Handbook Of Urban And Community Forestry In The Northeast:

Urban and Community Forestry in the Northeast John E. Kuser, 2006-11-14 During the latter part of 2004 Helen Buitenkamp of Springer Publishing emailed me that the first edition of Handbook of Urban and Community Forestry in the Northeast is the best volume in its field and inquired whether we'd be interested in compiling a second edition. I replied that we certainly would and started working on it immediately. We have revised 14 out of 26 chapters in the first edition and added two new authors. Many things in urban forestry have changed a great deal while others have not changed at all. Henry Gerhold has written an entirely new Chapter 1 based on a book that he and his graduate student Stacy Franks have written entitled Our Heritage of Community Trees. Dave Nowak has included the most up-to-date information on the environmental effects of trees in Chapter 2 and Peter Fengler and Tom Smiley have done the same with the diagnosis and treatment of hazard trees in Chapter 17. All told we have revised or replaced 16 chapters of the original 26; we've kept 10 chapters as originally written and substituted two entirely new chapters 1 and 14 respectively. With the emergence of urban and community forestry as the fastest growing part of our profession in the last several years, the need for a book such as this inevitably developed. The Society of American Foresters urban forestry working group counts over 40 universities now offering courses in this subject and the number is growing.

Handbook of Urban and Community Forestry in the Northeast John E. Kuser, 2013-11-11 With the emergence of urban and community forestry as the fastest growing part of our profession in the last 15 years, the need for a book such as this inevitably developed. The Society of American Foresters urban forestry working group counts 32 or more universities now offering courses in this subject and the number is growing. For the last several years I have coordinated a continuing education urban forestry course at Rutgers for nonmatriculated students. Registrants have included arborists, shade tree commissioners, landscape architects, city foresters, environmental commissioners, park superintendents, and others whose jobs involve care and management of trees. The course was started by Bob Tate in 1980 around a core of managerial subjects such as inventories, budgets, and public relations. After Bob left in 1984 to join Asplundh and later to start his own prosperous business in California, the course languished after it exhausted the local market for those subjects.

Assessing Urban Forest Effects and Values, 2010 An analysis of trees in Chicago, IL, reveals that the city has about 3 585 000 trees with canopies that cover 17.2 percent of the area. The most common tree species are white ash, mulberry, species green ash, and tree of heaven. Chicago's urban forest currently stores about 716 000 tons of carbon, valued at 14.8 million. In addition, these trees remove about 25 200 tons of carbon per year, 521 000 per year, and about 888 tons of air pollution per year, 6.4 million per year. Trees in Chicago are estimated to reduce annual residential energy costs by 360 000 per year. The structural or compensatory value is estimated at 2.3 billion. Information on the structure and functions of the urban forest can be used to inform urban forest management programs and to integrate urban forests within plans to improve environmental quality in the Chicago area Urban Tree Risk Management ,2003 Urban Forestry Robert W. Miller, Richard J. Hauer, Les P. Werner, 2015-04-06 Fully updated and greatly enhanced the Third Edition of Urban Forestry addresses current issues in planning establishing and managing trees forests and other elements of nature in urban and community ecosystems The authors discuss why we have trees in cities and how we use them clarify the appraisal and inventory of urban vegetation and extensively delve into the planning and management of public as well as private vegetation As urban forestry continues to evolve as a profession foresters and arborists can expect many challenges as well as opportunities The continuing development of cities has become linked to a much greater emphasis on urban vegetation the growing demand for recreation amenities within the urban environment and the careful and successful management of vegetation in an urban ecosystem New ways to incorporate the highly versatile urban forest resource into the urban fabric will undoubtedly benefit the lives of its residents Routledge Handbook of Urban Landscape Research Kate Bishop, Linda Corkery, 2022-12-27 Landscape architecture is one of the key professions dedicated to making cities hospitable and healthy places to live work and play while respecting and enhancing the natural environments and landscapes we inhabit This edited collection presents current writing about the pivotal roles that landscape architects play in addressing some of the most pressing problems facing the planet its environments and its populations through their research analysis and speculative practice The book has assembled current writings on recent research structured around five major themes governance power and partnership infrastructure systems and performance environment resilience and climate change people place and design and culture heritage and identity As a collection the chapters demonstrate the diversity of themes and topics that are expanding the scholarly body of knowledge for the discipline and its relevance to the practice of landscape architecture The contributors to this book are academic researchers and practitioners from the discipline of landscape architecture The chapters draw on their research teaching and experience as well as analysis of project examples Fifty two contributors from the United States United Kingdom Sweden Denmark the Netherlands Nigeria Malaysia Spain Colombia Australia New Zealand and Canada discuss a diverse range of contemporary themes in urban landscape architecture Collectively the contributors demonstrate the breadth of experience shared concerns and distinct issues that challenge urban landscape architecture and cities in the 21st century

