Handicapping America Frank Bowe, 1978 Describes America's shameful neglect of one out of every six of her citizens who has a physical mental or emotional disability and discusses the right of the disabled to jobs transportation and full participation in the democracy

Philosophical and Ethical Problems in Mental Handicap P. Byrne, 2000-06-01 This book examines a range of important conceptual ethical social and religious issues arising from mental handicap It contains a vigorous defence of the contention that mentally handicapped human beings are persons It attacks both the contemporary philosophical attempts to dismiss the personhood of mentally handicapped people and the genocidal policies which those attempts suggest It explores the logic of the attitudes which have led to the marginalisation and oppression of the mentally handicapped

Handicapping Conditions in Children Bill Gillham, 2022-02-26 First published in 1986 Handicapping Conditions in Children provides an accessible overview of a wide range of handicapping conditions and their remediation and gives a balanced perspective on the medical educational and social issues It will therefore be of value to a wide audience in these professions as well as to students and parents Each chapter deals with one specific area but is presented to cover description of the condition and its aetiology its prevalence in the population and relative developmental characteristics special problems and needs educational and social provision the potential for the future and further reading lists The book does not include every possible condition but concentrates on those that are most frequent or problematic This book is a reissue originally published in 1986 The language used is a reflection of its era and no offence is meant by the Publishers to any reader by this republication

Management of Accessibility for Handicapped Students in Higher Education United States. Department of Education, National Association of College and University Business Officers, 1981 This compendium of four mini projects carried out by a special task force of the National Association of College and University Business Officers NACUBO addresses policy and management issues related to providing accessibility to handicapped students in higher education Topics range from executive policy decisions on compliance with federal accessibility mandates to operational procedures for responding to specific accommodation requests The compendium is comprised of four sections Section 1 was developed from a series of site visit interviews with senior level decision makers faculty staff and handicapped students at six colleges and universities It contains an overview of accessibility issues and problems that require attention a discussion of how accessibility considerations can be incorporated into a planning and budgeting process and a set of guidelines for assessing specific accommodation requests Section 2 reviews 16 national data bases that describe the handicapped population in the United States and contains summary charts of the characteristics revealed Section 3 describes the results of a survey that NACUBO mailed to a stratified sample of 944 of its member institutions concerning trends in accessibility expenditures and number and types of handicapped students served and Section 4 lists adaptive education equipment by impairment such as hearing or mobility and then by function such as writing or speaking The document contains an index equipment source list and lists of information resources and services available to handicapped students GLR Dictionary of Mental Handicap Mary P. Lindsey, 2002-03-11 Over recent years the policy of isolating and institutionalizing mentally handicapped people has gradually been dismantled and a major shift to community care has taken place But integration within the general community and access to special services has greatly increased the number of people with a need to know about mental handicap Each profession or discipline has its own terminology nowadays one must be conversant with all of them In this comprehensive dictionary Mary Lindsey has brought together terms and concepts from a wide variety of fields Approximately 2 400 entries are included ranging in length from concise explanations to encyclopaedic essays but always expressed in clear simple language Where appropriate suggestions for further reading are made and possible sources of further information given An extensive system of cross references leads the interested reader further and makes valuable connections between entries The medical aspects of mental handicap its causes prognoses and treatments are of course covered in detail But although the cause of mental handicap may be medical subsequent interventions may be sociological psychological educational medical paramedical or psychiatric This is reflected in the choice of entries making the Dictionary an invaluable source of reference for all those involved with mentally handicapped people in any capacity whatsoever

