Architects' Gravesites Henry H. Kuehn, 2017-04-28 An illustrated guide to the monumental and non-monumental final resting places of famous architects from Aalto Alvar to Frank Lloyd Wright. All working architects leave behind a string of monuments to themselves in the form of buildings they have designed. But what about the final spaces that architects themselves will occupy? Are architects' gravesites more monumental, more architectural than others? This unique book provides an illustrated guide to more than 200 gravesites of famous architects, almost all of them in the United States. Led by our intrepid author Henry Kuehn, we find that most graves of architects are not monumental.

but rather modest that many architects did not design their final resting places and that a surprising number had their ashes scattered Architects Gravesites offers an alphabetical listing from Alvar Aalto and Dankmar Adler Louis Sullivan's partner to Frank Lloyd Wright and Minoru Yamasaki designer of the World Trade Center's twin towers Each entry includes a brief note on the architect's career and a color photograph of the site For example Ludwig Mies van der Rohe is buried in Chicago under a simple granite slab designed by his architect grandson Louise Bethune the first American woman to become a professional architect is buried under a headstone inscribed only with her husband's name a plaque honoring her achievements was installed later Philip Johnson's ashes were spread in his rose garden with no marker across the street from his famous Glass House and the grave of Pierre L. Enfant in Arlington National Cemetery offers a breathtaking view of Washington D.C. the city he designed Architects Gravesites is an architectural guide like no other revealing as much about mortality as about monumentality Outhouses by Famous Architects Steve Schaecher, 2000 Outhouses have been much ridiculed and maligned structures thought worthy of only the lowliest of humor and virtually ignored by architectural critics as inconsequential blips in the development of building design And yet as architect Steve Schaecher so poignantly reveals in this collection of renderings architects of genius from time immemorial have used their considerable talents to enhance the beauty and function of the outhouse His extensive research has uncovered a wealth of stunning outdoor bathroom designs that say much about the history of architecture Although Schaecher's friends and family have worried about his obsession with bathroom drawings it is clear that with the publication of this tome his seat in the annals of architectural history will never be put down Here are reproductions of stylish dare we say perfectionist renderings of Thronehenge Wright's Flushing Water the Odor Dame Cathedral the Taj Mahal Jefferson's Johnnicello Sullivan's Merchants First National Outhouse Le Corbusier's Bidet Savoye Fuller's Geodesic Throne the Hancock's John Building the Centre Pompidoo the unmistakable outhouse for that weird looking French museum and many others Each is accompanied by insightful historical and analytical text depending on your definitions of insightful and analytical The preface by architectural critic I.P. Daley will leave you in no doubt of the importance of this completely nonsensical book

Learning to See Alan Gowans, 1981 Learning to See starts on the assumption that popular commercial arts are a different kind of activity from avant garde arts today but that they represent the same kind of activity that we identify as arts historically It proceeds then to investigate how popular commercial arts carry out the social functions of historic arts And it claims that once we can thereby understand how historic arts worked in and for society art history becomes a significant new tool for objective historical research as never before
