Education Department,1926 The Inland Printer ,1915 Inland Printer, American Lithographer ,1915 Stuffed Animals and Pickled Heads Stephen T. Asma,2003-05-01 The natural history museum is a place where the line between high and low culture effectively vanishes where our awe of nature our taste for the bizarre and our thirst for knowledge all blend happily together But as Stephen Asma shows in Stuffed Animals and Pickled Heads there is more going on in these great institutions than just smart fun Asma takes us on a wide ranging tour of natural history museums in New York and Chicago London and Paris interviewing curators scientists and exhibit designers and providing a wealth of fascinating observations We learn how the first museums were little more than high toned side shows with such garish exhibits as the pickled head of Peter the Great s lover In contrast today s museums are hot beds of serious science funding major research in such fields as anthropology and archaeology Rich in detail lucid explanation telling anecdotes and fascinating characters Asma has rendered a fascinating and credible account of how natural history museums are conceived and presented It s the kind of book that will not only engage a wide and diverse readership but it should best of all send them flocking to see how we look at nature and ourselves in those fabulous legacies of the curiosity cabinet The Boston Herald Learning Directory ,1972

Nathaniel Gates, 2014-03-05 First Published in 1998 Explores the concept of race The term race which originally denoted genealogical or class identity has in the comparatively brief span of 300 years taken on an entirely new meaning In the wake of the Enlightenment it came to be applied to social groups This ideological transformation coupled with a dogmatic insistence that the groups so designated were natural and not socially created gave birth to the modern notion of races as genetically distinct entities The results of this view were the encoding of race and racial hierarchies in law literature and culture How racial categories facilitate social control The articles in the series demonstrate that the classification of humans according to selected physical characteristics was an arbitrary decision that was not based on valid scientific method They also examine the impact of colonialism on the propagation of the concept and note that racial categorization is a powerful social force that is often used to promote the interests of dominant social groups Finally the collection surveys how laws based on race have been enacted around the world to deny power to minority groups A multidisciplinary resource This collection of outstanding articles brings multiple perspectives to bear on race theory and draws on a wider ranger of periodicals than even the largest library usually holds Even if all the articles were available on campus chances are that a student would have to track them down in several libraries and microfilm collections Providing of course that no journals were reserved for graduate students out for binding or simply missing This convenient set saves students substantial time and effort by making available all the key articles in one reliable source Authoritative commentary The series editor has put together a balanced selection of the most significant works accompanied by expert commentary A general introduction gives important background information and outlines fundamental issues current scholarship and scholarly controversies Introductions to individual volumes put the articles in context and draw attention to germinal ideas and major shifts in the field After reading the material even a beginning student will have an excellent grasp of the basics of the subject
