Globalization The State And Violence:

Globalization, the State, and Violence Jonathan Friedman, 2004-09-08 Friedman and a distinguished group of contributors offer a compelling analysis of globalization and the lethal explosiveness that characterizes the current world order In particular they investigate global processes and political forces that determine networks of crime commerce and terror and reveal the economic social and cultural fragmentation of transnational networks In a critical introduction Friedman evaluates how transnational capital represents a truly global force but geographical decentralization of accumulation still leads to declining state hegemony in some areas and increasing hegemony in others The authors examine the growth and increasing autonomy of indigenous populations and the massively destabilizing effect of migration processes They describe the rapid increase in criminalization of ethnic and immigrant groups as well as an increase in class stratification creating new forms of social confrontation and violence In addition to ethnic identity based conflict there are analyses of transnational criminal networks which also represents disintegration of larger homogeneous territories or hierarchical orders The authors ask us to reevaluate the dynamics of globalization the contradictions of centralization and fragmentation around the world as we discover how best to transform these conditions for the future This research was originally funded by the Harry Frank Guggenheim Foundation Globalization the State and Violence will be a valuable reference in anthropology social theory international politics and economics ethnic conflict immigration and economic history

Indigenous Peoples and Globalization

Thomas D. Hall, James V. Fenelon, 2015-12-03 The issues native peoples face intensify with globalization Through case studies from around the world Hall and Fenelon demonstrate how indigenous peoples movements can only be understood by linking highly localized processes with larger global and historical forces The authors show that indigenous peoples have been resisting and adapting to encounters with states for millennia Unlike other antiglobalization activists indigenous peoples primarily seek autonomy and the right to determine their own processes of adaptation and change especially in relationship to their origin lands and community The authors link their analyses to current understandings of the evolution of globalization

Globalisation and the Challenge to Criminology Francis J. Pakes, 2013 There is no doubt that globalisation has profound effects on crime justice and our feelings of security identity and belonging Many of these affect both the making of laws and the breaking of laws It has been argued however that criminology has been too provincial focusing as it often does on national laws and issues whilst others have said that globalisation is the stuff of international relations global finance and trade not of criminology This book disputes this by asserting that criminology has a firm place in this arena and globalisation offers the discipline a challenge that it should relish Some of the field's top scholars from the UK
