The Geography of the Third World Michael

Pacione,2012-08-06 First published in 1988 this reissue presents a comprehensive overview of contemporary developments and research into the geography of the Third World at a time when economies and societies there were changing at a much more rapid rate than their counterparts in the developing world It covers the topic both systematically and by region showing how the unique background of each region affects developments there

Urbanisation and Planning in the Third World Robert Potter,2012-08-06 First published in 1985 this book reconsiders the whole question of urbanisation and planning in the Third World It argues that public involvement which is now an accepted part of Western planning should be used more in Third World cities It shows that many inhabitants of Third World cities are migrants from rural areas and have very definite ideas about what the function of the city should be and what it ought to offer and it goes on to argue that therefore a planning process which involves more public participation would better serve local needs and would do much more to solve problems than the contemporary approach

Urban And Regional Analysis For Development Planning

Economic Planning and Social Justice in Developing Countries Ozay Mehmet,2014-05-12 First published in 1978

this book was written at a time when belief was high in Western guided economic development of the emerging countries The success of Marshall Plan in war torn Europe generated a US led optimism that with generous inflows of aid and technical assistance the Third World could be won over in the Cold War The author s direct experience as a young academic economist in Cyprus Malaysia Uganda and Liberia led him to question this general optimism the reality on the ground in the developing world did not seem to match Western optimism Theories and blueprints made in the West did not fit the requirements of developing countries Higher production and better income distribution were inseparable twin objectives of developing nations That meant production of a higher national output must at the same time promote social justice Investment must create adequate jobs so that new entrants into rapidly expanding labor force could be gainfully employed Yet the dominant Western theories of development at the time in particular the Trickle Down Theory of Growth prescribed Growth First Distribution Later strategy Similarly Import Substitution Industrialization theories were emphasized at the expense of export led growth Dualistic Growth theories preached urban biased anti rural development This book was written as a rebuttal of such faulty theorizing and misguided professional technical assistance and the book s message is no less valid today than in the 1970 s

Life Space and Economic Space: Third World Planning in Perspective John Friedmann, John Friedmann is internationally known for his pathbreaking work in urban and regional development planning theory Life Space and Economic Space contains some of his most original and controversial essays on spatial and territorial development in the low income countries of the world The essays focus on a conflict he considers fundamental to human existence that conflict between life space and economic space By life space Friedmann means the bounded territories over which we strive to exert some degree of self governance and which constitute the human habitat By economic space he means the ubiquitous global space of market relations Friedman demonstrates the implications of his theoretical position in a number of ways he examines development in Southeast Asia introduces the notion of world cities and presents a politico territorial model of rural development which he calls agropolitan The analysis extends in wide ranging fashion from the space of global relations to the most intimate space of the household economy which when linked to other households constitutes the economy of the barrio or neighborhood In a chapter proposing a dual track model of development he sketches a model of the barrio economy drawn from Latin American experience and based on social mobilization collective self empowerment and political action Friedmann perceives a global crisis which he traces to the dissolution of territorial relations This he believes results from penetration of the global system of markets into the remotest corners of the world undermining traditional cultures and ways of life The consequence is incipient breakdown he asserts and we need to repoliticize space and subordinate the power of capital to the collective will of people organized to work toward common ends This deliberately provocative collection of essays includes an autobiographical fragment providing contextual information about the author

Regional Development Rameshwar Prasad Misra, 1982 Monographic collection of essays on regional development and regional
