Globalisation Human Rights And Labour Law In Pacific Asia:

Globalisation, Human Rights and Labour Law in Pacific Asia Anthony Woodiwiss, 1998-04-30 Anthony Woodiwiss's pathbreaking book was the first substantive contribution to a sociology of human rights. In it, he takes up the question of whether so-called Asian values are compatible with human rights discourse and argues against human rights issues being the major obstacle to East-West co-operation. Dr Woodiwiss's sociological and post-structuralist approach to the concept of rights and his incorporation of the transnational dimension into sociological theory enable him to demonstrate how the global human rights regime can accommodate Asian patriarchy while Pacific Asia is itself adapting by means of what he calls enforceable benevolence. His studies of Hong Kong, the Philippines, Malaysia, and Singapore highlight similarities between Pacific Asian and Western societies and offer a positive view of the social forces obtaining in these territories. Law and Labour Market Regulation in East Asia Sean Cooney, Tim Lindsey, Richard Mitchell, Zhu Ying, 2003-08-29 This edited collection examines the labour laws of seven industrializing East Asian societies: China, Indonesia, Malaysia, South Korea, Taiwan, the Philippines, and Vietnam, and discusses the variation in their impact across the whole region. Leading scholars from each country consider both laws pertaining to working conditions and industrial relations and those that regulate the labour market as a whole. Legislation concerning migrant labour, gender equality, employment creation, and skills formation is also examined. Adopting their own distinct theoretical perspectives, the authors trace the historical development of labour regulation and reveal that most countries in the region now have quite extensive frameworks. This book will be particularly useful to people interested in the place of labour law and law in general in contemporary East Asian societies. Law and Society in East Asia Christoph Antons, 2017-07-05 The massive and complex process of change in East Asia over recent decades has brought about a transformation in the nature of law and legal institutions in the region. Whilst the process of change has to some degree mimicked western models of law and legal change, there have been significant differences in approach due to the different social foundations of East Asian societies. The more obvious of these has been the variety of ways in which rule of law ideas have been adopted in many East Asian countries where the role of the state is more dominant when compared with Western models. This volume brings together a selection of the most important writings on East Asia of researchers in recent years and shows the broad range of questions which researchers have been addressing about the effect of law reform and legal change in societies dominated by traditional values and political forces and at a time of massive economic change. Employment Relations in the Asia-Pacific Region Peter Holland, Julian Teicher, Richard Gough, 2013-09-13 This book focuses on new developments in employment in Asia. The context for this discussion is provided by the processes of globalisation and the associated debate on labour standards. Individual chapters focus on issues such as the role of NGOs as surrogate unions, employment regulation in export processing zones, social protection, and the impact of political reform on the employment relationship. This volume was previously published as a special issue of the journal Asia

The Legalization of Human Rights Saladin Meckled-García, Basak Çali, 2006-01-16 The concept of human rights as a universal goal is at the centre of the international stage It is now a key part in discourse treaties and in domestic jurisdictions However as this study shows the debate around this development is actually about human rights law This text scrutinizes the extent to which legalization shapes the human rights ideal and surveys its ethical political and practical repercussions How does the law influence what we think about rights What more is there to such rights than their legal protection These expert contributors approach these questions from a range of perspectives political theory moral theory anthropology sociology international law international politics and political science to deliver a diversity of methodologies This book is essential reading for those wishing to develop a clear understanding of the relationship between human rights ideals and laws and for those working toward the fostering of a genuine human rights culture International Environmental Law and Asian Values Roda Mushkat, 2004 Following decades of vigorous economic expansion Asia is confronting the environmental consequences of unfettered development This poses a challenge because of the strong bias of prevailing cultural systems in the region toward the goal of lifting standards of living over achieving ecological sustainability This book juxtaposes international environmental norms and practices with relevant Asian policies and their applications in key areas Roda Mushkat examines the fundamental principle of public participation in environmental law making as well as the rights approach against the emergence of democratic and human rights norms in the region The complex relationship between trade and the environment is also discussed in light of the strong regional emphasis on economic growth trade liberalization and the aversion to conditionalities Given regionalization processes in Asia Pacific and elsewhere this work seeks to establish to what extent such processes have led to the regionalization of international environmental law International Environmental Law and Asian Values concludes that although some gaps can be identified between international imperatives and regional responses Asian values have not proved to be an insurmountable barrier to the spread of international environmental legal ideas On the whole the region is responding to impulses emanating from the global arena rather than resisting them consciously The analysis and conclusions of this comprehensive and original work will be of considerable interest to scholars of international law and relations environmental policy comparative culture economic development and social change The Oxford Handbook of International Human Rights Law Dinah Shelton, 2013-10-24 The Oxford Handbook of International Human Rights Law provides a comprehensive and original overview of one of the fundamental topics within international law It contains substantial new essays by more than forty leading experts in the field giving students scholars and practitioners a complete overview of the issues that inform research as well as a map of the debates that animate the field Each chapter helps pluralise the rule of law as a universal principle which moderates power and may be variously implemented The book examines the reception of the rule of law within the Singapore legal order and how it interacts with constitutional principles like the separation of powers and democracy in the design of constitutional institutions and forging of structural and rights oriented judicial review It considers how the rule of law contoured by legal communitarianism sustains a managed democracy in relation to legislation governing internal security public assemblies religious harmony and online falsehoods It questions whether the chilling of political speech by strict laws on political defamation and contempt of court has been significantly defrosted by important developments which seek ordered liberty through a more calibrated form of review Lucid and engaging this book will be of interest to researchers working in constitutional law Welfare Capitalism in East Asia I. Likosky, 2018-01-18 Michael Likosky examines the continuities and discontinuities between colonial and present day high tech transnational legal orders His concern is specifically with the colonial characteristics of the legal order which underpins the global high tech economy He distinguishes the democratic and human rights rhetoric of this economy from a reality wherein the legal order is often used to reproduce colonial type relationships Just as in the colonial period the expansion of trans border commerce overlaps with democratic demands and human rights in complex multifaceted and paradoxical ways Through a case study looking at Malaysia s Multimedia Super Corridor a high tech national development plan and foreign direct investment scheme he examines how the transnational leaders of the high tech economy along with the Malaysian political elite react when human rights problems threaten to
