Regional Economic Organizations and Conventional Security Challenges M. Leann Brown, 2017-11-22 Within the context of regional integration comparative regionalism organizational change and regional security literatures this book investigates three cases wherein regional economic organizations were confronted with conventional security threats the 1978 91 Association of Southeast Asian Nations Vietnam Standoff the 1990 Economic Community of West Africa Liberian Civil War Challenge and the 1990 91 European Communities Balkans Crisis While the literature suggests multiple possible explanations for regional economic organizations response to these security challenges including systemic and power related factors organizational factors and functional needs and cognitive and social factors the author argues that the decision to transform a regional economic organization into a conventional security actor is most influenced by decision makers perceptions of threat and functional necessity

Strategic Minilateralism and the Regional Security Architecture of the Indo-Pacific Thomas S. Wilkins, Regional Security in Southeast Asia Mely Caballero-Anthony, 2005 The book examines ASEAN s mechanisms in managing challenges and threats to regional security Its extensive analyses of the ASEAN story of managing regional security cover the different phases of ASEAN s development as a regional organization and explore the perceptible changes that have occurred in regional mechanisms of conflict management The book also examines the roles of relevant actors beyond the states of ASEAN and the key interactions that have evolved over time which have been instrumental in moving regional mechanisms beyond the ASEAN way The book argues that the ASEAN way has not been impervious to change As the association finds its way through periods of crises and continues to confront the many challenges ahead ASEAN and its mechanisms are already being transformed beyond the narrow confines of the modalities associated with the ASEAN way The changes in the political and security landscape of the region as well as the democratic transitions taking place in some member states have set the stage for a much more dynamic set of regional actors and processes that bring into question the kind of regionalism that is now taking place in the region This book therefore attempts to capture these evolving dynamics and examines the way regionalism is changing in Southeast Asia     Reinventing Regional Security Institutions in Asia and Africa Kei Koga, 2016-12-08 Regional security institutions play a significant role in shaping the behavior of existing and rising regional powers by nurturing security norms and rules monitoring state activities and sometimes imposing sanctions thereby formulating the configuration of regional security dynamics Yet their security roles and influence do not remain constant Their raison d'être objectives and functions experience sporadic changes and some institutions upgrade military functions for peacekeeping operations while others limit their functions to political and security dialogues The question is why and how do these variances in institutional change emerge This book explores the mechanisms of institutional change focusing on regional security institutions led by non great powers It constructs a theoretical model for institutional change that provides a new understanding of their changing roles in regional security which has yet to be fully explored in the International Relations field In so doing the book illuminates why when and how each organization restructures its role function and influence Using case studies of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations ASEAN the Economic Community of West African States ECOWAS and the Organization of African Unity OAU African Union AU it also sheds light on similarities and differences in institutional change between regional security institutions     Transboundary Water Resources: Strategies for Regional Security and Ecological Stability Hartmut Vogtmann, Nikolai Dobretsov, 2005-07-26 After the sovjet era and since their independence the new Central Asian countries are rebuilding a system of water resources management an important challenge for the development of the whole region The NATO workshop held on 25-27 August 2003 by the Federal Agency for Nature Conservation Germany and the Siberian Branch of the Russian Academy of Science attended by experts from five Central Asian countries Russia six Western European countries the US and the UNEP offered water engineers and nature scientists as well as economic and political scientists and practitioners from water administrations and international river commissions to meet in Novosibirsk and develop sustainable approaches in the management of Central Asian water resources This book presents important aspects of transboundary water resources i.e. the global water crisis problems and perspectives regional experiences in solving water problems in Central Asia problems and management of transboundary water resources ecological and economic aspects of water management scientific analysis and tools of water changes strategic implications of water access arisen during the workshop A final recommendation in the area of equitable sharing of benefits monitoring and data collection as well as proposals for Central Asia transboundary waters programme were set in the book as the main result of the meeting     The Nexus of Economics, Security, and International Relations in East Asia Avery Goldstein, Edward D. Mansfield, 2012-08-29 While over the last 30 years the global economy's center of gravity has shifted to East Asia the region has remained surprisingly free of interstate military conflict Yet this era of peace and growth has been punctuated by periodic reminders of enduring security problems in the region from China's military modernization to unresolved territorial disputes to persistent tensions on the Korean peninsula This volume is one of the first to treat these issues of economics and security as interconnected rather than separate Its authors leading scholars from the U S and China shed new light on this important nexus by applying insights from a rich variety of approaches to explore and explain the dynamics of a region whose importance for students of both international political economy and international security has grown dramatically They show that both economic and security fundamentals matter if one is to understand the reasons for and evaluate the durability of East Asia s recent peace and prosperity

