sent and will provide a crucial link in the chain of understanding how conflicts are structured and most importantly how they can be rationally addressed a healthy antidote to the scepticism that has become so pervasive in academic life Alan Hausman Hunter College This innovative book addresses the need for college students to develop critical reading writing and thinking skills for self defence in the contentious arena of American civic rhetoric In a groundbreaking reconception of composition theory it presents a comprehensive critical perspective on American public discourse and practical methods for its analysis Exercises following the text sections and readings help students understand the ideological positions and rhetorical patterns that underlie opposing viewpoints in current controversies such as the growing inequality of wealth in America and its impact on the finances of college students as expressed in paired sets of readings from the political left and right Widely debated issues of whether objectivity is possible and whether there is a liberal or conservative bias in news and entertainment media as well as in education itself are foregrounded as topics for rhetorical analysis

What is Good Writing? Geoffrey J. Huck, 2015 This book answers the title question by drawing on empirical results from linguistics and the other cognitive sciences The author argues that good writing is fluent writing where fluency in writing is similar to fluency in speech in that both are naturally derived from motivated participation in a language community In the case of writing the community is that of writers and readers Fluent writing can be learned through avid reading but like fluent speech the evidence indicates that it can't be taught
