Market Killing Greg Philo, David Miller, 2014-09-09 This book shows how the release of the free market in the last part of the twentieth century produced a rise in inequality and violence the development of a huge criminal economy and the degradation of social and cultural life It questions the silence of academics in the face of these changes and asks how much they have been incorporated into the priorities of commerce and governments Many academics in the social sciences media and cultural studies have avoided critical issues and become occupied in obscure theoretical debates such as post modernism The effect was to draw intellectuals and students away from the engaged and empirical work needed to identify key social problems and possibilities for change The authors of this book point to the need for independent research which can criticise political policies and reveal their effects They show for example why contemporary policies on drugs and education are creating more problems than they solve The book features contributions from a wide range of academic disciplines including mass communications sociology politics geography philosophy and economics and points to new directions for radical science It also examines the possibilities for a free and democratic media and calls for the development of critical and open debate

Orwell to the Present John Brannigan, 2002-11-25 This essential introductory guide provides a comprehensive critical survey of the diverse and rich body of literary writing produced in England in the postwar period John Brannigan explores the relationship between literature and history and analyses how poets playwrights and novelists have revisited notions of Englishness represented Englands of the past and sought to make new maps of English culture and society Orwell to the Present Literature in England 1945 2000 combines original readings of familiar texts with wide ranging explorations of the principal themes and historical and cultural contexts of literature since the end of the Second World War Writers considered in detail include Martin Amis Simon Armitage Pat Barker John Betjeman Edward Bond Angela Carter Margaret Drabble Sarah Kane Mark Ravenhill Jean Rhys Salman Rushdie Sam Selvon Graham Swift and Evelyn Waugh

Literature of the 1980s: After the Watershed Joseph Brooker, 2012-05-08 From the new generation of London novelists such as Martin Amis and Ian McEwan to feminism in the writing of Angela Carter and Jeanette Winterson Joseph Brooker relates developments in fiction poetry and drama to social change He shows how working class writers such as James Kelman and Tony Harrison protested against Thatcherism and explores the voices of Black British writers including Fred D Aguiar and Hanif Kureishi As for the theory of the decade Brooker relates the rise of postmodernism to the popularity of self conscious modes of writing and other developments in literary theory

Literature of the 1980s Joseph Brooker, 2012-05-08 Relates developments in fiction poetry and drama to social change from the new generation of London novelists such as Martin Amis and Ian McEwan to the impact of feminism in the writing of Angela Carter and Jeanette Winterson

The Politics of Pain: Postwar England and the Rise of Nationalism Fintan O'Toole, 2019-11-05 I read The Politics of Pain Postwar England and the Rise of Nationalism by Fintan O Toole and wished I d written it Zadie Smith Wall Street Journal From one of the most perceptive observers of the English today comes a brilliantly insightful mordantly funny account of their seemingly irrational embrace of nationalism England's recent lurch to the right appears to be but one example of the nationalist wave sweeping across the world yet as acclaimed Irish critic Fintan O Toole suggests in The Politics of Pain it is in reality a phenomenon rooted in World War II We must look not to the vagaries of the European Union but instead far back to the end of the British empire if we hope to understand our most fraternal ally and the royal mess in which the British now find themselves O Toole depicts a roiling nation that almost ludicrously dreams of a German invasion if only to get the blood going and that erupts in faux outrage over regulations on prawn flavored crisps A sympathetic yet unsparing observer O Toole asks How did a great nation bring itself to the point of such willful self harm His answer represents one of the most profound portraits of the English since Sarah Lyall's New York Times bestseller The Anglo Files Pat Barker John Brannigan, 2005 This book offers readings of Barker's innovations in narrative form her revisionist perspectives on history class and gender and her preoccupation with themes of trauma haunting and terror It also analyzes the reasons for her success and significance as a novelist The chapters draw on contemporary theories of critical realism gender and social identities memory and narrative in order to outline the debates with which Barker's work has consistently engaged New Statesman, 2006 New Statesman Society, 1997

No Such Thing as Society David Mellor, 2007 British society and culture from the late 1960s until the late 1980s was in a state of ferment and transition In the early 1970s the Arts Council of Great Britain began to work with photographers to document these changing times in black and white while the British Council took the adventurous decision to collect the new colour photography of the social scene at the beginning of the 1980s Written by David Alan Mellor an art historian and a specialist in the history of photography and addressing themes of social realism de industrialisation and political criticism No Such Thing As Society draws upon photographs from the British Council and the Arts Council Collection to give a radically new picture of these two turbulent decades BOOK JACKET Interdisciplinary Literary Studies, 2000 The Rohingyas Azeem Ibrahim, 2018 Brings to light the ethnic cleansing of the Rohingya going on in Burma American Avatar Barry A. Sanders, 2011-10 Untangling the world's love hate relationship with America The US Government, Citizen Groups and the Cold War Helen Laville, Hugh Wilford, 2006-11-22 This new book examines the construction activities and impact of the network of US state and private groups in the Cold War By moving beyond state dominated top down interpretations of international relations and exploring instead the engagement and mobilization of whole societies and cultures it presents a radical new approach to the study of propaganda and American foreign policy and redefines the relationship between the state and private groups in the pursuit and projection of American foreign relations In a series of valuable case studies examining relationships between the state and women's groups religious bodies labour internationalist groups intellectuals media and students this volume explores the construction of a state private network not only as a practical method of communication and dissemination of information or propaganda but also as an ideological construction drawing upon specifically American ideologies of freedom and voluntarism The case studies also analyze the power relationship between the state and private groups assessing the extent to which the state was in control of the relationship and the extent to which private organizations exerted their independence This book will be of great interest to students of Intelligence Studies Cold War History and IR security studies in general Complicity in American Literature after 1945 Will