Heat Islands Lisa Mummery Gartland, 2012-05-16 Heat islands are urban and suburban areas that are significantly warmer than their surroundings Traditional highly absorptive construction materials and a lack of effective landscaping are their main causes Heat island problems in terms of increased energy consumption reduced air quality and effects on human health and mortality are becoming more pressing as cities continue to grow and sprawl This comprehensive book brings together the latest information about heat islands and their mitigation The book describes how heat islands are formed what problems they cause which technologies mitigate heat island effects and what policies and actions can be taken to cool communities Internationally renowned expert Lisa Gartland offers a comprehensive source of information for turning heat islands into cool communities The author includes sections on cool roofing and cool paving explains their benefits in detail and provides practical guidelines for their selection and installation The book also reviews how and why to incorporate trees and vegetation around buildings in parking lots and on green roofs Resource Bulletin NE. ,1981 Assessing urban forest effects and values New York City's urban forest ,2007 Urban Forests, Trees, and Greenspace L. Anders Sandberg,Adrina Bardekjian,Sadia Butt,2014-07-25 Urban forests trees and greenspace are critical in contemporary planning and development of the city Their study is not only a question of the growth and conservation of green spaces but also has social cultural and psychological dimensions This book brings a perspective of political ecology to the complexities of urban trees and forests through three themes human agency in urban forests and greenspace arboreal and greenspace agency in the urban landscape and actions and interventions in the urban forest Contributors include leading authorities from North America and Europe from a range of disciplines including forestry ecology geography landscape design municipal planning environmental policy and environmental history Landscape Trees and Shrubs Mary Forrest,2006-01-01 Illustrated with numerous drawings and photographs this book presents a horticultural overview of the main plant families of trees and shrubs from temperate regions that are cultivated in urban and rural landscape schemes Most of the plants used come from a limited number of plant families and within these families certain genera contribute very significantly The largest chapter in the book describes 37 plant families according to their identification functional use and management in landscape schemes With this information readers will be able to assess the suitability of species and prepare planting designs for prevailing sites

Resource Bulletin NRS ,2006 Routledge Handbook of Forest Ecology Kelvin S.-H. Peh,Richard T. Corlett,Yves Bergeron,2015-10-16 This comprehensive handbook provides a unique resource covering all aspects of forest ecology from a global perspective It covers both natural and managed forests from boreal temperate sub tropical and tropical regions of the world The book is divided into seven parts addressing the following themes forest types forest dynamics forest flora and fauna energy and nutrients forest conservation and management forests and climate change human impacts on forest ecology While each chapter can stand alone as a suitable resource for a lecture or seminar the complete book provides an essential reference text for a wide range of students of ecology environmental science forestry geography and natural resource management Contributors include leading authorities from all parts of the world Ecology, Planning, and Management of Urban Forests Margaret M. Carreiro,Yong-Chang Song,Jianguo Wu,2007-10-31 It has been increasingly recognized that trees and vegetation in urban areas provide a number of ecological services beyond beautifying cities The purpose of urban forestry is to use trees and natural habitat patches to ameliorate negative environmental impacts of cities and to contribute to the creation of more livable ecological sustainable co cities Ecology Planning and Management of Urban Forests takes an international approach to sharing knowledge about the management of urban forests that has been learned through studies in many different regions This allows the reader to evaluate methods and management that are appropriate for particular geographic environmental and socio political contexts Urban forests are also approached on regional and landscape scales to encompass more natural environments in and around cities rather than within arbitrary municipal boundaries
