Far Eastern Trade, 1860-1914 Francis Edwin Hyde, 1973 Africa, Asia, and South America Since 1800 A. J. H. Latham, 1995 A reference for graduate and undergraduate students presenting the bibliographic details and sometimes describing and evaluating the content of over 5 000 books in English most published since 1945 and many quite recently but also some earlier works of enduring importance A section of works on all three continents is followed by sections on each which first consider the continent as a whole then each country usually by chronological periods and topics such as economics politics and society Indexed only by author and editor but the table of contents is detailed enough to provide adequate access Distributed in the US by St Martin s Press Annotation copyright Book News Inc Portland Or The American Merchant Experience in Nineteenth Century Japan Kevin C. Murphy, 2004-08-02 American merchants established trading firms in the ports of Yokohama Kobe and Nagasaki which operated from 1859 1899 until the repeal of the Unequal Treaties Members of a privileged semi colonial community the merchants formed the largest group of Americans in 19th century Japan In this first book length treatment of this group Kevin Murphy explores their interactions with the Japanese in the treaty port system how the Japanese leadership manipulated them to its own ends and how the merchants themselves defined the limitations of American business in Japan through their ambiguous but deep concern with order and opportunity restraint and dominance and conservatism and dominance Japan's Industrialization in the World Economy: 1859-1899 Shinya Sugiyama, 2013-12-17 An analysis of Japan s industrialization in an international historical and economic perspective from the time that her ports were first opened to foreign trade First published in 1988 this title is part of the Bloomsbury Academic Collections series France and Germany in the South China Sea, c. 1840-1930 Bert Becker, 2021-07-02 This book explores imperial power and the transnational encounters of shipowners and merchants in the South China Sea from 1840 to 1930 With British Hong Kong and French Indochina on its northern and western shores the Asian Mediterranean was for almost a century a crucible of power and an axis of economic struggle for coastal shipping companies from various nations Merchant steamers shipped cargoes and passengers between ports of the region Hong Kong the global port city and the colonial ports of Saigon and Haiphong developed into major hubs for the flow of goods and people while Guangzhouwan survived as an almost forgotten outpost of Indochina While previous research in this field has largely remained within the confines of colonial history this book uses the examples of French and German companies operating in the South China Sea to demonstrate the extent to which transnational actors and business networks interacted with imperial power and the process of globalisation Culture and Commerce in Conrad's Asian Fiction Andrew Francis, 2015-04-23 Andrew Francis Culture and Commerce in Conrad's Asian Fiction is the first book length critical study of commerce in Conrad s work It reveals not only the complex connections between culture and commerce in Conrad s Asian fiction but also how he employed commerce in characterization moral contexts and his depiction of relations at a point of advanced

European imperialism Conrad's treatment of commerce Arab Chinese and Malay as well as European is explored within a historically specific context as intricate and resistant to traditional readings of commerce as simple and homogeneous Through the analysis of both literary and non literary sources this book examines capitalism colonialism and globalization within the commercial political and social contexts of colonial Southeast Asia Across the Oceans Seija-Riitta Laakso,2007-09-28 In the early 19th century the only way to transmit information was to send letters across the oceans by sailing ships or across land by horse and coach Growing world trade created a need and technological development introduced options to improve general information transmission Starting in the 1830s a network of steamships railways canals and telegraphs was gradually built to connect different parts of the world The book explains how the rate of information circulation increased many times over as mail systems were developed Nevertheless regional differences were huge While improvements on the most significant trade routes between Europe the Americas and East India were considered crucial distant places such as California or Australia had to wait for gold fever to become important enough for regular communications The growth of passenger services especially for emigrants was a major factor increasing the number of mail sailings The study covers the period from the Napoleonic wars to the foundation of the Universal Postal Union UPU and includes the development of overseas business information transmission from the days of sailing ships to steamers and the telegraph

Cultures in Contact Dirk Hoerder,2002-11-21 Analysis of migrations regional interregional continent wide and global and the resulting cultural interactions and societal changes

Japanese History & Culture from Ancient to Modern Times John W. Dower,1986

Chinese Mine Labour in the Transvaal Peter Richardson,1982-06-18

The China Question T. G. Otte,2007-04-05 A global study of British policy over the China Question from 1894 1905 emphasizing the connections between European and overseas developments and encompassing diplomatic commercial financial and strategic factors as well as the politics of foreign policy

Battles for the Standard Ted Wilson,2017-11-01 This title was first published in 2000 This is a history of the monetary developments in the international economy of the 19th century It reviews the monetary developments in the core economies of the period Britain the United States France Germany and also India Particular attention is given to the expansion of the gold standard in the context of the intense national and international debates about the role of precious metals and the author also examines the conflict between supporters of gold silver and bimetallism both in terms of competing financial and economic theories and in terms of the varying social and cultural backgrounds that informed them The main thrust of the work is that the sheer plurality of ideas and contexts helped to ensure the eventual victory of the gold standard despite the inherent superiority of bimetallic systems

