The Desert Grassland Robert Regester Humphrey, 1968 Presents a study of the growth and changes in the grassland areas of the desert Southwest Research on the Characteristics and Effects of Climate Extremes on Multi-spatial-temporal Scales in the Mongolian Plateau Chunlan Li, 2024-03-27 Compared with average climate changes climate extremes which are considered as low probability events have greater impacts on natural and social systems due to their suddenness unpredictability and strong destructiveness Located in the typical arid semiarid climate transition zone the Mongolian Plateau dominated by herbage animal husbandry is greatly affected by climate extremes and its ecosystem is extremely fragile In the context of global warming the spatial temporal variation research about climate extremes and their impacts on vegetation is not only beneficial to the protection of the grassland ecological environment in the Mongolian Plateau but also of great significance to formulate an effective meteorological disaster risk management Based on daily highest temperature daily minimum temperature and daily precipitation dataset of 111 meteorological stations over Mongolian Plateau from 1961 to 2014 Firstly sixteen extreme temperature indices and eleven extreme precipitation indices were calculated Then multi spatial temporal characteristics of climate extremes in the scope of intensity duration and frequency were analyzed At the same time the vegetation variations were analyzed based on GIMMS NDVI3g data Thirdly correlation analysis and multiple stepwise regression analysis were used to analyze the relationships between extreme climate indices and NDVI in different spatial scales from the perspective of single factor and multiple factors respectively Finally the future change of climate extremes in duration were explored based on the climate model data At the same time the vulnerable areas of grassland and forest were also identified and adaptive options of different scales were proposed Researchers engaged in extreme climate change and managers of government departments are the readership primary audience for the work
