psychobiology Volume 3 Advanced Laboratory Techniques in Neuropsychology and Neurobiology is devoted in large measure to specialized techniques that are widely used in the fields of psychobiology and neurobiology The experimental methods described form a companion to those presented in Volumes 1 and 2 Many of the procedures presented hinge directly on a mastery of the more rudimentary techniques dealt with in the earlier volumes The emphasis in the content of this book is on one facet of neurobiology the mammalian central nervous system The central or peripheral processes that affect this system in a rat or larger laboratory animal constitute the principal focus of this series This is due in large part to the enormous amount of research carried out with higher species and the generalizations that it is hoped may be drawn to the nervous system of the human Topics discussed include neuronal connectivity chemical lesioning of indoleamine pathways evaluating sensation in animals after lesions treatment with drugs electrical stimulation cooling or radical changes in environment or development and sleep in animals Neuroanatomy for the Neuroscientist Stanley Jacobson, Elliott M. anatomy physiology and pathology of the nervous system enables one to readily arrive at the diagnosis of where the disease process is located and to apply their knowledge at solving problems in clinical situations The authors have a long experience in teaching neuroscience courses at the first or second year level to medical and dental students and to residents in which clinical information and clinical problem solving are integral to the course C.