The Diplomacy of Involvement David M. Pletcher,2001 Annotation Like its predecessor this important new work is focused on the connection between trade and investment on the one hand and U S foreign policy on the other David Pletcher describes the trade of the United States with the Far East the islands of the Pacific and the northwest coast of North America from 1784 the year of the first American trading expedition to China to 1844 the year of the first trade treaty with China followed immediately by the U S acquisition of Oregon and California He then traces the growth of trade and investment in Alaska Hawaii and the South Pacific from 1844 to 1890 and proceeds to do the same for China Japan and Korea In the ensuing chapters Pletcher covers the 1890s including the annexation of Hawaii the Sino Japanese War the acquisition of the Philippines and the Open Door policy in China He concludes that the American expansion across the Pacific and into the Far East was not a deliberate consistent drive for economic hegemony but a halting experimental improvised movement carried out against determined opposition and indifference and dotted with setbacks and failures Providing his own judgments about the wisdom and effectiveness of America s new endeavors Pletcher summarizes the problems and handicaps involved demonstrating that errors of the twentieth century were at least partly the result of poor preparation in the 1880s and 1890s Touching on every place where Americans undertook significant economic activity The Diplomacy of Involvement will be an important aid for seasoned scholars as well as an excellent introduction for the novice

Opium Regimes Timothy Brook, Bob Tadashi

Wakabayashi, 2000-09-18 Opium Regimes draws on a range of research to show that the opium trade was not purely a British operation but involved Chinese merchants and state agents and Japanese imperial agents as well

Port and Harbour Engineering Adrian Jarvis, 2016-12-05 During the 19th century the engineering of ports and harbours became a large and specialised branch of the profession This development began in ports in physically difficult locations and may be particularly identified with the growth of the Port of Liverpool Stimulated by the arrival of ever larger steamships and the heavy investment in port facilities that they demanded it spread around much of the world The opening papers give examples of what could be achieved in antiquity the following ones set out the advances in design and technology from 1700 to the start of this century and note some of the failures and recurrent problems They also illustrate the critical importance of political and economic factors in determining what the engineers achieved

British Economic and Social History R. C.

Richardson, William Henry Chaloner, 1996 From Wheel House to Counting House Lewis R. Fischer, 2017-10-18 This volume is dedicated to Maritime Business History by means of commemorating the career of Professor Peter Neville Davies a prominent member of the Economic and Social History department of the University of Liverpool a career spanning the dates 1964 1992 The volume is divided into four sections The first is a tribute and appreciation of Professor Davies which also acts as an introduction to his work for unfamiliar readers The second section focuses on business aspects of British maritime history with particular attention to the impact of British shipping overseas and the rise and decline of shipbuilding industries The third section is specific to Liverpool and Merseyside and explores the local maritime history of the area including trade with the Mediterranean local shipbuilding the Mersey port system and nautical archaeology The final section explores subjects within international maritime history particularly within Norway and America All essays and topics covered aim to collectively and significantly develop the field of maritime business history and all are directly related to Professor Davies

academic interests as a means of celebrating Professor Davies own accomplishments during his career The journal concludes with a comprehensive bibliography of Professor Davies work Japanese Shipping and Shipbuilding in the Twentieth Century Peter Davies,2009-12-01 Britain s foremost scholar of the international shipping industry based at the Centre for Port and Maritime History University of Liverpool here examines the growth and development of Japan s modern shipping and shipbuilding industries across a wide range of topics through the pre war Pacific War and post war periods to the transfer of shipping technology the role of bulk carriers and world trade and the organization and structure of the Japanese merchant navy Prompted originally by his research into the decline of the British industries in a global context his focus inevitably turned to Japan which in the post war years had replaced Britain as the world s largest ship operators and ship owners and remains so today Capital and Knowledge in Asia Heidi Dahles,Otto van den Muijzenberg,2003-09-02 Global economic integration widening communication networks and government policies supportive of private enterprise are changing opportunities for accumulating wealth status and power In varying degrees throughout Asia this process is accompanied by the development of service enterprises such as banking insurance legal firms and IT firms which provide access to the resources required for a profitable connection to the wider world This book focuses on the key role played by producer services in shaping new business areas and new patterns for social mobility and their interdependence with the State as either a facilitator of or an obstacle to the emergence and flourishing of the new professions The Royal Navy, China Station: 1864 - 1941 Jonathan Parkinson,2018-02-20 A definitive history of the Royal Navy s China Station In the The Navy List for April 1864 the China Station was first shown as a separate Royal Navy Station It remained as such until the outbreak of the Pacific War in December 1941 which was to signal the end of that era In addition to a precis of the lives and naval careers of each of the Commanders in Chief of the China Station this volume also gives relevant information outlining something of the concurrent internal affairs of China and Japan Both are very different but sad tales the former in decline towards the end of the Manchu Ch ing dynasty and then into the chaotic 1920 s and 1930 s and the latter increasingly adopting a militaristic attitude which was to result in their disaster of the Pacific War of 1941 1945 As a reminder of these days long gone are interwoven brief references to the British Consular Service This is especially relevant for China and for a shorter period for Japan during that era of extraterritoriality Mention is also made of the British Colonial Service with whom necessarily the Navy worked very closely In addition being one important reason for it all frequent references are made to a few British shipping and trading interests together with those of some other nations All of these areas are linked together to give a definitive history of this very important Royal Navy Station
