

Great Borders Flood Of 1948

Antony Chessell

Great Borders Flood Of 1948:

The Great Borders Flood Of 1948 Lawson Wood,2002 August 1948 was an exceptional month There were 90mph gales in Belgium snowfalls in Switzerland and in the Scottish Borders one of the heaviest rainfalls ever in one day while the Tweed received more than a third of its annual rainfall in only six days The flood plain of the Tweed could just about cope with the deluge but smaller rivers such as the Tyne at Haddington the Biel the Blackadder Whiteadder Water Rivers Till and Eye were disasters waiting to happen The main problem was not the twenty four hour deluge but the rain of the previous two weeks that had already seen the rivers rise to bursting point The Glorious Twelfth was a day of disaster and the next few days were to affect the Borders for months to come The sheer volume of water flowing down the rivers resulted in them bursting their banks causing widespread flooding over a large area The East Coast Main Line was breached in many places and was closed for eleven weeks as a result of the damage Trees and other debris swept down with the floodwater had blocked culverts and the resultant lakes of water put so much pressure on the embankments that they were simply swept away leaving railway lines dangling in mid air Roads were damaged and houses cars and livestock swept away with the floodwater There were many lucky escapes a train passing over a bridge at Greenlaw just minutes before the bridge was swept away people were rescued from their houses literally seconds before they collapsed from underneath them Many deeds of bravery performed in that wet and windy August are also recorded in Lawson Wood s The Great Borders Flood of 1948 Illustrated with over 100 images of the greatest natural disaster to hit the Borders this book is a unique record of that fateful month of August 1948

Breamish and Till: From Source to Tweed Antony Chessell, 2014 A subjective journey down the Rivers Breamish and Till in Northumberland from the source of the Breamish in the Cheviot Hills to the junction of the Till and the River Tweed at Tillmouth The book looks at archaeology history flora and fauna geology and things that just appealed to the author on an as and when basis The aim of the book is to provide background information in relation to the area of study mentioned in the Constitution of the Till Valley Archaeological Society information that will also be of interest to the general reader who likes the countryside of north Northumberland Botanical Evidence of Floods and Flood-plain Deposition Robert Sumner Sigafoos, 1964 People of Today, 2006 Future Flooding and Coastal Erosion Risks Colin R Thorne, Edward Evans, E. Penning-Rowsell, 2007-01-10 Over 200 billion worth of assets are at risk around British rivers and coasts and those risks are likely to increase over the next 100 years due to changes in climate and in society Sir David King Government Chief Scientific Adviser This book presents a comprehensive insight into the flooding system spanning multiple disciplines across different sectors of the flood and flood management professions It forecasts the manner in which flooding and coastal erosion risks may increase during the 21st century due to climate change Fighting the Corners Patsy Gifford, 2011-06-01 Description My story is the personal account of my life through a middle class background achievements tragedy happiness and personal struggle with my father's Victorian type attitudes and beliefs as well as living with the diagnosis of paranoid schizophrenia at the age of 22 and subsequent years of mental hospitals and treatments The assumptions of being different and the difficulties I encountered throughout my life have been put down to being born with schizophrenia To many I was an illness not an ordinary human being which I found difficult to cope with From adolescence to middle age I have been isolated with the causes of my illness but with the help of some wonderful friends and a very caring and supportive Counsellor I have now begun to unravel the mysteries of my mental illness and this book I hope will tell a truthful meaningful and therapeutic account of my life My early years were happy with plenty of love and security Brought up in Corstorphine a residential area in Edinburgh I was accustomed to comfort and kindness from my family freedom and a good education at a private school My adolescence and teenage years were blighted by abuse mental and sexual and I was put on tranquillisers at the age of 14 or 15 My sister fell pregnant at age 17 She was 5 years older than me and my Dad totally rejected her for many many years I became really ill at the age of 21 following a split with a boyfriend and my family and spent several months in a mental hospital in a catatonic state I married at 23 but spent more time in hospital during the next 20 years or so I had two children during my marriage Robin and Julie and felt undermined by my mother in law for many years In 1993 I left Rosslynlee Hospital mostly due to medication and the support of Bill my old lecturer and friend who wrote to me during my darkest days My recovery was a long and exhausting process stretching over 15 years and I still continue to grow but that is a further story About the Author Patricia was born in Edinburgh in 1948 She attended James Gillespies School for Girls At the age of 15 she left school but later earned some recognition as a writer and poet She achieved all grades with LAMDA in the speaking of verse and prose She worked as a bank clerk for eight years In later life she passed the National Certificate in Community Care but her love of writing drove her on to studying newspaper journalism and she worked as a freelance journalist for some years Pat has published three books of poetry She has 2 children by her only marriage In her spare time she collects antiques and works as a volunteer in the church caf in her home town Coping with her illness was a big challenge to her but she was determined not to stop trying to achieve her goals as a writer wife and mother Finally after nearly 40 years she discovered the real reasons for her illness and now lives happily on her own surrounded by friends and Rivers and Harbours - Flood Control, 1962, Hearings ... 87-2 United States.
