Fanshen David Hare, 1976 The folder may include clippings announcements small exhibition catalogs and other ephemeral items Fanshen David Hare, 1983 Fanshen David Hare, 1976 The Plays of David Hare Carol Homden, 1995-03-09 This 1995 book examines the work of David Hare including screenplays and the plays he has written for the Royal National Theatre Critical Theory and Performance Janelle G. Reinelt, Joseph R. Roach, 1992 The first comprehensive survey of the major critical currents and approaches in the lively field of performance studies The Oxford Guide to Plays Michael Patterson, 2007 Anyone with an academic professional amateur or recreational interest in the theatre is likely to want to look up details of particular plays sometimes perhaps to check on the author or on when they were first performed or perhaps to see how many characters they have and whether or not they would be suitable for their theatre company or drama group to perform The Oxford Dictionary of Plays provides essential information on the 1000 best known best loved and most important plays in world theatre Each entry includes details of title author date of composition date of first performance genre setting and the composition of the cast and more A synopsis of the plot and a brief commentary perhaps on the context of the play or the reasons for its enduring popularity follow Around 80 of the most significant plays from The Oresteia to Waiting for Godot are dealt with in more detail Genres covered include burlesque comedy farce historical drama kabuki masque melodrama morality play mystery play No romantic comedy tragicomedy satire and tragedy An index of characters enables the reader to locate favourite characters and trace the trajectory of major historical and legendary characters such as Iphigenia through world drama including in plays that do not have entries in the Dictionary An index of playwrights with dates allows the reader to find all the plays included by a particular author A Politic Theatre: The Drama of David Hare Scott Fraser, 2022-06-08 This analysis of twenty published texts by David Hare employs definitions from contemporary semiotic literary theory as a means of describing typologies of political drama By tracing the incorporation of stylistic devices from agitational propaganda caricature self referentiality the frisson between oral and visual signification throughout the typologies the study illustrates how each text subverts audience expectation based on established dramatic genres The collection of texts is seen as inherently self referential and politically subversive At the centre of each typology is a protagonist who functions as a martyr to or parodic emblem of contemporary society Consistently the hermeticism of public institutions which represent the political status quo makes them immune from any form of individual protest from the Left or Right In the satirical anatomy the emblem of political dissent is coopted by involvement within the institution or the stage is dominated by a conservative who controls the action In the demythology private individuals are seen as incapable of altering the public frame of history but here private suffering subverts the collective mythology of the historical construct In the martyrology the emblem of dissent is associated with a moral virtue which is inimical to contemporary society the audience's expectation of the triumph of the individual being subverted when he she is expelled from the onstage world on the grounds of political ideology It is only in the final typology the conversion that a conservative emblem is seen as directly influenced by such martyrdom and the audience is provided with an actual example of political change Thus the study describes how each typology builds on the construction of the previous and all generate from agitational propaganda

David Hare Herh Zeifman, 2019-07-15 Learning that David Hare has written sixteen stage plays eight collaborations and eleven screenplays for film and television one might be surprised by the fact that this leading English artist is not yet fifty years old He was only twenty two when his first play was performed by the Portable Theatre and he was a major voice on the British stage before he was thirty The present volume is the first major collection of essays devoted to Hare and its editor Herh Zeifman who is a professor at York University Toronto is well qualified to assemble and supervise such a significant undertaking As co editor of the prestigious journal Modern Drama he has been exposed to all the major authors and topics of modern theatre and is ideally positioned to discern Hare's pivotal role on the contemporary stage

Performance and Politics in Popular Drama David Bradby, Louis James, Bernard Sharratt, 1980 Since the beginning of the nineteenth century many forms of theatre have been called popular but in the twentieth century the term popular drama has taken on definite political overtones often indicating a repudiation of commercial theatre Does this mean that political theatre is or tries to be more attractive to more people than commercial theatre Does it conversely mean that commercial theatre has no political effects The articles in this book were submitted as papers for a conference on the theme of popular theatre film and television Contributions came from people with very different types of experience from an ex animal trainer to a lecturer in film studies from playwrights directors and actors to professional critics and academics Each author focused on a particular problem of defining drama in performance drawing together the conditions of performance the types of audience and the political effects of the plays or films in question The result was a series of fruitful connections and juxtapositions that shows the remarkable continuity of the problems raised in attempts to create a popular political drama
