been described as an early classic of the erotic historical genre because it is thought to contain some degree of pornography. The novel tells of archetypal Southern belle Scarlett O'Hara as she grows from a young woman into maturity against the backdrop of the American Civil War. Like many of the early 20th century Southern writers, Mitchell portrays an idyllic image of the antebellum South. While it can be legitimately criticized for its insensitivity to the treatment of African Americans who were enslaved, Mitchell's novel demonstrates how the South was decimated by the Civil War and continued to suffer under the Northern sanctioned Restoration.

"The" Virginians William Makepeace Thackeray, 1869. The Botor Chaperon Charles Norris Williamson, Alice Muriel Williamson, 1908. Meditations, with Distractions(p) James J. McAuley, 2000. At the center of James McAuley's new collection is the work of over a decade since his previous book Coming Going New Selected. It is the sequence God's Pattern, meditations on the Stations of the Cross, an old devotional form of pilgrimage or pattern still practiced in rural parishes of the poet's native country, Ireland. Theme and treatment vary throughout the collection from somber reflection on the fate of a drunk in a cheap hotel room to the scathing Celtic style satire The Gingriad. McAuley is well regarded for his experiments with traditional forms and rhythms; examples included are blank verse narratives and elegies, a Haiku sequence, sonnets, a variation on the topographical poetry of the seventeenth century, even a carmen figurata. Meditations With Distractions has the qualities that all good poetry should possess: depth, erudition, accessibility, a joy in the practice of language. Combine these qualities with McAuley's humanity and humor, and the result is a collection that readers will come to enjoy and appreciate more and more with each successive reading.
