The Communist Takeover of Hangzhou James Z. Gao,2004-02-28 Existing literature on the Chinese Revolution takes into account the influence of peasant society on Mao's ideas and policies but rarely discusses a reverse effect of comparable significance namely how peasant cadres were affected by the urban environment into which they moved In this detailed examination of the cultural dimension of regime change in the early years of the Revolution James Gao looks at how rural based cadres changed and were changed by the urban culture that they were sent to dominate He investigates how Communist cadres at the middle and lower levels left their familiar rural environment to take over the city of Hangzhou and how they consolidated political control established economic stability developed institutional reforms and created political rituals to transform the urban culture His book analyzes the interplay between revolutionary and non revolutionary culture with respect to the varying degrees with which they resisted and adapted to each other It reveals the essential role of cultural identity in legitimizing the new regime and keeping its revolutionary ideal alive Students and Teachers of the New China Madelyn Holmes,2014-11-01 In this collection of interviews with students and teachers in Hangzhou China the reader meets a student at Zhejiang university majoring in English and studying Japanese and Italian a teacher who spent his childhood as a little Red Guard of the Cultural Revolution and went on to study in England a young girl who dreams of princesses and romance and another who wants to be a backpacker when she grows up and more Ranging in age from 7 to 52 the thirteen interviewees represent a cross section of Chinese culture and experience with various levels of social status education and economic standing Their words supplemented by the author's detailed descriptions of their surroundings and daily activities offer a fresh perspective on life in present day China Hangchow, My Home Eugenia Barnett Schultheis,2000 Recalls the city of Hangchow from the perspective of the young daughter of an American missionary family in the early 1900s Eugenia Schultheis memoir paints an entrancing picture of the venerated capital city at the time when the influence of the West had only begun to be felt Winner of the 2001 BAIPA Award for Best Memoir Alumnae Bulletin of Randolph-Macon Woman's College Randolph-Macon Woman's College.