Norman, 2025-03-10 Complicity in American Literature after 1945 offers a literary and intellectual history of the idea of complicity in the United States proposing a new frame for understanding American literature in the period The term complicity derives etymologically from the Latin complicare which means to fold If one is complicit one is folded into a larger system of social harm over which one has little or no direct control In the period from 1945 to the early 1970s complicity with structural racism became a central concern for American writing and thought as it grappled with the Holocaust colonialism the Vietnam War and racial domination at home in the United States Writers and thinkers grasped complicity both as a social phenomenon to be represented and as a problem threatening to enfold writing itself In addressing complicity intellectuals were obliged to reconsider their social role and to innovate means of literary expression capable of articulating new experiences of guilt and responsibility Complicity in American Literature after 1945 tells the story of that process as it took place across several genres from highbrow short stories to crime fiction and from experimental metafiction to the reportage essays of the New Journalism It argues that the history of racial complicity is inseparable from the history of liberalism and shows how we can make sense of our present preoccupations with complicity by studying its origins in the past

Proposed Abengoa Biorefinery Project Near Hugoton, Stevens County, 2010 A History of the Laws of War: Volume 2 Alexander Gillespie, 2011-10-07 This unique new work of reference traces the origins of the modern laws of warfare from the earliest times to the present day Relying on written records from as far back as 2400 BCE and using sources ranging from the Bible to Security Council Resolutions the author pieces together the history of a subject which is almost as old as civilisation itself The author shows that as long as humanity has been waging wars it has also been trying to find ways of legitimising different forms of combatants and ascribing rules to them protecting civilians who are either inadvertently or intentionally caught up between them and controlling the use of particular classes of weapons that may be used in times of conflict Thus it is that this work is divided into three substantial parts Volume 1 on the laws affecting combatants and captives Volume 2 on civilians and Volume 3 on the law of arms control This second book on civilians examines four different topics The first topic deals with the targetting of civilians in times of war This discussion is one which has been largely governed by the developments of technologies which have allowed projectiles to be discharged over ever greater areas and attempts to prevent their indiscriminate utilisation have struggled to keep pace The second topic concerns the destruction of the natural environment with particular regard to the utilisation of starvation as a method of warfare and unlike the first topic this one has rarely changed over thousands of years although contemporary practices are beginning to represent a clear break from tradition The third topic is concerned with the long standing problems of civilians under the occupation of opposing military forces where the practices of genocide collective punishments and or reprisals and rape have occurred The final topic in this volume is about the theft or destruction of the property of the enemy in terms of either pillage or the intentional devastation of the cultural property of the opposition As a work of reference this set of three books is unrivalled and will be of immense benefit to scholars and practitioners researching and advising on the laws of warfare It also tells a story which throws fascinating new light on the history of international law and on the history of warfare itself William

Empson, Volume I John Haffenden, 2005-04-28 William Empson was the foremost English literary critic of the twentieth century He was a man of huge energy and curiosity and a genuine eccentric who remained imperturbable in the face of all the extraordinary circumstances in which he found himself The discovery of contraceptives in his possession by a bedmaker at Cambridge University led to his being robbed of a promised Fellowship Yet Seven Types of Ambiguity drafted while he was still an undergraduate promptly brought him world wide fame Empson invented modern literary criticism in English He acted too as a cultural fifth columnist challenging received doctrine in life and literature It is a very good thing for a poet to be saying something which is considered very shocking at the time he maintained To become morally independent of one's formative society is the grandest theme of all literature because it is the only means of moral progress His public life took him through many of the major political events of the modern world the rise of imperialism in Japan the Sino Japanese war in China wartime propaganda for the BBC and the Chinese civil war and Communist takeover of Peking in 1949 His friends and critical sparring partners included I A Richards Kathleen Raine J B S Haldane Humphrey Jennings George Orwell Robert Lowell Dylan Thomas Stephen Spender Helen Gardner and T S Eliot It is of great importance now that writers should try to keep a certain world mindedness he insisted Without the literatures you cannot have a sense of history and history is like the balancing pole of the tightrope walker and nowadays we very much need the longer balancing pole of not national but world history His passionate world mindedness and his humanism combativeness and wit are fully in evidence in this the first of two volumes exploring his remarkable life and work The London General Gazetteer, Or Geographical Dictionary;

Containing a Description of the Various Countries, ... of the Known World, Etc ,1825 The London General Gazetteer, Or Geographical Dictionary ,1825 56th Infantry Brigade and D-Day Andrew Holborn, 2010-06-10 Trained as an assault brigade the 56th landed on D Day and successfully liberated Bayeux the following day It was then employed in the crossing of the River Seine and the assault on Le Havre before fighting across Belgium and Holland culminating in the final assault on Arnhem in April 1945 by which time the brigade had served in four different divisions No previous study has sought to explain how an infantry brigade is used in battle let alone one holding the title Independent Holborn considers the styles of war as carried out by British forces and casts new light on the effectiveness of British infantry units and their contribution to war effort Extensive use has been made of new primary evidence from The National Archives Imperial War Museum Archive and Regimental Museums The evidence is used to explore issues pertinent to life in the Army at home during the war training for war and the Campaign in North West Europe as well as the role of the battalion
