contributions in the Africa Region (2019-2021) Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2022-05-20 This report is a synthesis of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations FAO Office of Evaluation OED on evaluations completed from 2019 to 2021 on FAO's work in the Africa region. It documents FAO's contribution to results, identifies gaps and emerging issues and lessons learned. The synthesis is organized around the themes of sustainable production and value chain development, food security and nutrition, climate change and natural resources, resilience to threats and crises, and gender equality and empowerment of women. The synthesis used the Programme Priority Areas of the Strategic Framework 2022-2031 to analyse FAO's contribution to results, finding many positive examples in the Africa region. However, the sustainability of results is a challenge for the region due to several factors, including capacity constraints of government partners and limitations of FAO project designs. Gaps and emerging issues include the need for guidance on accelerators of results, addressing youth as a key priority, and new approaches to partnerships with civil society and the private sector. Lessons learned include the importance of good project design, suitably capacitated decentralized offices, effective knowledge management, and strategic and inclusive partnerships to achieve results. Guide to Country Information in International Governmental Organization Publications American Library Association. Government Documents Round Table, 1996 Seed Policy and Programmes for the Central and Eastern European Countries, Commonwealth of Independent States and Other Countries in Transition, 2001-01-01 This publication presents the proceedings of a FAO regional technical meeting held in Hungary in March 2001. In line with the Rome Declaration on World Food Security and the World Food Summit Plan of Action, the meeting recognised that a key challenge facing most central and Eastern European countries is the need to invest significant resources to increase the availability of good quality seed of a wider range of plant varieties. Achieving food system resilience & equity in the era of global environmental change Albie F. Miles, Valarie Blue Bird Jernigan, Philip Dobie, Anja Gassner, Casey Hoy, Noa Kekuewa Lincoln, Kathleen Merrigan, Jennifer Sowerwine, Samina Raja, 2023-02-27 FAO in the Front Line of Development Edouard Saouma, Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 1993 The Right to Food Guidelines, Democracy and Citizen Participation Katharine S. E. Cresswell Riol, 2016-11-10 It is now more than a decade since the Right to Food Guidelines were negotiated, agreed and adopted internationally by states. This book provides a review of its objectives and the extent of success of its implementation. The focus is on the first key guideline: Democracy, good governance, human rights, and the rule of law, with an emphasis on civil society participation in global food governance. The five BRICS countries: Brazil, Russia, India, China, and South Africa are presented as case studies representing major emerging economies; they blur the line between the Global North and South and exhibit different levels of human rights realisation. The book first provides an overview of the right to adequate food, accountability, and democracy, and an introduction to the history of the development of the right to adequate food and the Right to Food Guidelines. It presents a historical synopsis of each of the BRICS states' experiences with the right to adequate food and an analysis of their related periodic reporting to the Committee on Economic Social and Cultural Rights as well as a specific assessment of their progress in regard to the first guideline The discussion then focuses on the effectiveness of the Right to Food Guidelines as both a policy making and monitoring tool based on the analysis of the guidelines and the BRICS states

Land governance in Latin America and the Caribbean Cerrato, A., Ramirez, M., Hackbart, R.,2022-03-25 The effects of the crisis generated by the coronavirus pandemic continue to evolve and hit our societies hard In the case of LAC land tenure is at the heart of its development this issue like no other has caused wars displacement social conflicts corruption hunger and poverty In particular extreme inequality in access to and control of land is one of the great unsolved problems in LAC it is at the same time the cause and consequence of highly polarized social structures that have fed and continue to feed the political crises that are currently suffering greatly in their countries With public policies that continue to ignore this structural challenge it will not be possible to reduce the economic and social inequality that the pandemic has only come to reveal and exacerbate with greater brutality and neither will it be possible to achieve the recovery with transformation echoed by speeches today from various sectors to his rebellion and subsequent events The Sunken Billions World Bank, Food and Agriculture Organization, 2009-02-25

The Sunken Billions The Economic Justification for Fisheries Reform shows the difference between the potential and actual net economic benefits from marine fisheries is about 50 billion per year or some 2 trillion over the last three decades If fish stocks were rebuilt the current marine catch could be achieved with approximately half the current global fishing effort This illustrates the massive overcapacity of the global fleet The excess competition for the limited fish resources results in declining productivity economic inefficiency and depressed fisher incomes The focus on the deteriorating biological health of world fisheries has tended to obscure their equally critical economic health Achieving sustainable fisheries presents challenges not only of biology and ecology but also of managing political and economic processes and replacing pernicious incentives with those that foster improved governance and responsible stewardship Improved governance of marine fisheries could regain a substantial part of this annual economic loss and contribute to economic growth Fisheries governance reform is a long term process requiring political will and consensus vision built through broad stakeholder dialogue Reforms will require investment in good governance including strengthening marine tenure systems and reducing illegal fishing and harmful subsidies Realizing the potential economic benefits of fisheries means reducing fishing effort and capacity To offset the associated social adjustment costs successful reforms should provide for social safety nets and alternative economic opportunities for affected communities Latin America and the Caribbean Regional Overview of Food Security and Nutrition 2024

Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, IFAD, PAHO, UNICEF, WFP, 2025-01-27 Latin America and the Caribbean have seen a decline in hunger and food insecurity for two years driven by social protection programs and post COVID recovery However disparities persist especially among women rural populations and vulnerable groups The region is unlikely to meet most nutrition targets and healthy diets remain expensive Climate variability is increasing in the region affecting food security across availability access utilization and stability This climate impact reduces agricultural productivity disrupts food supply chains and raises food prices Vulnerable populations are most affected with changing diets further exacerbating the situation Climate change is worsening food security and the causes of malnutrition

Aid Dependence in Cambodia Sophal Ear, 2013. Dr Ear argues that the international community has chosen to prioritize political stability above all other governance dimensions and in so doing has traded a modicum of democracy for an ounce of security. Focusing on post 1993 Cambodia, Ear explores the unintended consequences in post conflict environments of foreign aid. He chooses Cambodia both for personal reasons which infuses an academic analysis with a compelling sense of urgency and because it is one of the most aid-drenched countries in modern history. He tries to explain the relationship between Cambodia's aid dependence and its appallingly poor governance. He concludes that despite decades of aid, technical cooperation, four national elections, no open warfare and some progress in some parts of the economy, Cambodia is one broken government away from disaster.
