the editors of literary journals actively encouraged and published antigallows writing that popular crime novelists created a sympathy toward criminals that led readers to question the state's justifications for capital punishment that poets crafted verse that advocated strongly for Christian sympathy for criminals that coincided with an antipathy to the death penalty and that female sentimental writers fashioned melodramatic narratives that illustrated the injustice of the hanging and reimagined the justice system itself as a sympathetic subject capable of incorporating compassion into its workings and seeing reform rather than revenge as its ends      The Publishers' Circular and Booksellers' Record, 1910      Testimony of Christ's Second Appearing, Exemplified by the Principles and Practice of the True Church of Christ Benjamin Seth Youngs, 1856      Oscar Defoe, 1834 Barbara O'Sullivan, 2015-07-31 Oscar Defoe and the Victorian Workhouse 1834 A review of chapter 6 Syon House With no time to read the whole book before the printers speed into action I studied the chapter on Syon House my family's London home for 400 years and was immensely impressed by the accuracy of the author's research and the fluent style which brings the characters to life The contrast between Syon and the workhouse and between the rich and poor is a poignant reminder of the hellish life that so many lived in Victorian times This brief taste of Barbara O Sullivan's historical tale has certainly wetted my appetite for a more comprehensive study of Oscar Defoe Duke of Northumberland 2006 It is very interesting a good period piece and has a nice historical flavour J K Wingfield Digby Sherborne Castle Dorset 2006      A Practical Guide to the Quarter Sessions and Other Sessions of the Peace, Adapted to the Use of Young Magistrates, and Professional Gentlemen, at the Commencement of Their Practice William Dickinson, 1820      A Treatise of the Pleas of the Crown Edward Hyde East, 1806      Familiar Quotations John Bartlett, 1882      Familiar quotations [compiled] by J.