Representations of Health, Illness and Handicap Ivana Marková, Robert M. Farr, 1995 First Published in 1997 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Ageing and Mental Handicap James Hogg, Steve Moss, Diana Cooke, 2024-05-10 In the 1980s there was growing interest in the topic of ageing and learning disabilities for two principal reasons First the life expectancy of people with learning disabilities had risen significantly over the previous decades and many once infancy had been survived could expect a life span similar to that of non disabled people Secondly a growing commitment on the part of the government and service providers to make provision for people with disabilities in the community rather than in institutions had focused attention on this group Originally published in 1988 reissued here with a new foreword this book was one of the first on this subject It examines epidemiology and mortality and medical and psychiatric issues compared with non disabled older people It considers how people with learning disabilities change in intellectual and adaptive function with age the nature of family relationships relevant therapeutic programmes and policy and the development of services The book represented a major review of a hitherto neglected topic and would interest gerontologists psychologists and professional health social and educational staff concerned with the welfare of older people with learning disabilities This book is a re issue originally published in 1988 The language used is a reflection of its era and no offence is meant by the Publishers to any reader by this re publication Communication and Handicap E. Hjelmquist, L.-G. Nilsson, 1986-09-01 Theory and data on various aspects of cognition communication and handicap are presented here related to two sorts of psychological compensation. On the one hand, basic principles of cognition are employed with the purpose of helping to overcome communicative difficulties among handicapped people, and on the other, various sorts of technical aids used for compensatory purposes are examined. Many of the papers presented here stem from a conference held in Stockholm in 1985, sponsored by the Swedish Council for the Planning and Coordination of Research as part of a large scale project on handicaps. Although researchers in psychology were in the majority, students of other disciplines also took part.

The Novartis Foundation Series is a popular collection of the proceedings from Novartis Foundation Symposia in which groups of leading scientists from a range of topics across biology, chemistry, and medicine assembled to present papers and discuss results. The Novartis Foundation, originally known as the Ciba Foundation, is well known to scientists and clinicians around the world. The New International Encyclopædia Daniel Coit Gilman, Harry Thurston Peck, Frank Moore Colby, 1903 Special Needs of Handicapped Indian Children and Indian Women's Problems North American Indian Women's Association, 1978 Year-book, 1919 Habits that Handicap Charles Barnes Towns, 1919 The Handicap Principle Amotz Zahavi, Avishag Zahavi, 1999-06-03. Ever since Darwin, animal behavior has intrigued and perplexed human observers. The elaborate mating rituals, lavish decorative displays, complex songs, calls, dances, and many other forms of animal signaling raise fascinating questions. To what degree can animals communicate within their own species and even between species? What evolutionary purpose do such communications serve? Perhaps most importantly, what can animal signaling tell us about our own non-verbal forms of communication? In The Handicap Principle, Amotz and Avishag Zahavi offer a unifying theory that brilliantly explains many previously baffling aspects of animal signaling and holds up a mirror in which ordinary human behaviors take on surprising new significance. The wide-ranging implications of the Zahavis' new theory make it arguably the most important advance in animal behavior in decades. Based on 20 years of painstaking observation, The Handicap Principle illuminates an astonishing variety of signaling behaviors in animals ranging from ants and amoebae to peacocks and gazelles. Essentially, the theory asserts that for animal signals to be effective, they must be reliable, and to be reliable, they must impose a cost or handicap on the signaler. When a gazelle sights a wolf, for instance, and jumps high into the air several times before fleeing, it is signaling in a reliable way that it is in tip-top condition, easily able to outrun the wolf. A human parallel occurs in children's games of tag, where faster children will often taunt their pursuer before running. By momentarily handicapping itself, expending precious time and energy in this display, the gazelle underscores the truthfulness of its signal. Such signaling, the authors suggest, serves the interests of both predator and prey, sparing each the exhaustion of a pointless chase. Similarly, the enormous cost a peacock incurs by carrying its elaborate and weighty tail feathers which interfere with food gathering reliably communicates its value as a mate able to provide for its offspring Perhaps the book s most important application of the Handicap Principle is to the evolutionary enigma of animal altruism The authors convincingly demonstrate that when an animal acts altruistically it handicaps itself assumes a risk or endures a sacrifice not primarily to benefit its kin or social group but to increase its own prestige within the group and thus signal its status as a partner or rival Finally the Zahavis show how many forms of non verbal communication among humans can also be explained by the Handicap Principle Indeed the authors suggest that non verbal signals tones of voice facial expressions body postures are quite often more reliable indicators of our intentions than is language Elegantly written exhaustively researched and consistently enlivened by equal measures of insight and example The Handicap Principle illuminates virtually every kind of animal communication It not only allows us to hear what animals are saying to each other and to understand why they are saying it but also to see the enormously important role non verbal behavior plays in human communication
