Marketing Modernisms Kevin J. H. Dettmar, Stephen Myers Watt, 2025-10-01 Rarely have genres of literary expression been looked upon or read as commodities within a market system we tend to think of our literature as pure untainted by any interaction with the world of commerce Critical accounts of modernism are frequently theorized across the divide between the project itself and the larger marketplace the world of consumption Marketing Modernisms calls into question this curious separation and examines the material intellectual and ideological practices that comprise the notion of marketing Marketing Modernisms is concerned with Anglo American modernists and their potential readers in both the popular audience and the academy Examining the forms of promotion employed by book publishing houses in the editorial offices of literary magazines and in the minds of modern writers the essays bring to the fore little known connections between writers such as Ezra Pound T S Eliot James Joyce Virginia Woolf and Langston Hughes and the commercial marketplace they engaged The book's provocative themes include the strategies that modernists and their publishers employed to market their work to fashion themselves as artists or celebrities and to bridge the gap between an avant garde elite and the popular reader Other essays explore the difficulties confronted by women African American and gay and lesbian writers in gaining literary acceptance and achieving commercial representation while maintaining the gendered racial and sexual aspects of their lives

George Moore and James Joyce the Catholic literary revival as portrayed in Evelyn Waugh's Brideshead Revisited and the attraction to decadent Catholicism still felt by postmodernist writers D B C Pierre and Alan Hollinghurst Drawing on new archival research this study revisits some of the central works of modernist literature and undermines existing myths of modernist newness and secularism to supplant them with a record of spiritual turmoil metaphysical uncertainty and a project of cultural subversion that paradoxically relied upon the institutional bulwark of European Christianity Lockerd explores the aesthetic sexual and political implications of the relationship between decadent art and Catholicism as it found a new voice in the works of iconoclastic modernist writers

Empire of Texts in Motion Karen Laura Thornber, 2020-10-26 By the turn of the twentieth century Japan's military and economic successes made it the dominant power in East Asia drawing hundreds of thousands of Chinese Korean and Taiwanese students to the metropole and sending thousands of Japanese to other parts of East Asia The constant movement of peoples ideas and texts in the Japanese empire created numerous literary contact nebulae fluid spaces of diminished hierarchies where writers grapple with and transculture one another's creative output Drawing extensively on vernacular sources in Japanese Chinese and Korean this book analyzes the most active of these contact nebulae semicolonial Chinese occupied Manchurian and colonial Korean and Taiwanese transculturations of Japanese literature It explores how colonial and semicolonial writers discussed adapted translated and recast thousands of Japanese creative works both affirming and challenging Japan's cultural authority Such efforts not only blurred distinctions among resistance acquiescence and collaboration but also shattered cultural and national barriers central to the discourse of empire In this context twentieth century East Asian literatures can no longer be understood in isolation from one another linked only by their encounters with the West but instead must be seen in constant interaction throughout the Japanese empire and beyond

Rereading Modernism Lisa Rado, 2012 Until about 1986 feminists generally considered modernism a reactionary misogynist and hegemonic mire not worth investigating Since then enough studies of modernism have appeared that 17 feminist critics can now review and debate their treatment of the period They evaluate the progress and goals of the new era of modernist scholarship As the authors in this volume suggest instead of condemning writers for not practicing or portraying an acceptable politics of gender we ought instead to show how their assumptions about the nature of the sexes inform their texts both in their creation and in their reception This also allows examination of the complex and changing relationship between human subjectivity and aesthetics This volume is a highly reflective dialogue introspective and evaluative at a moment of crisis within modernist studies and feminist studies The analysis of critical work on early twentieth

To Ireland, I Paul Muldoon, 2011-04-07 The four pieces that make up this work are taken from Muldoon's Oxford Clarendon Lectures of 1998 Together they take the form of an A Z or abecedary of Irish literature in which his imagination forges links between disparate aspects and individuals in the Irish literary landscape ranging back and forth between modern and medieval From Beckett and Bowen through MacNeice Swift and Yeats and guided throughout by Joyce To Ireland I moves lightly through the long grass of Irish writing The result is a provocative handbook for the literary traveller who is treated to an astonishing display of scholarship and idiosyncratic inwardness from Irish literature over the course of a millennium

The Veiled Mirror and the Woman Poet Elizabeth Caroline Dodd, 1992 In The Veiled Mirror and the Woman Poet Elizabeth Dodd explores the lives and work of four women poets of the twentieth century H D Louise Bogan Elizabeth Bishop and Louise Gluck Dodd argues that sexist and male dominated cultural forces in their personal and professional lives challenged these women to find a unique mode of expression in their poetry a practice Dodd defines as personal classicism Dodd uses the term personal classicism to examine modern and contemporary poetry that appears torn between two major modes of poetic sensibility the Romantic and the Classical While the four poets she addresses exhibit a poetic sensibility that is primarily Romantic valuing Wordsworth's spontaneous overflow of powerful feelings adopting a natural spoken tone and relying on personal subject matter they have nonetheless employed masking and controlling strategies that are more nearly Classical Combining feminist theory and biographical studies with close readings of individual poems Dodd moves historically from H D one of the best known Imagists through the Confessional movement to the major contemporary poet Louise Gluck In the final chapter Dodd brings us to the present where she finds women writers still struggling with the recent Confessional legacy of such highly anthologized poets as Anne Sexton and Sylvia Plath The Veiled Mirror and the Woman Poet combines thoughtful consideration of both formal and theoretical issues in a graceful prose that reaffirms poetry as an art vitally connected to life It will be of significant interest to students of modern and contemporary poetry as well as to those concerned with women s studies     Blasphemous Modernism Steve Pinkerton,2017-03-03 Blasphemous Modernism argues that blasphemy is a signal mode of modernist literary expression Reading a diverse range of poets Mina Loy Langston Hughes and novelists James Joyce Djuna Barnes Salman Rushdie Pinkerton shows how these writers forged the literature of modernism from the idiom of blasphemy
