questions about the ultimate significance of the challenges posed by global social movements and the development of civil society both South and North This book sets out to explore the lessons from these experiences of social mobilisation How can non governmental organisations community based organisations and the labour and trade union movement develop effective campaigning alliances without becoming institutionalised and incorporated themselves How can they maintain an effective balance between winning immediate gains without losing sight of longer term strategies for transformation How can they work with celebrities to gain media attention without losing control of the message And how can social movements develop organisational forms that are genuinely representative and democratically accountable globally These questions are explored through case studies of particular networks movements and campaigns to tackle the causes of social inequality and social injustice It concludes by exploring lessons for building global challenges to neo liberal agendas and developing more transformatory approaches perspective offers insights into globalization's gradual and uneven growth throughout the course of human social evolution. In this informative and exciting volume Christopher Chase Dunn and Salvatore J. Babones bring together accomplished senior sociologists and outstanding younger scholars with a mix of interests, expertise, and methodologies to offer an introduction to ways of studying and understanding global social change. In both newly written essays and previously published articles from the Journal of World Systems Research, the contributors employ historical and comparative social science to examine the development of institutions of global governance, the rise and fall of hegemonic core states, transnational social movements, and global environmental challenges. They compare post-World War II globalization with the great wave of economic integration that occurred in the late nineteenth century, analyze the rise of the political ideology of the globalization project, Reaganism, Thatcherism, and discuss issues of gender and global inequalities.

The New Global Politics Harry E. Vanden, Peter N. Funke, Gary Prevost, 2017-03-16. Over the past decade there has been an unprecedented mobilization of street protests worldwide, from the demonstrations that helped bring progressive governments to power in Latin America to the Arab Spring to Occupy movements in the United States and Europe to democracy protests in China. This edited volume investigates the current status, nature, and dynamics of the new politics that characterizes social movements from around the world that are part of this revolutionary wave. Spanning case studies from Latin America, North and South Africa, the Middle East, Asia, Europe, and North America, this volume examines the varied manifestations of the current cycle of protest which emerged from the Global South and spread to the North, and highlights their interconnections, the globalized nature of these social movements. Analytically converging around Sidney Tarrow's emphasis on protest cycles, political opportunity structures, and identity, the individual chapters investigate processes such as global framing, internationalization, diffusion, scale shifts, externalizations, and transnational coalition building to provide an analytic cartography of the current state of social movements as they are simultaneously globalizing while still being embedded in their respective localities. Looking at new ways of thinking and new forms of challenging power, this comprehensive volume will be of great interest to graduates and scholars in the fields of globalization, social movements, and international politics.
