Globalization Culture And Education For A New Millennium:

Globalization Marcelo Suarez-Orozco, Desiree B. Qin-Hilliard, 2004-04-01 Globalization defines our era While it has created a great deal of debate in economic policy and grassroots circles many aspects of the phenomenon remain virtual terra incognita Education is at the heart of this continent of the unknown This pathbreaking book examines how globalization and large scale immigration are affecting children and youth both in and out of schools Taking into consideration broad historical cultural technological and demographic changes the contributors all leading social scientists in their fields suggest that these global transformations will require youth to develop new skills sensibilities and habits of mind that are far ahead of what most educational systems can now deliver Drawing from comparative and interdisciplinary materials the authors examine the complex psychological sociocultural and historical implications of globalization for children and youth growing up today The book explores why new and broader global visions are needed to educate children and youth to be informed engaged and critical citizens in the new millennium Published in association with the Ross Institute Learning in the Global Era Marcelo Suarez-Orozco, 2007-10-15 In Learning in the Global Era Marcelo Suarez-Orozco has integrated a rich harvest of practical wisdom with cutting edge research in cognitive theory to produce an indispensable handbook for all who are grappling with the challenges of education in our rapidly changing world With their interdisciplinary approach and their attention to cultural diversity the essays are a treasure trove of insights and constructive approaches to which educators and policy makers will return again and again Mary Ann Glendon Harvard University President Pontifical Academy of Social Sciences Neither developed nor developing nations have begun to prepare young people for the demands of the global economy nor does schooling anywhere adequately respond to the massive migration of families whose home languages cultures and social structures differ from those in the new host nation Besides providing vivid and rigorous accounts of the shifting population patterns employment markets and cultural and political change this fascinating book presents promising educational innovations that put student engagement and the global context for learning at the center No other book so effectively joins emerging research on cognition and learning with the political and economic challenges of globalization Martha Minow Harvard Law School and co editor of Engaging Cultural Differences Learning in the Global Era is a masterful book Each of the essays exquisitely arranged and coordinated by the editor is a memorable example of rigorous interdisciplinary analysis and insight into emerging global issues The range of concerns from nurturing a global consciousness and appreciating the simultaneous cultural patterns that children develop in global cities often through their own migration to the effects of gender specific dilemmas in global classrooms makes this book a compendium for more than understanding a world which challenges many traditional assumptions But reading it does more it makes us mindful of the difficulty and also of the necessary creativity involved in learning and teaching today I am grateful for its lessons and the readers will be too Doris Sommer Harvard University Globalization is transforming entire economies and cultures but schools and schooling have not kept pace Marcelo Suarez-Villa has assembled a set of thoughtful and incisive essays by international experts that show how globalization makes it imperative to rethink and reform the education of children in every part of the planet Educating citizens in the advanced countries to understand global society and cultural differences increasing access to education in the developing world while teaching new skills finding ways to help immigrants adapt and succeed in their new surroundings all these essential tasks are addressed in this important book John H Coatsworth Columbia University How should this generation of youth the largest ever in human history be educated How do we make sure all youth have access to quality education What cognitive skills interpersonal sensibilities and ethical norms should be nourished in youth to live and thrive in our global world Learning in the Global Era addresses these and other questions with both scholarly rigor and humane concern It brings together leading international scholars including anthropologists cognitive scientists economists education scholars linguists neuroscientists and psychologists with extensive research experience in Africa Asia the Americas and Europe to examine the education of youth for the 21st Century It is a work that breaks new ground by locating learning and youth engagement in the ever more complex economic social and cultural realities that define the world's global cities Mary Robinson former President of Ireland and High Commissioner for Human Rights

Communication and the Globalization of Culture S. Nick Mohammed, 2011-09-16 Communication and the Globalization of Culture Beyond Tradition and Borders by Shaheed Nick Mohammed examines the modern and historical evolution of conceptualizations of culture as well as the concept of culture itself The book suggests that modern corporate globalized media technologies do not destroy culture but rather force us to re-think how we have conceptualized the differences uniqueness and similarities between the other and ourselves Culture, Transnational Education and Thinking Niranjana Casinader, 2014-04-24 The notion of thinking skills as a key component of a 21st century school education is now firmly entrenched in educational policy and curriculum frameworks in many parts of the world However there has been relatively little questioning of the manner in which educational globalisation has facilitated this diffusion of thinking skills curriculum and pedagogy in a cultural context This book will help to redress such an imbalance in its critical assessment of the cross cultural validity of transplanting thinking skills programs from one educational system to another on an international scale Culture Transnational Education and Thinking provides an international comparative study of the intersection of three educational concepts culture education and thinking Drawing on case studies from Malaysia South Africa and Australia USA for the purposes of comparative analysis the book employs the context of an international school program in the teaching of thinking skills Future Problem Solving Program International The book explores the associations between Future Problem Solving educators their cultural background and their approaches to thinking evaluating the relevance of transferring thinking skills programs derived in one cultural framework into another The book also discusses the wider implications of these cross cultural comparisons to curriculum and pedagogy within schools and higher education with a particular emphasis on the teaching of multicultural school based classes and cross cultural understandings in teacher education and professional development This book will be of relevance to academics and higher education students who have an interest in the fields of cross cultural and intercultural understanding comparative studies in education and theories and practices of cognition as well as the development of tertiary and secondary curricula and associated pedagogies that specifically acknowledge the cultural diversities of both teacher and learner