The Economy-security Nexus in Northeast Asia T. J. Pempel, 2013 The dynamics of Northeast Asia have traditionally been considered primarily in military and hard security terms or alternatively along their economic dimensions This book argues that relations among the states of Northeast Asia are far more comprehensible when the mutually shaping interactions between economics and security are considered simultaneously It examines these interactions and some of the key empirical questions they pose the answers to which have important lessons for international relations beyond Northeast Asia Contributors to this volume analyze how the states of the region define their security and how bilateral relations in hard security issues and economic linkages play out among Japan China and the two Koreas Further the chapters interrogate how different patterns of techno nationalist development affect regional security ties and the extent to which closer economic connections enhance or detract from a nation s self perceived security The book concludes by discussing scenarios for the future and the conditions that will shape relations between economics and security in the region This book will be welcomed by students and scholars of Asian politics Asian economics security studies and political economy

Leadership: Political-economic, Regional Business And Socio-community Contexts Tai Wei Lim, 2020-03-20. Political leadership styles in East Asian states are shaped and influenced by a number of domestic factors. These factors include the type of political system that an East Asian state adopted from their days of independence and decolonization. There is a diverse array of political systems in the region ranging from Western style liberal democracies like Japan and South Korea to autocratic one party states like North Korea. Most other East Asian countries adopt systems somewhere in between these two polar ends. This volume begins with a macro political perspective of leadership. It then looks at case studies of political leadership and the factors that influence the shape and outcome of leadership styles in the region. The book also examines the concept of community leadership and its impact on community well being. Several specific case studies are examined in depth. While examining political leadership from a macro theoretical and empirical perspective, the book also adopts historical anthropological perspectives to analyse case studies. The case studies also examine policy formulation and implementation to look at the role of government in handling community level issues. Finally, the book focuses on economic leadership in international political economy and global business. Regional Security Governance in Post-Soviet Eurasia Igor Davidzon, 2021-10-06. This book explores post Soviet Eurasian regional security governance as embedded in the military alliance of Collective Security Treaty Organization (CSTO). CSTO was established in 2002 and consists of six post Soviet countries: Russia, Belarus, Armenia, Tajikistan, Kazakhstan, and Kyrgyzstan. Moving studies of regional security governance beyond the so-called Eurocentrism trend expressed inter alia via the focus on Western military alliance such as NATO, this book examines CSTO as a new post Soviet form of regional security cooperation by looking at the reasons and drivers behind the establishment of the post Soviet Eurasian security governance, the organization's institutional design, the military capabilities of its member states, the degree of the members' integration within the alliance, the cooperation pattern adopted by CSTO members, as well as the effect and effectiveness of this military alliance. Regional Organisations and Security Stephen Aris, Andreas Wenger, 2013-10-30. This book aims to examine the conceptions and practices of security adopted by Regional Organisations (ROs) across the globe. Since the end of the Cold War, there has been an increased focus on regions as a relevant realm for security with actors within regional contexts identifying a significant degree of interdependency between one another As a consequence international security has taken on a distinct regionally institutionalised character as seen by the increase in calls for greater utilisation of Chapter VIII Regional Arrangements of the UN in order to create a devolved UN led system of global security management However the idea of a system of global security management is a remote prospect because divergence seems to be as important as commonality in terms of regional security In light of the above Regional Organisations and Security analyses the primary ROs that are active in Africa Asia Eurasia the Middle East and South America The findings of individual case studies are compiled to highlight disparities and similarities in how security is seen prioritised understood practised managed and implemented across regions On this basis the authors reach conclusions about whether we live in an increasingly globalised or regionally distinct world and go on to assess the prospects for a globalised system of security management and consider how this might be developed and organised This book will be of interest to students of comparative regionalism international organisations international security and IR

Contested Ideas of Regionalism in Asia Baogang He, 2016-09-13

Deepening regionalism in Asia demands new leadership Strong elites who are committed to a supranational identity are a minimum requirement of successful regionalism Regional leaders are increasingly seen as a new set of leaders in Europe Currently Asian regional leaders largely come from the diplomacy community or trade and economic sectors Yet further regionalization demands a new type of leadership from civil society and citizens In this context it is important to cultivate new regional leadership through the development of regional citizenship This book examines contested ideas of regionalism in Asia with a particular focus on two competing ideas of pan Asianism and Pacificism It also identifies a new trend and contestation the fundamental shift from a civilization understanding of regionalism to a technocratic and functional understanding of regionalism in the form of regulatory regionalism It also examines the other contested imaginations of regionalism in Asia including elitist versus participatory approaches to regionalism and democracy centric versus nationalism centric approaches to regionalism
