Rural America Caroline S. Kelsohn, 2002 Thomas Jefferson once envisioned the United States as a nation of yeomen farmers Looking around today however illustrates that nothing could be further from the truth In a globalised world and techno centred society urban sprawl is overtaking rural America For over a century farming was the backbone of the American economy and though it is still critical to American productivity many rural areas are plagued by poverty and job reduction Agricultural issues have a hold over national politics as in the debates over farm subsidies but they cannot change several significant trends in America today the movement toward fewer and larger farms environmental pressures from urban and suburban interests and changing food consumption patterns In order to assist the remaining yeomen farmers a comprehensive and integrated agricultural policy must be initiated to sustain the nation s farming communities This book analyses the status of the farm industry in rural America providing a historical context for agriculture and assessing its future for the nation and the information provided in this book is necessary to understanding the nature of what has historically been a key component of American industry and life

Everyday Genius Gary Alan Fine, 2006-08-01 From Henry Darger's elaborate paintings of young girls caught in a vicious war to the sacred art of the Reverend Howard Finster the work of outsider artists has achieved unique status in the art world Celebrated for their lack of traditional training and their position on the fringes of society outsider artists nonetheless participate in a traditional network of value status and money After spending years immersed in the world of self taught artists Gary Alan Fine presents Everyday Genius one of the most insightful and comprehensive examinations of this network and how it confers artistic value Fine considers the differences among folk art outsider art and self taught art explaining the economics of this distinctive art market and exploring the dimensions of its artistic production and distribution Interviewing dealers collectors curators and critics and venturing into the backwoods and inner city homes of numerous self taught artists Fine describes how authenticity is central to the system in which artists often poor elderly members of a minority group or mentally ill are seen as having an unfettered form of expression highly valued in the art world Respected dealers he shows have a hand in burnishing biographies of the artists and both dealers and collectors trade in identities as much as objects Revealing the inner workings of an elaborate and prestigious world in which money personalities and values affect one another Fine speaks eloquently to both experts and general readers and provides rare access to a world of creative invention both by self taught artists and by those who profit from their work Indispensable for an understanding of this world and its workings Fine s book is not an attack on the Outsider Art phenomenon But it is masterful in its anatomization of some of its contradictions conflicts pressures and absurdities Eric Gibson Washington Times The 1950s William H. Transnational Representations of the Region, 1840-1940 Giulia Bruna,Margu rite Corporaal,Christopher Cusack,Sophie van Os,Anneloek Scholten,2025-09-08 The nineteenth century witnessed an upsurge of interest in the region across Europe and North America in media ranging from literary fiction to the illustrated periodical and from visual arts to architecture This rise of regionalism has often been linked to nationalism and nation building However depictions of the region circulated across borders or interacted with transnational cultural repertoires of the local These often overlooked transnational aspects are the focus of this volume which considers cultural representations of the region during the long nineteenth century in its variety of dimensions across all expressive media This collection consistently draws out the border crossing dynamics through which the very perception of regions is generated and maintained Contributions by established and emerging scholars all rise to the challenge of contextualizing representations of specific regions in transnational networks of exchange The volume is resolutely interdisciplinary encompassing various literary genres as well as music visual arts and world fairs It will ensure that the region is in the best possible sense all over the place Rapha l Ingelbien Professor of English Literature at KU Leuven
